Young Mother Is Beaten to Death As Husband Dozes in Nearby Room

Brinkley, Ark., Dec. 13 (AP)—An attractive young mother was blundgeoned to death in her bed yesterday while her husband dozed in a nearby room.

The brutal slaying touched off a huge manhunt—for a tall, barefooted man—that was resumed at daybreak today after tapering off to patrol activity during the night.

Mrs. Milton Fuller, 28, was found dying next to her bed shortly after dawn by her husband, who had been dozing in the living room. She died two hours later in a Brinkley hospital.

Her head had been smashed with a four-foot-long 2x2 piece of stove wood. She was sleeping in a room next to her daughters, Mary Helen, 5, and Kathy, 18 months.

Brinkley Police Chief Frank Henderson said "five to eight" Negroes, all formerly connected with the Fuller family, have been jailed.

Henderson said one of the Negroes wore a bloody shirt, which is being sent to Little Rock today for examination by State Medical Examiner Dr. Anderson Nettleship. The Negro, Henderson claims, said he bled on the shirt Friday when he got a nosebleed.

STATE POLICE meanwhile, have issued a pickup order for a six-foot tall white man, wearing a khaki overcoat and believed to be minus one shoe.

Henderson theorized that the motive of the brutal slaying was robbery, and that Mrs. Fuller was killed because she awakened and recognized the intruder.

Bare footprints were found in the back yard near a barbecue pit woodpile, where it is believed the killer found his weapon, and barefoot mud tracks were found on the kitchen floor, Henderson said.

The Fuller family physician, Dr. W. L. Walker, reported Mrs. Fuller had not been raped. But he said there was a chance rape had been attempted.

Fuller, owner of the Buick agency in this cotton country town of about 4,000 persons, said a noise in his wife's bedroom about 7 a. m. awakened him in the living room, where he had fallen asleep while reading a newspaper. He said his wife's body toppled to the floor as he entered the room.

A LIGHT SLEEPER, he said he had awakened about 4:30 a. m., gone about three blocks to downtown Brinkley for a cup of coffee and the morning papers, and then fell asleep when he returned.

He said he had a brief conversation with his wife before he left, asking her where her keys were.

Newsboys and an unidentified woman gave state police their description of the wanted man. Two newsboys told one story to police and a boy in a separate talk gave substantially the same identification of a man seen leaving the Fuller yard.

The woman said she saw a man running and looking back over his shoulder at about the estimated time of the slaying.

SAFE TO TAKE OFF WRAPS AGAIN—With the Massachusetts deer season ended Saturday, Ralph Ward decides it's safe to take the cover off his deer statue near his diner at Athol, Mass. He got tired of trigger-happy hunters taking a pot shot at it so kept it covered this season. Archers take over in the woods next week but Ward thinks they are more inclined to look before they shoot, so he plans to leave the statue uncovered. (AP Wirephoto)

Safety Also Considered One Factor

Crossings Given As Added Reason

Railroad crossings were cited in a recent letter to Mayor Frederick H. Stang as a main reason for opposition to proposed extension of bus service to the areas of Colonial Gardens and the county infirmary, the mayor revealed today.

Attorney Louis P. Francello, of Saugerties, presenting views of the Kingston City Transportation Corp., in a letter dated Dec. 10 said a "safety and time problem" is involved because of the Flatbush and Foxhall avenue crossings."

Passage of the buses over the crossings, the letter said, would "not only cause a probable increase in our insurance rates, but also would make it difficult to obtain such insurance. There is a great deal of switching done at these locations, particularly at the Flatbush crossing, which would seriously interfere with the maintenance of a time schedule."

THE LETTER SAID the bus company "has made an extensive survey and investigation of the problem, and unfortunately arrives at the conclusion that such extended service is not practical at the present time. . . ."

It cited, among other reasons, in opposing the extension, that about three miles of travel would be involved. "Therefore, it would be impossible for the present bus, which operates over Hasbrouck avenue, to digress and take in this additional territory. The time schedule would not permit it."

The other alternative, it said, "would be to allocate a separate bus for this run. In addition to the bus, the hiring of the additional drivers for its operation would be necessary. This, unquestionably, would be financially impractical at the present time."

It concluded: "The Kingston City Transportation Corp., has always tried to give the best of service to the residents of the City of Kingston. We have always kept this in mind, but on the other hand, the financing of bus companies today is very precarious. We are doing everything possible to maintain service in the City of Kingston. In the future, if any changes are brought about, which would alter these present reasons for not extending service, we shall be only too glad to re-assess the situation."

Mayor Stang said he had conferred with Attorney Francello and Thomas J. Gadd, vice president and general manager of the local bus company, on the proposed extension of bus service, prior to receiving the letter, and they then mentioned in substance the same reasons for opposing the proposal.

President, GOP Leaders Discuss Foreign Affairs

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—A meeting of President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders took an unexpected turn today with a 45-minute discussion of foreign affairs.

The President called the GOP leaders to the White House to outline the administration's 1955 legislative proposals. Eisenhower had indicated in advance—though he did not say so specifically—the meeting would deal with domestic issues.

IN ANNOUNCING plans for the meeting at his news conference last Wednesday, the President also disclosed Democratic leaders who will be in charge of the new Congress will join Republicans at a conference tomorrow to discuss foreign policy.

The chief executive pledged after the November elections, which gave the Democrats control, there would be bipartisan consultation on international affairs.

At that time the President also said he intended to confer with the Democrats on domestic issues. Since then the White House has placed less emphasis on that phase of the program.

An hour and a half after the start of today's meeting with the Republican leaders, Secretary of State Dulles left the White House and told newsmen he had just spent 45 minutes briefing the GOP chiefs on foreign affairs. He declined to provide any details.

IN RESPONSE to questions, Dulles said Secretary of Defense Wilson took over as the speaker when he left.

Republican Senate leader Knowland of California, who has split with the administration on some foreign policy questions, said in advance of today's meeting he expected its scope would be limited mainly to domestic issues.

Knowland said also the legislative proposals put forward by the President may determine whether the GOP wins or loses in 1956. Eisenhower was expected to repeat some of the rejected or never-acted-on proposals he made to the GOP-dominated 83rd Congress.

THESE INCLUDE such controversial recommendations as that for new presidential tariff cutting authority under the reciprocal trade agreements act, reinsurance of private health plans, Hawaiian statehood, lowering of the voting age to 18, government pay increases linked to postal rate boosts and revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

In addition to these measures, the President may be ready with recommendations for a start on the big transcontinental road building program he broached to the nation's governors last summer.

He also faced the necessity of recommending a new housing program, since the last Congress provided only one-year authority to build 35,000 public housing units, instead of the four-year program of 140,000 he had proposed.

There was a possibility that an increase of the present 57-cents-an-hour minimum wage might come under discussion.

THE PRESIDENT also might talk about taxes. Some excises and the present corporation rates are due to drop on April 1.

Rep. Bolling (D.-Mo.) said (Continued on Page 19, Col. 5)

Natural Gas Break Is Discovered

No Interruption Is Experienced Here

Counter measures taken by the utility resulted in no interruption in service to gas users in the Kingston and Saugerties areas, served by the transmission line, it was explained by Edwin T. Strong, division manager, and Arthur W. Buddenhagen, resident manager for Kingston.

THE ONLY EFFECT of the break apparent to customers was the fact that the gas supplied while the break was being by-passed burned with a yellow color rather than the usual blue flame.

The break first became apparent to Central Hudson employes with pressure dropped on the transmission line at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

The Kingston Point gas works was placed into operation, producing high-BTU oil gas to supply the requirements of Kingston and Saugerties.

FROM A "COLD START" the gas works, held on stand-by basis, was producing sufficient manufactured gas to meet the demands within a two-hour period, according to Strong. In the meantime, natural gas stored as the gas works was used to supply customers without interruption.

Encountering difficulties due to the fact that the line at the point where the break occurred was under sand, plus the hampering tides at the mouth of the creek, Central Hudson crews ascertained that there was more than one break in the line.

ONE OF THE BREAKS was repaired by 10 p. m. Sunday, and (Continued on Page 20, Col. 4)

Peiping Hits Out At 'Interference'

United Nations, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and his aides settled down today to a spell of watchful waiting for an answer from Red China on Hammarskjold's proposed free-the-fliers trip to Peiping.

There was no comment immediately from UN officials on a Peiping radio broadcast early today asserting that the United Nations "has no right to interfere with China's sentencing of the American spies."

THE BROADCAST, monitored in Tokyo, made no direct reference to Hammarskjold's cable to Premier Chou En-Lai Friday night proposing that they meet in Peiping soon after Dec. 26 to discuss the case of the fliers and all other UN personnel still held captive.

The radio blast repeated Peiping's previous charges, which the Soviet Union had aired in the UN Assembly, that the jailed Americans had "sneaked into China by air to carry out espionage" and that "it is China's . . . sovereign right of punishing spies."

In authorizing Hammarskjold to seek the release of the airmen and other imprisoned UN personnel, the UN Assembly approved the U. S. contention that they were prisoners of war entitled to release under the Korean armistice.

REGARDING PEIPING'S failure so far to reply to Hammarskjodl's cable, a UN spokesman said last night that the secretary general would not be disappointed if several days elapsed before a formal answer came.

"The answer may come directly, it may come roundabout," the spokesman said.

He added that it was too soon to think about setting a deadline by which the Chinese could be expected to reply.

Some diplomats in Washington thought the Chinese would agree to the trip. State Department officials indicated they were keeping hands off, with full confidence in the course the UN secretary general was taking.

In addition to the secretary general's cable to Chou, lines into Peiping were being kept open through Sweden and India.

Hammarskjold's nephew Peder is Swedish charge d'affaires in Peiping. India has an ambassador there and has mediated before, notably on the prisoner issue that held up the Korean armistice.

India's Prime Minister Nehru was reported waiting for the return of his UN Ambassador V. K. Krishna Menon to New Delhi tomorrow before deciding how open India's role should be in the fliers' case.

Missing Man Is Found in Camp

Fleischmanns, Dec. 13 (AP)—A former medical student missing for 10 weeks was found yesterday in a summer children's camp on a rugged mountainside in the Catskills.

State police said that Leroy G. Murch, 28, of Goshen, was weak and cold. He was given emergency treatment at Margaretville Hospital and then transferred to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Albany.

Troopers said that Murch told them he had lived on apples, greens and food taken from camps since he disappeared into the woods Oct 1. Trooper R. J. Charlton estimated the man had lost about 50 pounds.

Charlton said Murch gave no explanation for his disappearance, but the trooper said he indicated that financial troubles may have played a part.

STATE POLICE said the bearded Murch had $42 in his pockets when four troopers surrounded him as he slept beneath a pile of blankets and quilts in the closed children's camp. They reported he readily admitted his identify.

The troopers said Murch was a graduate of the medical school at Syracuse University and had interned in New York, but had given up the medical career to become a carpenter in Goshen.

Garrett Is Given Fugitive Warrant

Galveston, Tex., Dec. 13 (AP)—Alabama's attorney general, Silas Garrett III, today was served with a fugitive warrant charging he killed Albert L. Patterson, attorney general-elect of Alabama.

Galveston county Sheriff O. E. Henson served the fugitive warrant.

JULES DAMIANI, first assistant Galveston county atty. said the fugitive warrant charged Garrett "unlawfully and with malice aforethought killed Albert L. Patterson by shooting him with a gun."

Serving of the warrant on Garrett had been expected since Saturday. It had to wait pending the arrival from Alabama of a certified copy of the indictment against him.

Doctors at the hospital where Garrett is being treated have said he is too sick to be moved.

Women Are Sent To Bellevue for Psychiatric Tests

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Patricia Ricco, 30, and Media Rainey, defendants in an alleged plot to kill Mrs. Ricco's husband for his insurance and other expected damages, were sent to Bellevue Hospital today for psychiatric examination.

Mrs. Ricco, Miss Rainey and Mrs. Ann Sabella, sister of Miss Rainey, all entered pleas of innocent to a criminal information alleging they conspired to kill James Ricco.

Ricco, who has maintained that his wife is innocent, stared intently at her during the court appearance, but she did not look at him after the first greeting.

Justice Hoffman set Jan. 5 as a tentative date for the next court appearance of the three women.

All Agencies Turn on Heat To Promote Safe Driving

Chicago, Dec. 13 (AP)—The nation's mobile millions today headed for an extraordinary test of their ability to drive and walk safely for 24 hours.

The test comes Wednesday. It has been designated "Safe Driving Day."

Motorists and pedestrians in communities across the country are being alerted by newspaper stories, radio broadcasts, modern Paul Reveres in sound trucks, parades, posters and handbills.

President Eisenhower proclaimed S-D Day. It is sponsored by the President's Action Committee for Highway Safety.

The purpose is to reduce traffic accidents greatly to show that it can be done. The reduction has not been specified. The goal, at least, is a big slash and, at best, no accidents at all.

The committee has let each community make its own how-to-do-it arrangements. Some seem to be doing very little. Others are making a major event of it. There never has been anything quite like it.

Many cities have challenged other cities to S-D day contests. Thousands of bumper strips and stickers have been distributed.

Plans have been made to ring church bells, voice "be careful" pleas through loud speakers—even to pause and pray.

An Associated Press survey shows what many communities have done and plan to do.

School kids brought home safety letters in Providence, R. I. Literature is being distributed through schools in Kansas. Truck and bus stickers and 10,000 arm bands have been issued in Miami, Fla.

Reminders in poster, bumper strip or leaflet form have been passed out in Madison, Wis., Rochester, N. Y., and Norfolk, Richmond and Roanoke, Va.

Hudson Has Costly Fire

Hudson, Dec. 13 (AP)—A combination business and apartment building was destroyed and five similar structures damaged yesterday by a fire in the heart of Hudson's shopping district. The loss was placed at $75,000 to $100,000.

Two women and two firemen were overcome by smoke and two other firefighters injured battling the early morning blaze.

Six Hudson fire companies and two from neighboring communities fought the fire for about seven hours.

Fire Chief Daniel Bartholomew, who estimated the loss, said the fire started on an outside stairway at the rear of 614-616 Warren street. The cause was not determined.

Dog and Deer Have Death Fight

A fight to the death between a mongrel dog and a deer stranded helplessly on the ice of the Esopus creek near Glenerie lake attracted considerable attention on Sunday afternoon.

Observers told troopers that the dog went after the deer and injured him considerably, but that the deer finally killed the dog.

Trooper Howard Burgess of the Kingston station walked out on the ice, which was thin in spots, shot the wounded deer and placed a rope on the carcasses. With the assistance of James Hodges, garageman of the area, the animals were dragged to shore.

Lattimore Attorneys Seek Dismissal of Indictment

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Owen Lattimore's attorneys sought in court arguments today to knock out a new two-count indictment against the controversial far eastern specialist.

They contended in advance briefs that "the sole issue . . . would be Lattimore's opinion of his opinions," but U. S. Dist. Atty. Leo A. Rover replied that the legal attack on the indictment "can be reduced to an objection to the mere fact that he was indicted."

The hearing sent Rover once more before District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, whom he had accused earlier in an affidavit of having "a fixed personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Lattimore and against the government. Youngdahl struck Rover's affidavit from the record as "scandalous" and refused to disqualify himself from hearing the case.

The new indictment alleges that Lattimore lied when he told the senate internal security subcommittee in 1952 that he (1) had never been a follower of the Communist line and (2) had never been a promoter of Communist interests.

Man, 22, Is Auto Victim

The body of George E. Barringer, 22, of Alligerville was found by state highway department workers this morning in the wreckage of an automobile that had crashed into a tree stump along Route 209 near Accord during the night.

Investigation by state police of the Ellenville station, sheriff's deputies and Coroner Charles Rosenstock indicated that the accident occurred sometime between midnight and 2 a. m. today.

BARRINGER'S BODY was not discovered until about 7:30 a. m. when a state highway department crew under Jacob DeWitt stopped to investigate.

Earlier passersby either failed to see the wrecked vehicle due to its position or assumed it was an abandoned wreck, police theorized.

Dr. Rosenstock, the coroner, said death was due to shock and drainage.

Troopers and sheriff's men said Barringer apparently had been driving in a southerly direction and failed to negotiate the sweeping curve on Route 209 just south of the Howard Anderson garage near Accord.

Natural Gas Break Is Discovered

Counter measures taken by the utility resulted in no interruption in service to gas users in the Kingston and Saugerties areas, served by the transmission line, it was explained by Edwin T. Strong, division manager, and Arthur W. Buddenhagen, resident manager for Kingston.

THE ONLY EFFECT of the break apparent to customers was the fact that the gas supplied while the break was being by-passed burned with a yellow color rather than the usual blue flame.

The break first became apparent to Central Hudson employes with pressure dropped on the transmission line at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

The Kingston Point gas works was placed into operation, producing high-BTU oil gas to supply the requirements of Kingston and Saugerties.

FROM A "COLD START" the gas works, held on stand-by basis, was producing sufficient manufactured gas to meet the demands within a two-hour period, according to Strong. In the meantime, natural gas stored as the gas works was used to supply customers without interruption.

Encountering difficulties due to the fact that the line at the point where the break occurred was under sand, plus the hampering tides at the mouth of the creek, Central Hudson crews ascertained that there was more than one break in the line.

ONE OF THE BREAKS was repaired by 10 p. m. Sunday, and

Garrett Is Given Fugitive Warrant

Galveston, Tex., Dec. 13 (AP)—Alabama's attorney general, Silas Garrett III, today was served with a fugitive warrant charging he killed Albert L. Patterson, attorney general-elect of Alabama.

JULES DAMIANI, first assistant Galveston county atty. said the fugitive warrant charged Garrett "unlawfully and with malice aforethought killed Albert L. Patterson by shooting him with a gun."

Serving of the warrant on Garrett had been expected since Saturday. It had to wait pending the arrival from Alabama of a certified copy of the indictment against him.

Doctors at the hospital where Garrett is being treated have said he is too sick to be moved.

Women Are Sent To Bellevue for Psychiatric Tests

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Patricia Ricco, 30, and Media Rainey, defendants in an alleged plot to kill Mrs. Ricco's husband for his insurance and other expected damages, were sent to Bellevue Hospital today for psychiatric examination.

Mrs. Ricco, Miss Rainey and Mrs. Ann Sabella, sister of Miss Rainey, all entered pleas of innocent to a criminal information alleging they conspired to kill James Ricco.

Ricco, who has maintained that his wife is innocent, stared intently at her during the court appearance, but she did not look at him after the first greeting.

Justice Hoffman set Jan. 5 as a tentative date for the next court appearance of the three women.

All Agencies Turn on Heat To Promote Safe Driving

Chicago, Dec. 13 (AP)—The nation's mobile millions today headed for an extraordinary test of their ability to drive and walk safely for 24 hours.

The test comes Wednesday. It has been designated "Safe Driving Day."

Motorists and pedestrians in communities across the country are being alerted by newspaper stories, radio broadcasts, modern Paul Reveres in sound trucks, parades, posters and handbills.

President Eisenhower proclaimed S-D Day. It is sponsored by the President's Action Committee for Highway Safety.

The purpose is to reduce traffic accidents greatly to show that it can be done. The reduction has not been specified. The goal, at least, is a big slash and, at best, no accidents at all.

The committee has let each community make its own how-to-do-it arrangements. Some seem to be doing very little. Others are making a major event of it. There never has been anything quite like it.

Many cities have challenged other cities to S-D day contests. Thousands of bumper strips and stickers have been distributed.

Plans have been made to ring church bells, voice "be careful" pleas through loud speakers—even to pause and pray.

An Associated Press survey shows what many communities have done and plan to do.

School kids brought home safety letters in Providence, R. I. Literature is being distributed through schools in Kansas. Truck and bus stickers and 10,000 arm bands have been issued in Miami, Fla.

Reminders in poster, bumper strip or leaflet form have been passed out in Madison, Wis., Rochester, N. Y., and Norfolk, Richmond and Roanoke, Va.

Hudson Has Costly Fire

Hudson, Dec. 13 (AP)—A combination business and apartment building was destroyed and five similar structures damaged yesterday by a fire in the heart of Hudson's shopping district. The loss was placed at $75,000 to $100,000.

Two women and two firemen were overcome by smoke and two other firefighters injured battling the early morning blaze.

Six Hudson fire companies and two from neighboring communities fought the fire for about seven hours.

Fire Chief Daniel Bartholomew, who estimated the loss, said the fire started on an outside stairway at the rear of 614-616 Warren street. The cause was not determined.

Dog and Deer Have Death Fight

A fight to the death between a mongrel dog and a deer stranded helplessly on the ice of the Esopus creek near Glenerie lake attracted considerable attention on Sunday afternoon.

Observers told troopers that the dog went after the deer and injured him considerably, but that the deer finally killed the dog.

Trooper Howard Burgess of the Kingston station walked out on the ice, which was thin in spots, shot the wounded deer and placed a rope on the carcasses. With the assistance of James Hodges, garageman of the area, the animals were dragged to shore.

Lattimore Attorneys Seek Dismissal of Indictment

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP) — Owen Lattimore's attorneys sought in court arguments today to knock out a new two-count indictment against the controversial far eastern specialist.

They contended in advance briefs that "the sole issue . . . would be Lattimore's opinion of his opinions," but U. S. Dist. Atty. Leo A. Rover replied that the legal attack on the indictment "can be reduced to an objection to the mere fact that he was indicted."

The hearing sent Rover once more before District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, whom he had accused earlier in an affidavit of having "a fixed personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Lattimore and against the government. Youngdahl struck Rover's affidavit from the record as "scandalous" and refused to disqualify himself from hearing the case.

The new indictment alleges that Lattimore lied when he told the senate internal security subcommittee in 1952 that he (1) had never been a follower of the Communist line and (2) had never been a promoter of Communist interests.

Man, 22, Is Auto Victim

The body of George E. Barringer, 22, of Alligerville was found by state highway department workers this morning in the wreckage of an automobile that had crashed into a tree stump along Route 209 near Accord during the night.

Investigation by state police of the Ellenville station, sheriff's deputies and Coroner Charles Rosenstock indicated that the accident occurred sometime between midnight and 2 a. m. today.

BARRINGER'S BODY was not discovered until about 7:30 a. m. when a state highway department crew under Jacob DeWitt stopped to investigate.

Earlier passersby either failed to see the wrecked vehicle due to its position or assumed it was an abandoned wreck, police theorized.

Dr. Rosenstock, the coroner, said death was due to shock and drainage.

Troopers and sheriff's men said Barringer apparently had been driving in a southerly direction and failed to negotiate the sweeping curve on Route 209 just south of the Howard Anderson garage near Accord.

Bus Company Cites Costs In Opposing New Routes

Safety Also Considered One Factor

Crossings Given As Added Reason

Railroad crossings were cited in a recent letter to Mayor Frederick H. Stang as a main reason for opposition to proposed extension of bus service to the areas of Colonial Gardens and the county infirmary, the mayor revealed today.

Attorney Louis P. Francello, of Saugerties, presenting views of the Kingston City Transportation Corp., in a letter dated Dec. 10 said a "safety and time problem" is involved because of the Flatbush and Foxhall avenue crossings."

Passage of the buses over the crossings, the letter said, would "not only cause a probable increase in our insurance rates, but also would make it difficult to obtain such insurance. There is a great deal of switching done at these locations, particularly at the Flatbush crossing, which would seriously interfere with the maintenance of a time schedule."

THE LETTER SAID the bus company "has made an extensive survey and investigation of the problem, and unfortunately arrives at the conclusion that such extended service is not practical at the present time. . . ."

It cited, among other reasons, in opposing the extension, that about three miles of travel would be involved. "Therefore, it would be impossible for the present bus, which operates over Hasbrouck avenue, to digress and take in this additional territory. The time schedule would not permit it."

The other alternative, it said, "would be to allocate a separate bus for this run. In addition to the bus, the hiring of the additional drivers for its operation would be necessary. This, unquestionably, would be financially impractical at the present time."

It concluded: "The Kingston City Transportation Corp., has always tried to give the best of service to the residents of the City of Kingston. We have always kept this in mind, but on the other hand, the financing of bus companies today is very precarious. We are doing everything possible to maintain service in the City of Kingston. In the future, if any changes are brought about, which would alter these present reasons for not extending service, we shall be only too glad to re-assess the situation."

Mayor Stang said he had conferred with Attorney Francello and Thomas J. Gadd, vice president and general manager of the local bus company, on the proposed extension of bus service, prior to receiving the letter, and they then mentioned in substance the same reasons for opposing the proposal.

Arkansas Seeks Killer

Brinkley, Ark., Dec. 13 (AP)—An attractive young mother was blundgeoned to death in her bed yesterday while her husband dozed in a nearby room.

Mrs. Milton Fuller, 28, was found dying next to her bed shortly after dawn by her husband, who had been dozing in the living room. She died two hours later in a Brinkley hospital.

Her head had been smashed with a four-foot-long 2x2 piece of stove wood. She was sleeping in a room next to her daughters, Mary Helen, 5, and Kathy, 18 months.

Brinkley Police Chief Frank Henderson said "five to eight" Negroes, all formerly connected with the Fuller family, have been jailed.

Henderson said one of the Negroes wore a bloody shirt, which is being sent to Little Rock today for examination by State Medical Examiner Dr. Anderson Nettleship. The Negro, Henderson claims, said he bled on the shirt Friday when he got a nosebleed.

STATE POLICE meanwhile, have issued a pickup order for a six-foot tall white man, wearing a khaki overcoat and believed to be minus one shoe.

Henderson theorized that the motive of the brutal slaying was robbery, and that Mrs. Fuller was killed because she awakened and recognized the intruder.

Bare footprints were found in the back yard near a barbecue pit woodpile, where it is believed the killer found his weapon, and barefoot mud tracks were found on the kitchen floor, Henderson said.

The Fuller family physician, Dr. W. L. Walker, reported Mrs. Fuller had not been raped. But he said there was a chance rape had been attempted.

Fuller, owner of the Buick agency in this cotton country town of about 4,000 persons, said a noise in his wife's bedroom about 7 a. m. awakened him in the living room, where he had fallen asleep while reading a newspaper. He said his wife's body toppled to the floor as he entered the room.

A LIGHT SLEEPER, he said he had awakened about 4:30 a. m., gone about three blocks to downtown Brinkley for a cup of coffee and the morning papers, and then fell asleep when he returned.

He said he had a brief conversation with his wife before he left, asking her where her keys were.

Newsboys and an unidentified woman gave state police their description of the wanted man. Two newsboys told one story to police and a boy in a separate talk gave substantially the same identification of a man seen leaving the Fuller yard.

The woman said she saw a man running and looking back over his shoulder at about the estimated time of the slaying.

Peiping Hits Out At 'Interference'

United Nations, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and his aides settled down today to a spell of watchful waiting for an answer from Red China on Hammarskjold's proposed free-the-fliers trip to Peiping.

There was no comment immediately from UN officials on a Peiping radio broadcast early today asserting that the United Nations "has no right to interfere with China's sentencing of the American spies."

THE BROADCAST, monitored in Tokyo, made no direct reference to Hammarskjold's cable to Premier Chou En-Lai Friday night proposing that they meet in Peiping soon after Dec. 26 to discuss the case of the fliers and all other UN personnel still held captive.

The radio blast repeated Peiping's previous charges, which the Soviet Union had aired in the UN Assembly, that the jailed Americans had "sneaked into China by air to carry out espionage" and that "it is China's . . . sovereign right of punishing spies."

In authorizing Hammarskjold to seek the release of the airmen and other imprisoned UN personnel, the UN [illegible]ably approved the U. S. con[illegible]ion that they were prisoners of war entitled to release under the Korean armistice.

REGARDING PEIPING'S failure so far to reply to Hammarskjodl's cable, a UN spokesman said last night that the secretary general would not be disappointed if several days elapsed before a formal answer came.

"The answer may come directly, it may come roundabout," the spokesman said.

He added that it was too soon to think about setting a deadline by which the Chinese could be expected to reply.

Some diplomats in Washington thought the Chinese would agree to the trip. State Department officials indicated they were keeping hands off, with full confidence in the course the UN secretary general was taking.

In addition to the secretary general's cable to Chou, lines into Peiping were being kept open through Sweden and India.

Hammarskjold's nephew Peder is Swedish charge d'affaires in Peiping. India has an ambassador there and has mediated before, notably on the prisoner issue that held up the Korean armistice.

India's Prime Minister Nehru was reported waiting for the return of his UN Ambassador V. K. Krishna Menon to New Delhi tomorrow before deciding how open India's role should be in the fliers' case.

Missing Man Is Found in Camp

Fleischmanns, Dec. 13 (AP)—A former medical student missing for 10 weeks was found yesterday in a summer children's camp on a rugged mountainside in the Catskills.

State police said that Leroy G. Murch, 28, of Goshen, was weak and cold. He was given emergency treatment at Margaretville Hospital and then transferred to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Albany.

Troopers said that Murch told them he had lived on apples, greens and food taken from camps since he disappeared into the woods Oct 1. Trooper R. J. Charlton estimated the man had lost about 50 pounds.

Charlton said Murch gave no explanation for his disappearance, but the trooper said he indicated that financial troubles may have played a part.

STATE POLICE said the bearded Murch had $42 in his pockets when four troopers surrounded him as he slept beneath a pile of blankets and quilts in the closed children's camp. They reported he readily admitted his identify.

The troopers said Murch was a graduate of the medical school at Syracuse University and had interned in New York, but had given up the medical career to become a carpenter in Goshen.

President, GOP Leaders Discuss Foreign Affairs

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—A meeting of President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders took an unexpected turn today with a 45-minute discussion of foreign affairs.

The President called the GOP leaders to the White House to outline the administration's 1955 legislative proposals. Eisenhower had indicated in advance—though he did not say so specifically—the meeting would deal with domestic issues.

IN ANNOUNCING plans for the meeting at his news conference last Wednesday, the President also disclosed Democratic leaders who will be in charge of the new Congress will join Republicans at a conference tomorrow to discuss foreign policy.

The chief executive pledged after the November elections, which gave the Democrats control, there would be bipartisan consultation on international affairs.

At that time the President also said he intended to confer with the Democrats on domestic issues. Since then the White House has placed less emphasis on that phase of the program.

An hour and a half after the start of today's meeting with the Republican leaders, Secretary of State Dulles left the White House and told newsmen he had just spent 45 minutes briefing the GOP chiefs on foreign affairs. He declined to provide any details.

Republican Senate leader Knowland of California, who has split with the administration on some foreign policy questions, said in advance of today's meeting he expected its scope would be limited mainly to domestic issues.

Knowland said also the legislative proposals put forward by the President may determine whether the GOP wins or loses in 1956. Eisenhower was expected to repeat some of the rejected or never-acted-on proposals he made to the GOP-dominated 83rd Congress.

THESE INCLUDE such controversial recommendations as that for new presidential tariff cutting authority under the reciprocal trade agreements act, reinsurance of private health plans, Hawaiian statehood, lowering of the voting age to 18, government pay increases linked to postal rate boosts and revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

In addition to these measures, the President may be ready with recommendations for a start on the big transcontinental road building program he broached to the nation's governors last summer.

He also faced the necessity of recommending a new housing program, since the last Congress provided only one-year authority to build 35,000 public housing units, instead of the four-year program of 140,000 he had proposed.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Viola E. Harlow, who passed away 25 year ago today December 13, 1929.

She had a nature you could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold.
To those who knew her and loved her
Her memory will never grow cold, if ever a loved one existed, if ever a sweeter rose grew,
Darling Viola it was you.

Hugh S. Gibson Dies in Geneva

HUGH S. GIBSON

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 13 (AP) — Hugh S. Gibson, retired veteran of U. S. diplomacy and director of a 24-nation committee to promote European migration, died yesterday from a heart attack. He was 71.

Praised last night by former President Herbert Hoover as "one of America's great public servants," Gibson had served as an envoy in posts around the world and taken part in numerous international conferences and projects from 1914 until he retired in 1938.

HE CAME OUT of retirement in 1952 to become director of the newly organized intergovernmental committee for European migration, with headquarters in Geneva. The organization arranged in two years for 230,000 Europeans to settle overseas, principally in North and South America and Australia. Plans are underway to move 143,000 abroad in 1955.

Hoover, informed of Gibson's death, said in New York, "he was a man of complete integrity and devotion to our country," adding, "he was trusted all over the world."

His son Michael, 25, was visiting in Paris when his father was stricken. The diplomat's wife died four years ago.

Travel on the full width of the road in the Catskill area where only two lines have been in use is scheduled for this week, but engineers are doubtful as to the opening of the Harriman-Suffern section by the end of this month.

State officials set the Dec. 20 date for opening of the Newburgh Harriman section following a tour of the section late last week. Engineers have also been aiming at opening the route to Suffern by Dec. 31. They did not indicate that meeting this date would be impossible, but they were doubtful whether work in that area could be sufficiently completed by that time.

The interchange system at Harriman provides for connections with Route 32 and 17 and will facilitate travel between here and New York.

Will Distribute Salk Vaccine If Tests Are Good

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis intends to make the Salk vaccine available for all of the nation's first and second grade pupils if last summer's tests show the drug is effective.

The announcement was made by the foundation yesterday. The University of Michigan is conducting evaluation of the tests and the report on the study is expected next spring.

Last Friday, Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh, the discoverer of the vaccine, said he has new evidence that his vaccine can create powerful, long-lasting protection against polio. He also said current experiments in the polio work might lead to the vaccines giving long-term protection against the common cold and influenza.

In its announcement yesterday, the foundation also said it had removed pregnant women from its original list of those scheduled to receive the vaccine.

Pope Is Reported To Be Better

Vatican City, Dec. 13 (AP)—Reliable informants in the Vatican said Pope Pius XII was somewhat weaker today, but a later official statement said his condition showed a slight improvement.

Any change for the worse in his condition would be the first since the collapse which brought him near death on Dec. 2. He has made a slow, but steady, gain ever since.

The reports, unofficial but reliable, from within the Vatican said the Pope was having difficulty in getting food down and seemed to be feeling the strain of yesterday's big event—consecration of his good friend Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini as archbishop of Milan.

A VATICAN COMMUNIQUE issued at 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m., EST) said:

"This morning a slight improvement was found in the health of the Holy Father. The Pontiff as usual devoted much of his time to prayer and work. Audiences with Msgrs. Domenico Tardini (prosecretary of state for ordinary affairs) and Angelo Dell' A'cqua (substitute secretary of State) took place today as usual.

Official reports in the past have been inclined to minimize the seriousness of the 78-year-old Pope's condition.

Belleayre Draws 2,000 on Sunday

An estimated 2,000 skiers and sightseers visited the Belleayre Mountain Ski Center Sunday, according to Arthur G. Draper, superintendent.

Although the crowd was not considered record-breaking for the center, Draper said it is believed to be the largest ever to turn out this early in the season.

Between 450 and 500 automobiles brought skiers and sightseers to the base of the slope, along with five buses from New York.

Visitors appeared to be "greatly impressed" at the new ski lodge facilities at Belleayre this year, and the new cafeteria "was going full blast," Draper said.

THE CHAIR and T-bar lifts were in full operation during the weekend, although the rope tow is not yet being used.

Lines of skiers waiting to ride the chair stretched out for considerable distance, and at one time there was a waiting period of 25 minutes, Draper said. At the T-bar lift, the waiting period was about eight minutes at the height of the day's activity, he said.

Draper noted that the large attendance appeared even though reports of ski conditions listed Belleayre as "fair," with the upper slopes as "poor." There is at present from one to six inches of base with an inch of packed powder on top, Draper said.

Lattimore . . .

Youngdahl had dismissed as too vague the key count of an earlier indictment which charged that Lattimore lied in denying that he was a Communist sympathizer or promoter on Red causes. The U. S. Court of Appeals upheld the dismissal by an 8-1 vote, but reinstated two other counts which Youngdahl had thrown out.

Should Youngdahl throw out the new indictment, the government presumably would appeal to higher courts. Should he sustain it, the trial might get under way Jan. 10 as now scheduled.

He showed me HOW TO DO IT . . . SAFELY!

Memoriam

In loving memory of Viola E. Harlow, who passed away 25 year ago today December 13, 1929.

She had a nature you could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold.
To those who knew her and loved her
Her memory will never grow cold, if ever a loved one existed, if ever a sweeter rose grew,
Darling Viola it was you.

Hugh S. Gibson Dies in Geneva

HUGH S. GIBSON

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 13 (AP) — Hugh S. Gibson, retired veteran of U. S. diplomacy and director of a 24-nation committee to promote European migration, died yesterday from a heart attack. He was 71.

Praised last night by former President Herbert Hoover as "one of America's great public servants," Gibson had served as an envoy in posts around the world and taken part in numerous international conferences and projects from 1914 until he retired in 1938.

HE CAME OUT of retirement in 1952 to become director of the newly organized intergovernmental committee for European migration, with headquarters in Geneva. The organization arranged in two years for 230,000 Europeans to settle overseas, principally in North and South America and Australia. Plans are underway to move 143,000 abroad in 1955.

Hoover, informed of Gibson's death, said in New York, "he was a man of complete integrity and devotion to our country," adding, "he was trusted all over the world."

His son Michael, 25, was visiting in Paris when his father was stricken. The diplomat's wife died four years ago.

Travel on the full width of the road in the Catskill area where only two lines have been in use is scheduled for this week, but engineers are doubtful as to the opening of the Harriman-Suffern section by the end of this month.

State officials set the Dec. 20 date for opening of the Newburgh Harriman section following a tour of the section late last week. Engineers have also been aiming at opening the route to Suffern by Dec. 31. They did not indicate that meeting this date would be impossible, but they were doubtful whether work in that area could be sufficiently completed by that time.

The interchange system at Harriman provides for connections with Route 32 and 17 and will facilitate travel between here and New York.

Will Distribute Salk Vaccine If Tests Are Good

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis intends to make the Salk vaccine available for all of the nation's first and second grade pupils if last summer's tests show the drug is effective.

The announcement was made by the foundation yesterday. The University of Michigan is conducting evaluation of the tests and the report on the study is expected next spring.

Last Friday, Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh, the discoverer of the vaccine, said he has new evidence that his vaccine can create powerful, long-lasting protection against polio. He also said current experiments in the polio work might lead to the vaccines giving long-term protection against the common cold and influenza.

In its announcement yesterday, the foundation also said it had removed pregnant women from its original list of those scheduled to receive the vaccine.

Pope Is Reported To Be Better

Vatican City, Dec. 13 (AP)—Reliable informants in the Vatican said Pope Pius XII was somewhat weaker today, but a later official statement said his condition showed a slight improvement.

Any change for the worse in his condition would be the first since the collapse which brought him near death on Dec. 2. He has made a slow, but steady, gain ever since.

The reports, unofficial but reliable, from within the Vatican said the Pope was having difficulty in getting food down and seemed to be feeling the strain of yesterday's big event—consecration of his good friend Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini as archbishop of Milan.

A VATICAN COMMUNIQUE issued at 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m., EST) said:

"This morning a slight improvement was found in the health of the Holy Father. The Pontiff as usual devoted much of his time to prayer and work. Audiences with Msgrs. Domenico Tardini (prosecretary of state for ordinary affairs) and Angelo Dell' A'cqua (substitute secretary of State) took place today as usual.

Official reports in the past have been inclined to minimize the seriousness of the 78-year-old Pope's condition.

Belleayre Draws 2,000 on Sunday

An estimated 2,000 skiers and sightseers visited the Belleayre Mountain Ski Center Sunday, according to Arthur G. Draper, superintendent.

Although the crowd was not considered record-breaking for the center, Draper said it is believed to be the largest ever to turn out this early in the season.

Between 450 and 500 automobiles brought skiers and sightseers to the base of the slope, along with five buses from New York.

Visitors appeared to be "greatly impressed" at the new ski lodge facilities at Belleayre this year, and the new cafeteria "was going full blast," Draper said.

THE CHAIR and T-bar lifts were in full operation during the weekend, although the rope tow is not yet being used.

Lines of skiers waiting to ride the chair stretched out for considerable distance, and at one time there was a waiting period of 25 minutes, Draper said. At the T-bar lift, the waiting period was about eight minutes at the height of the day's activity, he said.

Draper noted that the large attendance appeared even though reports of ski conditions listed Belleayre as "fair," with the upper slopes as "poor." There is at present from one to six inches of base with an inch of packed powder on top, Draper said.

Seven Officers Are Reassigned

Seven collection officers of the Internal Revenue Service, in the Kingston office, have been reassigned to other posts of duty, it was announced today.

The reassignments were in line with the district director's announcement Nov. 26, which said the need for shifting personnel was determined after a nationwide study of current and anticipated workloads.

Two of the collection officers are being reassigned as revenue agents in the Albany District between Dec. 17 and Jan. 10.

Each transfer from the Kingston office is on a voluntary basis and the employes will be reimbursed for travel expenses incurred for themselves and their immediate families as well as for the expense of transporting their household goods.

The district director did not list the names of those designated for transfer.

Lattimore . . .

Youngdahl had dismissed as too vague the key count of an earlier indictment which charged that Lattimore lied in denying that he was a Communist sympathizer or promoter on Red causes. The U. S. Court of Appeals upheld the dismissal by an 8-1 vote, but reinstated two other counts which Youngdahl had thrown out.

Should Youngdahl throw out the new indictment, the government presumably would appeal to higher courts. Should he sustain it, the trial might get under way Jan. 10 as now scheduled.

In loving memory of Viola E. Harlow, who passed away 25 year ago today December 13, 1929.

Hugh S. Gibson Dies in Geneva

HUGH S. GIBSON

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 13 (AP) — Hugh S. Gibson, retired veteran of U. S. diplomacy and director of a 24-nation committee to promote European migration, died yesterday from a heart attack. He was 71.

Praised last night by former President Herbert Hoover as "one of America's great public servants," Gibson had served as an envoy in posts around the world and taken part in numerous international conferences and projects from 1914 until he retired in 1938.

HE CAME OUT of retirement in 1952 to become director of the newly organized intergovernmental committee for European migration, with headquarters in Geneva. The organization arranged in two years for 230,000 Europeans to settle overseas, principally in North and South America and Australia. Plans are underway to move 143,000 abroad in 1955.

Hoover, informed of Gibson's death, said in New York, "he was a man of complete integrity and devotion to our country," adding, "he was trusted all over the world."

His son Michael, 25, was visiting in Paris when his father was stricken. The diplomat's wife died four years ago.

Travel on the full width of the road in the Catskill area where only two lines have been in use is scheduled for this week, but engineers are doubtful as to the opening of the Harriman-Suffern section by the end of this month.

State officials set the Dec. 20 date for opening of the Newburgh Harriman section following a tour of the section late last week. Engineers have also been aiming at opening the route to Suffern by Dec. 31. They did not indicate that meeting this date would be impossible, but they were doubtful whether work in that area could be sufficiently completed by that time.

The interchange system at Harriman provides for connections with Route 32 and 17 and will facilitate travel between here and New York.

Will Distribute Salk Vaccine If Tests Are Good

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis intends to make the Salk vaccine available for all of the nation's first and second grade pupils if last summer's tests show the drug is effective.

The announcement was made by the foundation yesterday. The University of Michigan is conducting evaluation of the tests and the report on the study is expected next spring.

Last Friday, Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh, the discoverer of the vaccine, said he has new evidence that his vaccine can create powerful, long-lasting protection against polio. He also said current experiments in the polio work might lead to the vaccines giving long-term protection against the common cold and influenza.

In its announcement yesterday, the foundation also said it had removed pregnant women from its original list of those scheduled to receive the vaccine.

Pope Is Reported To Be Better

Vatican City, Dec. 13 (AP)—Reliable informants in the Vatican said Pope Pius XII was somewhat weaker today, but a later official statement said his condition showed a slight improvement.

Any change for the worse in his condition would be the first since the collapse which brought him near death on Dec. 2. He has made a slow, but steady, gain ever since.

The reports, unofficial but reliable, from within the Vatican said the Pope was having difficulty in getting food down and seemed to be feeling the strain of yesterday's big event—consecration of his good friend Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini as archbishop of Milan.

A VATICAN COMMUNIQUE issued at 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m., EST) said:

"This morning a slight improvement was found in the health of the Holy Father. The Pontiff as usual devoted much of his time to prayer and work. Audiences with Msgrs. Domenico Tardini (prosecretary of state for ordinary affairs) and Angelo Dell' A'cqua (substitute secretary of State) took place today as usual.

Official reports in the past have been inclined to minimize the seriousness of the 78-year-old Pope's condition.

Although the crowd was not considered record-breaking for the center, Draper said it is believed to be the largest ever to turn out this early in the season.

Between 450 and 500 automobiles brought skiers and sightseers to the base of the slope, along with five buses from New York.

Visitors appeared to be "greatly impressed" at the new ski lodge facilities at Belleayre this year, and the new cafeteria "was going full blast," Draper said.

THE CHAIR and T-bar lifts were in full operation during the weekend, although the rope tow is not yet being used.

Lines of skiers waiting to ride the chair stretched out for considerable distance, and at one time there was a waiting period of 25 minutes, Draper said. At the T-bar lift, the waiting period was about eight minutes at the height of the day's activity, he said.

Draper noted that the large attendance appeared even though reports of ski conditions listed Belleayre as "fair," with the upper slopes as "poor." There is at present from one to six inches of base with an inch of packed powder on top, Draper said.

Seven Officers Are Reassigned

Seven collection officers of the Internal Revenue Service, in the Kingston office, have been reassigned to other posts of duty, it was announced today.

The reassignments were in line with the district director's announcement Nov. 26, which said the need for shifting personnel was determined after a nationwide study of current and anticipated workloads.

Two of the collection officers are being reassigned as revenue agents in the Albany District between Dec. 17 and Jan. 10.

Each transfer from the Kingston office is on a voluntary basis and the employes will be reimbursed for travel expenses incurred for themselves and their immediate families as well as for the expense of transporting their household goods.

The district director did not list the names of those designated for transfer.

Lattimore . . .

Youngdahl had dismissed as too vague the key count of an earlier indictment which charged that Lattimore lied in denying that he was a Communist sympathizer or promoter on Red causes. The U. S. Court of Appeals upheld the dismissal by an 8-1 vote, but reinstated two other counts which Youngdahl had thrown out.

Should Youngdahl throw out the new indictment, the government presumably would appeal to higher courts. Should he sustain it, the trial might get under way Jan. 10 as now scheduled.

Job Outlook Seen Rosy For College Graduates

By KENNETH O. GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — When commencement orations are over and the alma mater sung for the last time, college graduates will find their chances of securing decent jobs as good as ever.

The bright boys who have mastered slide rule technique in their engineering classes will continue to be the most sought after by private industry.

Both government and business sources paint an optimistic employment picture for the thousands of young men and women who are departing from their halls of ivy for the last time. In an open letter, Secretary of Labor James Mitchell assures the class of 1954 they have nothing to fear.

"Do not believe the John Dooms who will tell you that we are in for a depression, that hard times are ahead, that things are breaking up all over," says Mitchell, adding there are opportunities in America "which would be more than enough for twice your number."

U. S. EMPLOYERS HAVE been hustling to hire college grads with as much, if not more, vigor than in 1953, according to a survey by the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. And they are offering salaries $10 to $25 over levels of last spring.

Many of the 128 college and university placement offices questioned replied that employers are definitely more selective this year, however. The report also emphasized its findings refer to male and female graduates available for employment. From 40 to 90 per cent of the male seniors at various schools face early military call.

A Labor Department analysis also bears out good news for diploma armed job hunters. Here are some of the approximate starting salaries it and the Family Economics Bureau survey indicate they can expect to receive:

Engineering grads will draw the largest paychecks ranging from between $350 to $400 a month. This June's class of chemical electrical and mechanical wizards is the smallest since 1950 due to the manpower demands of the Korean War.

LIBERAL ARTS MEN will be able to find openings paying between $290 and $340 a month in management training courses of big corporations and in sales, finance and public accounting. Those specialized in such business techniques as accounting, advertising copywriting, market research, sales, statistics, insurance underwriting, and personnel management are especially wanted.

Yale University's placement bureau is disturbed over the extremely prosperous situation in which engineers find themselves. It reports that "salary increases for engineers are getting out of hand, and becoming too important a factor in the student's choice, as compared with more important factors such as company, reputation, training and promotion possibilities."

The atomic energy program offers a vast range of opportunities, according to Rear Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. In addition to physical scientists and engineers he says there is a demand for professional and managerial positions in banking, education, industrial hygiene, patents, social work, statistics and technical journalism.

CO-EDS CAN EARN their way in a variety of fields. There is a tremendous need for elementary and grade school teachers all over the country. On the high school level many vacancies exist in such subject fields as home economics, girl's health and physical education, agriculture, industrial arts and certain physical sciences.

Salaries for teachers continue to increase. During 1953-54 they averaged about $3600 for all classroom teachers, with 17 per cent averaging $4500 or more.

There is also a fair to good demand for women graduates in secretarial work, social services, recreational work, retailing, home economics, and in government offices. Banking has opened up for women since World War 2; about 45 per cent of all teller positions and seven per cent of all officer posts are held by women.

The end of the line

Why the West Shore Railroad will soon be forced to discontinue its passenger service

The West Shore Railroad and the Weehawken Ferry have been in the business of carrying commuters from their homes to their jobs and back again for the past 70 years.

In the last 25 years, 85% of the steady riders have abandoned the railroad, apparently deciding that other means of transportation could meet their needs better. Despite this, the railroad and the ferry have continued to operate for the convenience of the remaining 4,000 commuters, even though this meant losing more than $2,000,000 annually for the shareholders of the road.

Break-even point—100% fare increase!

For the West Shore line, the point of no return has long been passed. With operating costs spiraling rapidly and consistently, it would take a fare increase of more than 100% on the railroad and 300% on the ferry just to meet expenses.

This fare increase would accomplish nothing—other than chase away the remaining riders. So, with regret and reluctance, we announce our intention to apply to discontinue passenger service on this line—a procedure which usually takes several months to conclude.

The West Shore alone is not being singled out. The entire New York Central System is re-appraising all of its passenger services in the light of present-day economics.

For although the revenue of the System totalled $600,000,000 in the past 10 months, it is still in the red.

Our loss—$326 per passenger!

We feel that we must live up to our responsibility to the 40,000 shareholders of this railroad, most of them working people, and many of them commuters themselves. It seems unfair to ask them to subsidize the West Shore rail-ferry passengers at a yearly cost of $326 per rider.

With many other means of travel available, we're sure no one will find himself without good transportation service. New bridges and tunnels make city destinations increasingly accessible by automobile and bus.

Facts are facts—let's face them

The passing of a passenger service, like the death of any public landmark, is always a sad event. We hate to see this stalwart one say goodby to you, just as we —and many thousands of others—mourned the passing of the proud sidewheelers which churned up and down the Hudson. But the hard fact remains—this less-and-less-traveled stretch of road is a victim, like the sidewheeler, of the arithmetic of its times and the irresistibility of blunt economics.

A BALANCED BUDGET

A balanced federal budget is an objective any purposeful government should be eager to proclaim, and to pursue with energy. But, in this age of peril, even at best the goal is extremely difficult to achieve.

The Eisenhower administration set this aim from the start, but it has not yet been able to attain it. In the President's first year, the budget showed a $3 billion deficit. In the current fiscal year, prospects are for a deficit close to $4.7 billion.

And now Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey says there is no hope of bringing income and outgo into balance for the year which will begin next July 1. He doubts that the government can do more than hold the deficit somewhere below $3 billion.

This performance, measured against GOP campaign promises of 1952, perhaps will give the Democrats something to taunt their opponents with. Nevertheless, the achievement is considerable when placed beside the last complete budget of the Truman regime, which showed a deficit of $9.5 billion.

Defense and foreign aid spending, as always, form the hard nut that not even the most ambitious budget-balancer can crack. It is a question how much more these outlays could be reduced without gravely impairing the national security.

Indeed, some pretty powerful arguments are advanced for spending bigger sums than we do in this field. Asia is in pressing need of economic help. In the military sphere, Russia is believed well on the way to having enough nuclear weapons and bombers to deliver crushing blows against the United States.

Ironically, some of the Democrats who will be chiding the GOP on its budget-balancing promises are strongly convinced we should now be spending more.

But this is certainly not the vital point—whether the Administration's critics are consistent or not. What would seem to be important is that we do not make a balanced budget some sort of magic goal in itself.

We are in a tense struggle for survival. It is the first business of this or any other administration to do all possible to assure our survival. To put a fixed price on the effort we will make—to say we will spend no more than a stated sum—is to try for a sort of bargain-counter freedom.

Of course we do not wish to be bled white in this contest. But neither do we want to be caught in the counting house, squinting at a balance sheet, while free nations fall to communism and Russia stands poised with enough deliverable atomic might to smash liberty in its strongest bastion—the United States.

GENEROUS GESTURE

Sir Roger Makin, British ambassador to the United States, recently sent a $500 check to the fund being raised to restore the steeple of Old North Church in Boston. The money was contributed by members of the British embassy and other British citizens in this country as official representatives of their Queen.

The Old North Church was the site from which signals were fixed to send Paul Revere on his famous ride. The contribution from the British subjects in this country is a generous gesture and one which should help to strengthen the bonds of friendship between this country and Britain.

The old enmities have been forgotten. The British gesture is a reminder that a shrine to freedom, as the Old North Church is, can be honored by all free men whatever their differences may once have been.

People all over the world are inclined to gripe now and then about one thing or another. But only in a free land such as America can they do something about it. Which is reason enough to guard what we have lest someone try to take it away.

A new way to show state pride is illustrated by the publication of a history of Michigan, by Professor F. Clever Bald of the state university. This is published in accordance with the will of Dr. John M. Munson, a Michigan educator, who left his estate to the Michigan Historical Commission. This body was directed to have a history of the state written and published, as well as a history of education in Michigan.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

UNIVERSALISM

I recently listened to two speeches which impressed me profoundly. One was by Professor Gilbert Highet of Columbia University; the other by Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame.

The Highet speech was delivered to a Father-Son dinner at Columbia which was in itself a novelty for me. In my day, at the same institution, the only relationship that a father had to the university was that he signed his name to the checks, and that he was given two tickets to see his son get a diploma.

The idea of fathers and sons sitting down to turkey and the fixings among deans and other university big shots intrigued me and so I went, anticipating a trying evening. Instead I was delighted by a brilliant address on the pleasures of learning by a Scotsman who apparently has learned everything from Aristotle to the Japanese game of Go.

In these days of over-specialization, the universalist is rare. Sometimes he is called a humanist which I think is a dastardly word because it makes man the center of the universe, which he cannot be as long as God is. I like the word, universalist, as applied to the scholar whose mind is big enough to try to encompass the whole of human knowledge and experience, and whose spirit is so rich that it can impart an enthusiasm among the young to do more than to train for a livelihood.

Perhaps the reason why so many of our so-called great men seem so small, so cowardly at times, is that their reputation for greatness arises from their proficiency in the use of a particular tool.

A man may be Chairman of the Board of Directors of a bank or a general in the Army or a successful manufacturer of automobiles or a doctor or lawyer or anything without training his mind to think in universal, philosophic terms. While he can do his job excellently and achieve astonishing success, he may also be as stupid as a backward child about a great historic problem that ultimately can destroy our civilization and therefore him and all his achievements.

It is even difficult for him to understand how narrow his compass is because he is so elevated by his own success in his small world. This, Professor Highest conveyed to the young men when he opened to their view the glories of continuing civilizations and the richness of a life devoted to their understanding.

Father Hesburgh was addressing a private dinner on the program of changing curricula at Notre Dame where the various colleges are being made over on a theory apparently that an intelligent man can learn how to use tools, but he first needs to be intelligent. It is much easier to turn out a lawyer or an engineer than to fashion the mind of a man so that he understands why he is a lawyer or an engineer. It comes down to the question that runs through all the thinking in the Old Testament—What is man?

After all, if man is only a product of the tools he uses to earn his livelihood, Karl Marx was right. But if man is more than that, if he possesses understanding, personality, the capacity to differentiate between right and wrong, then he is a moral creature whose grounding is deep in the philosophy of the Judaic-Christian civilization.

Father Hesburgh did not put it that way but what came to me as he spoke was that Notre Dame is answering the challenge of Marxism, of the pragamatic, atheistic, materialistic concepts so current throughout the world that science is the be-all and end-all of human effort, that man can survive as a civilized being without moral consciousnes. Science is, after all, a tool, a technique, a method of discovering items in a complicated cosmos. The question is, what does one do with the vast treasury of data that science discloses; how is it all to be related to the life and growth of man?

Philosophy points the way to a synthesis of human knowledge based on morality which is God's richest gift to man. When a university gears its courses to a broader understanding of these problems, it will surely turn out not only skilled manipulators of machines and techniques but intelligent men with some knowledge of the universals of our civilization.

That Body of Yours

SEVERE REACTIONS TO PENICILLIN

During the past few years the number of chemicals used as healing drugs has been increasing greatly and along with this increase have come problems in drug allergies and reactions. These reactions may be of different types. For example, the toxic (poisonous) reaction to a chemical depends, to a large extent, on the size of the dose given and is a direct effect which is not related to any previous use of the drug. When changes such as the development of nausea from digitalis or ringing and buzzing in the ears from aspirin, occurs at a lower dose than that given to the average person, it is referred to as drug sensitivity.

Drug allergy, on the other hand, means a change in the capacity of certain tissues to react and this changed capacity is acquired by previous use of the exciting agent or drug. This result does not become evident until the drug is taken again and is not related to the size of the dosage.

The allergic reaction to penicillin is an example of drug allergy in which the main symptoms occur in the skin. Urticaria (hives) and angioneurotic edema (giant hives) have been the chief difficulties in most of the cases treated. The hives which develop during the use of penicillin may subside while the drug is still being given and in some cases the reaction is very mild and subsides rapidly. However, in many cases there is a severe reaction and nineteen of such cases were studied by Dr. A. M. Harvey of Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Baltimore.

These nineteen patients all had a severe reaction which was becoming more intense and had not been helped by other means of treatment. After a single large dose of cortisone was given by mouth to these patients, what happened? The urticaria improved within two hours! To be sure that it was the cortisone that had brought about the improvement, no more was given for a few hours with the result that the hives returned.

Penicillin is such an extremely valuable drug that it is important to know that reactions to it can be controlled. The average dose was 100 mg. cortisone by mouth for the first dose, then every six hours for an additional day. In very severe cases in which prompt relief was required, the interval between doses was shortened to two hours. The average total dose used was 760 mg. with some improving on a total of 350 and others requiring 1,050.

Dr. Harvey concluded that, "Unless the patient suffers from nausea or vomiting, cortisone by mouth is probably the treatment of choice" in these cases of severe reactions to penicillin.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The United Nations resolution demanding freedom for the 11 U. S. airmen sentenced as spies by Communist China provides a new test of usefulness for the world organization.

Sentencing of the 11 U. S. airmen along with two civilian employes of the Department of Defense did not just happen in the normal course of Red Chinese events. It was a deliberately calculated move, according to official analyses. Why the Chinese Communists chose this particular time to bring this matter to a head is puzzling.

One analysis is that the Chinese Reds thought this incident might be used to further divide the United States from its allies.

If this was it, the Chinese Reds may have hoped to involve the United States in some act of aggression through an American reaction of violent indignation.

FOR A DAY OR SO, it looked as though this might be the answer. Republican Senators Knowland of California, Jenner of Indiana and others demanded a complete blockade of Red China.

If the United States had taken such action on its own, it would have alarmed many European governments who fear being catapulted into some new war by a minor, accidental blunder.

The official reaction of President Eisenhower was just the opposite. His entire effort was directed at taking this incident calmly. He did order the strongest kind of protest. He didn't order any blockade, he didn't threaten to drop any atomic bombs and he didn't run the risk of starting a war just to force release of the 11 American airmen.

This restraint apparently made an impression on U. S. allies. The 15 powers that had been associated with the United States in the Korean war against Communist aggression joined in support of a United Nations resolution condemning the treatment of the 11 American fliers captured by Chinese forces when their planes were shot down over North Korea, on a United Nations mission.

THIS DEVELOPMENT may be just the opposite of what the Red China leaders anticipated. Instead of dividing the anti-Communist nations, they have effectively united them.

Instead of furthering Red China's ambition to gain admission to the United Nations by brute force, this sentencing of the American airmen may have built up opposition to any such recognition. In this respect, the U. S. aim of barring Red China's admission to the UN may have been greatly strengthened.

Whether or not the UN resolution — instructing its Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to seek release of the American fliers — will do any good, remains to be seen. The expectation in Washington is that it will help in the long run, even though it does not accomplish its desired result by the end of the year.

CONSTANT DIPLOMATIC pressure and public opinion over longer periods of time have in the past secured the release of such Americans as Angus Ward by Red China, William Oatis by Czechoslovakia, Robert A. Vogeler, Karl Ruedemann and Noel Field by Hungary, Hermann Field by Poland, and others.

Since the Geneva conference ended in July, Red China itself has released 15 Americans, including three children. One other American woman, married to a Chinese citizen, has been released from jail but remains free with her husband in Red China.

The score now is 28 American civilians now held in Chinese jails. This includes the two civilians, John Thomas Downey and Robert George Fecteu, sentenced by the Chinese as spies along with the 11 U. S. airmen. Three other American civilians are held under house arrest. Another 18 or 20 are at liberty in Red China but unable to get exit visas to leave the country.

For official record purposes, the Department of Defense now carries 24 U. S. uniformed personnel as known held captive by the Chinese Reds. Five hundred and two other American fighting men carried as "missing in action" or "prisoners of war, whereabouts unknown" as of a year ago, are now carried as "presumed dead."

Today in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 13—When an American citizen has his constitutional rights violated it is natural that his fellow citizens should set up a clamor. But apparently only when a citizen is accused of holding Communist beliefs does there arise any clamor. Then the people who call themselves "liberals" demand that freedom of belief be protected.

No such protest arises, however, from these same quarters when an American citizen exercises his constitutional rights to refuse to join a labor union and is thrown out of his job because of it. He may have conscientious beliefs about and objections to joining such an organization, but today in free America he can be deprived of his job and even prevented in many instances from earning a livelihood in his trade anywhere else if he declines to surrender his conscientious beliefs.

The foregoing is the true meaning of the controversy which has just arisen over the speech made before the CIO national convention by James P. Mitchell, the Secretary of Labor in President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

Mr. Mitchell deplored the fact that seventeen states have enacted what are known as "right to work" laws. He said: "Actually these are laws which make it impossible for an employer to bargain collectively with a majority of his employes about the security of their union."

Promptly after the speech was made Mr. Eisenhower at his press conference said that Secretary Mitchell was not speaking for the Administration but only for himself and that such differences of opinion are permitted in the Eisenhower administration.

As a matter of fact the President ruled hastily on the issue. Strictly speaking, if he believes in the Taft-Hartley act he should have been upholding Mr. Mitchell's position.

For what Secretary Mitchell said, in effect, was that the states ought not deviate from the Taft-Hartley act which legalizes compulsory unionization. The so-called "union shop" provisions of that law give a new employee thirty days to decide whether he will join the union or be fired from his job by order of the union.

But while this Taft-Hartley provision itself violates civil rights as set forth in the Constitution—though no case has reached the Supreme Court yet for decision—consistency would require the President to argue that if compulsory unionization is right on the Federal level it is right on the state level. This, of course, is the view of his Secretary of Labor.

The "right to work" laws nullify the Taft-Hartley law on this point in seventeen states. Eleven are in the South and the others are Iowa, Nebraska, Nevada, Arizona, North Dakota, and South Dakota. Congress specifically permitted the states to vary their labor laws from the Federal statute.

Labor union bosses want compulsory unionization for the same reason that corporations used to want monopoly—it is easier for them to rule that way. In fact compulsory unionization means a form of private government with power over the livelihood of workers delegated to a few union bosses in every industry.

Mr. Mitchell thinks of compulsory unionization as a form of "union security" and necessary for "union strength." But the Supreme Court of the United States has declared that a union which is the agent of the majority in a craft or plant can by agreement with the employer set the wage pattern for the minority. Refusal of the minority to join a union does not, therefore, "undermine union security."

The Supreme Court also has said with regard to the protection afforded under the Fourteenth Amendment: "It requires no argument to show that the right to work for a living in the common occupations of the community is of the very essence of the personal freedom and opportunity that it was the purpose of the amendment to secure."

The seventeen states therefore are right. The President and Congress should make the Federal law conform to that of the states. The latter have blazed the trail in defense of the Constitutional right of the individual to believe as he pleases when faced with the question of whether to join or not join a labor union. For in most cases today a union is a subsidiary unit of a larger political organization whose principles and beliefs a worker may not wish to support.

This is an issue which concerns the dignity of the individual and constitutes a form of discrimination based on beliefs. It is a moral issue. But some of the same churchmen who speak out so vehemently—when witnesses entangled in the Communist controversy are allegedly deprived of their rights before Congressional committees—are strangely silent about the actual loss of individual rights by millions of American working men.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

C. R. Roseberry, the roving reporter of the Albany Times-Union recently assigned himself to track down the C. J. Roosevelt who received belated recognition in these footnotes to history as a Friend of Man who sold an infallible cure for "consumption and the liver complaint" known as Dr. Larbor's Extract of Lungwort, 11 years ago. Mr. Roseberry seems to share the theocratic delusion which sanctifies as a holy shrine the grave of a distinctly mortal politician at Hyde Park. For he writes, with arbitrary indifference to obvious fact, that "there is nothing in the record" of this tailboard quack of long ago self to track down the C. J.

Not that I would try to visit his sins upon his kinnery of remote degree who have enough of their own to answer for, I venture to insist that, on the face of things, this pioneer mountebank of a classical clan of such, was a swindler imposing on the hopes and fears of his contemporaries and, thus, a rogue. The claims of miraculous medical powers which he set forth to acquire the earnings of the sick poor as well as the illgot profits of the predatory rich were patently false and fraudulent and addressed often to the despair of the dying. In fact, the debates which led to the adoption of the Pure Food and Drugs Act were shrill with denunciations of fakers who preyed on the hopes of the hopeless and, be it further said, of a journalism which took its tithe and more of the dirty proceeds.

Having set matters in their correct posture, I may relate that Mr. Roseberry asked Eleanor Roosevelt who this C. J. Roosevelt might have been and that, by her help, he was able to report that C. J. "Really was a connection of the clan that produced the late President, though down a different branch of the family tree."

"His venture into pharmacy must have been a passing phase of his youth," Mr. Roseberry continues, "for he went on to become a practising physician and lived to the age of 60. He married an Albany girl, Margaret Pruyn. The Pruyns, needless to elaborate, were one of Albany's first families."

Mr. Roseberry found no trace of a three-story brewing and bottling plant hard by the Hudson depicted in the circular published at the time and I would readily admit that no such institution ever did exist. As like as not, this faker boiled and bottled his buchu in his own kitchen and commissioned some wan consumptive to draw him the edifice and scenic background for a couple of quarts of his therapeutic hootch.

Mr. Roseberry was at first misled by the fact that the circular was dated 1854, a century ago this year. He then appealed to Eleanor, who referred the question to George Emlen Roosevelt in New York. He reported that the name of C. J. Roosevelt appeared twice in the family log, being father and son. Cornelius, the Quack, was born in New York, Dec. 4, 1820, and was graduated from Medical College of the University of New York in 1847. Thereby, let it be seen, he was bound by conventional hippocratic undertaking when he peddled his worthless cure in 1854. George Emlen passed on the word that the miracle worker was a homeopath in Columbus, Ga., and later in Macon, where he died in 1880, not far from My Leader's prosperous speculations in building lots for desirous Democrats, from which Negroes are forever excluded by the text of the titles, at Warm Springs.

Pursuing the, as it were, scent, Mr. Roseberry learned that Cornelius J. Roosevelt lived in hotels in Albany in 1844, '45 and '46 and operated a patent medicine "emporium" which was, he states, "equivalent of today's drug-store."

His quest led him to consultation with the current press whose front pages, like those of the leading English bugles of today, were "given up solely to ads, peppered with preposterous claims of herb-growers." However, he found no ad for Roosevelt's Lunwort, the discovery, it appears, of one Larbor, otherwise unidentified, although "even the doctors ran ads, along with astrologists and the phrenologists."

"It was," he says, "the golden age of quacks. One of the big operators was Dr. James Durno, a 'rheumatic physician' who took all comers for a buck a head and prescribed mountain Indian liniment and Durno's catarrh snuff. Shaker syrup was a positive cure not only for TB but for erysipelas, ulcers, cancer and even pimples."

To dispose of the whole subject, I encountered at the Joe McCarthy rally in Madison Square Garden Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison, he the former governor of New Jersey and secretary of the navy and son of the late Wizard of Menlo Park who gave us the hairpin burning in a bottle which turned night into day and stepped up the rate of broken hearts on Broadway. With a shy feeling I asked Governor Edison had he noticed my reference to an ad for his late father's wonder-drug called Edison's Polyform, which relieved "the terrible suffering of rheumatic pains" according to the text of an ad in Puck on Dec. 22, 1880.

Governor Edison said yes, he had. And he mentioned the name of the principal ingredient, which escaped my mind, however, as I turned to take the proffered hand of Senator Lehman, who reads me religiously and would not be put off without my autograph.

UNIVERSALISM

I recently listened to two speeches which impressed me profoundly. One was by Professor Gilbert Highet of Columbia University; the other by Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame.

The Highet speech was delivered to a Father-Son dinner at Columbia which was in itself a novelty for me. In my day, at the same institution, the only relationship that a father had to the university was that he signed his name to the checks, and that he was given two tickets to see his son get a diploma.

The idea of fathers and sons sitting down to turkey and the fixings among deans and other university big shots intrigued me and so I went, anticipating a trying evening. Instead I was delighted by a brilliant address on the pleasures of learning by a Scotsman who apparently has learned everything from Aristotle to the Japanese game of Go.

In these days of over-specialization, the universalist is rare. Sometimes he is called a humanist which I think is a dastardly word because it makes man the center of the universe, which he cannot be as long as God is. I like the word, universalist, as applied to the scholar whose mind is big enough to try to encompass the whole of human knowledge and experience, and whose spirit is so rich that it can impart an enthusiasm among the young to do more than to train for a livelihood.

Perhaps the reason why so many of our so-called great men seem so small, so cowardly at times, is that their reputation for greatness arises from their proficiency in the use of a particular tool.

A man may be Chairman of the Board of Directors of a bank or a general in the Army or a successful manufacturer of automobiles or a doctor or lawyer or anything without training his mind to think in universal, philosophic terms. While he can do his job excellently and achieve astonishing success, he may also be as stupid as a backward child about a great historic problem that ultimately can destroy our civilization and therefore him and all his achievements.

It is even difficult for him to understand how narrow his compass is because he is so elevated by his own success in his small world. This, Professor Highest conveyed to the young men when he opened to their view the glories of continuing civilizations and the richness of a life devoted to their understanding.

Father Hesburgh was addressing a private dinner on the program of changing curricula at Notre Dame where the various colleges are being made over on a theory apparently that an intelligent man can learn how to use tools, but he first needs to be intelligent. It is much easier to turn out a lawyer or an engineer than to fashion the mind of a man so that he understands why he is a lawyer or an engineer. It comes down to the question that runs through all the thinking in the Old Testament—What is man?

After all, if man is only a product of the tools he uses to earn his livelihood, Karl Marx was right. But if man is more than that, if he possesses understanding, personality, the capacity to differentiate between right and wrong, then he is a moral creature whose grounding is deep in the philosophy of the Judaic-Christian civilization.

Father Hesburgh did not put it that way but what came to me as he spoke was that Notre Dame is answering the challenge of Marxism, of the pragamatic, atheistic, materialistic concepts so current throughout the world that science is the be-all and end-all of human effort, that man can survive as a civilized being without moral consciousnes. Science is, after all, a tool, a technique, a method of discovering items in a complicated cosmos. The question is, what does one do with the vast treasury of data that science discloses; how is it all to be related to the life and growth of man?

Philosophy points the way to a synthesis of human knowledge based on morality which is God's richest gift to man. When a university gears its courses to a broader understanding of these problems, it will surely turn out not only skilled manipulators of machines and techniques but intelligent men with some knowledge of the universals of our civilization.

SEVERE REACTIONS TO PENICILLIN

During the past few years the number of chemicals used as healing drugs has been increasing greatly and along with this increase have come problems in drug allergies and reactions. These reactions may be of different types. For example, the toxic (poisonous) reaction to a chemical depends, to a large extent, on the size of the dose given and is a direct effect which is not related to any previous use of the drug. When changes such as the development of nausea from digitalis or ringing and buzzing in the ears from aspirin, occurs at a lower dose than that given to the average person, it is referred to as drug sensitivity.

Drug allergy, on the other hand, means a change in the capacity of certain tissues to react and this changed capacity is acquired by previous use of the exciting agent or drug. This result does not become evident until the drug is taken again and is not related to the size of the dosage.

The allergic reaction to penicillin is an example of drug allergy in which the main symptoms occur in the skin. Urticaria (hives) and angioneurotic edema (giant hives) have been the chief difficulties in most of the cases treated. The hives which develop during the use of penicillin may subside while the drug is still being given and in some cases the reaction is very mild and subsides rapidly. However, in many cases there is a severe reaction and nineteen of such cases were studied by Dr. A. M. Harvey of Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Baltimore.

These nineteen patients all had a severe reaction which was becoming more intense and had not been helped by other means of treatment. After a single large dose of cortisone was given by mouth to these patients, what happened? The urticaria improved within two hours! To be sure that it was the cortisone that had brought about the improvement, no more was given for a few hours with the result that the hives returned.

Penicillin is such an extremely valuable drug that it is important to know that reactions to it can be controlled. The average dose was 100 mg. cortisone by mouth for the first dose, then every six hours for an additional day. In very severe cases in which prompt relief was required, the interval between doses was shortened to two hours. The average total dose used was 760 mg. with some improving on a total of 350 and others requiring 1,050.

Dr. Harvey concluded that, "Unless the patient suffers from nausea or vomiting, cortisone by mouth is probably the treatment of choice" in these cases of severe reactions to penicillin.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The United Nations resolution demanding freedom for the 11 U. S. airmen sentenced as spies by Communist China provides a new test of usefulness for the world organization.

Sentencing of the 11 U. S. airmen along with two civilian employes of the Department of Defense did not just happen in the normal course of Red Chinese events. It was a deliberately calculated move, according to official analyses. Why the Chinese Communists chose this particular time to bring this matter to a head is puzzling.

One analysis is that the Chinese Reds thought this incident might be used to further divide the United States from its allies.

If this was it, the Chinese Reds may have hoped to involve the United States in some act of aggression through an American reaction of violent indignation.

FOR A DAY OR SO, it looked as though this might be the answer. Republican Senators Knowland of California, Jenner of Indiana and others demanded a complete blockade of Red China.

If the United States had taken such action on its own, it would have alarmed many European governments who fear being catapulted into some new war by a minor, accidental blunder.

The official reaction of President Eisenhower was just the opposite. His entire effort was directed at taking this incident calmly. He did order the strongest kind of protest. He didn't order any blockade, he didn't threaten to drop any atomic bombs and he didn't run the risk of starting a war just to force release of the 11 American airmen.

This restraint apparently made an impression on U. S. allies. The 15 powers that had been associated with the United States in the Korean war against Communist aggression joined in support of a United Nations resolution condemning the treatment of the 11 American fliers captured by Chinese forces when their planes were shot down over North Korea, on a United Nations mission.

THIS DEVELOPMENT may be just the opposite of what the Red China leaders anticipated. Instead of dividing the anti-Communist nations, they have effectively united them.

Instead of furthering Red China's ambition to gain admission to the United Nations by brute force, this sentencing of the American airmen may have built up opposition to any such recognition. In this respect, the U. S. aim of barring Red China's admission to the UN may have been greatly strengthened.

Whether or not the UN resolution — instructing its Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to seek release of the American fliers — will do any good, remains to be seen. The expectation in Washington is that it will help in the long run, even though it does not accomplish its desired result by the end of the year.

CONSTANT DIPLOMATIC pressure and public opinion over longer periods of time have in the past secured the release of such Americans as Angus Ward by Red China, William Oatis by Czechoslovakia, Robert A. Vogeler, Karl Ruedemann and Noel Field by Hungary, Hermann Field by Poland, and others.

Since the Geneva conference ended in July, Red China itself has released 15 Americans, including three children. One other American woman, married to a Chinese citizen, has been released from jail but remains free with her husband in Red China.

The score now is 28 American civilians now held in Chinese jails. This includes the two civilians, John Thomas Downey and Robert George Fecteu, sentenced by the Chinese as spies along with the 11 U. S. airmen. Three other American civilians are held under house arrest. Another 18 or 20 are at liberty in Red China but unable to get exit visas to leave the country.

For official record purposes, the Department of Defense now carries 24 U. S. uniformed personnel as known held captive by the Chinese Reds. Five hundred and two other American fighting men carried as "missing in action" or "prisoners of war, whereabouts unknown" as of a year ago, are now carried as "presumed dead."

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 13—When an American citizen has his constitutional rights violated it is natural that his fellow citizens should set up a clamor. But apparently only when a citizen is accused of holding Communist beliefs does there arise any clamor. Then the people who call themselves "liberals" demand that freedom of belief be protected.

No such protest arises, however, from these same quarters when an American citizen exercises his constitutional rights to refuse to join a labor union and is thrown out of his job because of it. He may have conscientious beliefs about and objections to joining such an organization, but today in free America he can be deprived of his job and even prevented in many instances from earning a livelihood in his trade anywhere else if he declines to surrender his conscientious beliefs.

The foregoing is the true meaning of the controversy which has just arisen over the speech made before the CIO national convention by James P. Mitchell, the Secretary of Labor in President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

Mr. Mitchell deplored the fact that seventeen states have enacted what are known as "right to work" laws. He said:

"Actually these are laws which make it impossible for an employer to bargain collectively with a majority of his employes about the security of their union."

Promptly after the speech was made Mr. Eisenhower at his press conference said that Secretary Mitchell was not speaking for the Administration but only for himself and that such differences of opinion are permitted in the Eisenhower administration.

As a matter of fact the President ruled hastily on the issue. Strictly speaking, if he believes in the Taft-Hartley act he should have been upholding Mr. Mitchell's position.

For what Secretary Mitchell said, in effect, was that the states ought not deviate from the Taft-Hartley act which legalizes compulsory unionization. The so-called "union shop" provisions of that law give a new employee thirty days to decide whether he will join the union or be fired from his job by order of the union.

But while this Taft-Hartley provision itself violates civil rights as set forth in the Constitution—though no case has reached the Supreme Court yet for decision—consistency would require the President to argue that if compulsory unionization is right on the Federal level it is right on the state level. This, of course, is the view of his Secretary of Labor.

The "right to work" laws nullify the Taft-Hartley law on this point in seventeen states. Eleven are in the South and the others are Iowa, Nebraska, Nevada, Arizona, North Dakota, and South Dakota. Congress specifically permitted the states to vary their labor laws from the Federal statute.

Labor union bosses want compulsory unionization for the same reason that corporations used to want monopoly—it is easier for them to rule that way. In fact compulsory unionization means a form of private government with power over the livelihood of workers delegated to a few union bosses in every industry.

Mr. Mitchell thinks of compulsory unionization as a form of "union security" and necessary for "union strength." But the Supreme Court of the United States has declared that a union which is the agent of the majority in a craft or plant can by agreement with the employer set the wage pattern for the minority. Refusal of the minority to join a union does not, therefore, "undermine union security."

The Supreme Court also has said with regard to the protection afforded under the Fourteenth Amendment: "It requires no argument to show that the right to work for a living in the common occupations of the community is of the very essence of the personal freedom and opportunity that it was the purpose of the amendment to secure."

The seventeen states therefore are right. The President and Congress should make the Federal law conform to that of the states. The latter have blazed the trail in defense of the individual right of the individual to believe as he pleases when faced with the question of whether to join or not join a labor union. For in most cases today a union is a subsidiary unit of a larger political organization whose principles and beliefs a worker may not wish to support.

This is an issue which concerns the dignity of the individual and constitutes a form of discrimination based on beliefs. It is a moral issue. But some of the same churchmen who speak out so vehemently—when witnesses entangled in the Communist controversy are allegedly deprived of their rights before Congressional committees—are strangely silent about the actual loss of individual rights by millions of American working men.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

C. R. Roseberry, the roving reporter of the Albany Times-Union recently assigned himself to track down the C. J. Roosevelt who received belated recognition in these footnotes to history as a Friend of Man who sold an infallible cure for "consumption and the liver complaint" known as Dr. Larbor's Extract of Lungwort, 11 years ago. Mr. Roseberry seems to share the theocratic delusion which sanctifies as a holy shrine the grave of a distinctly mortal politician at Hyde Park. For he writes, with arbitrary indifference to obvious fact, that "there is nothing in the record" of this tailboard quack of long ago self to track down the C. J.

Not that I would try to visit his sins upon his kinnery of remote degree who have enough of their own to answer for, I venture to insist that, on the face of things, this pioneer mountebank of a classical clan of such, was a swindler imposing on the hopes and fears of his contemporaries and, thus, a rogue. The claims of miraculous medical powers which he set forth to acquire the earnings of the sick poor as well as the ill-got profits of the predatory rich were patently false and fraudulent and addressed often to the despair of the dying. In fact, the debates which led to the adoption of the Pure Food and Drugs Act were shrill with denunciations of fakers who preyed on the hopes of the hopeless and, be it further said, of a journalism which took its tithe and more of the dirty proceeds.

Having set matters in their correct posture, I may relate that Mr. Roseberry asked Eleanor Roosevelt who this C. J. Roosevelt might have been and that, by her help, he was able to report that C. J. "Really was a connection of the clan that produced the late President, though down a different branch of the family tree."

"His venture into pharmacy must have been a passing phase of his youth," Mr. Roseberry continues, "for he went on to become a practising physician and lived to the age of 60. He married an Albany girl, Margaret Pruyn. The Pruyns, needless to elaborate, were one of Albany's first families."

Mr. Roseberry found no trace of a three-story brewing and bottling plant hard by the Hudson depicted in the circular published at the time and I would readily admit that no such institution ever did exist. As like as not, this faker boiled and bottled his buchu in his own kitchen and commissioned some wan consumptive to draw him the edifice and scenic background for a couple of quarts of his therapeutic hootch.

Mr. Roseberry was at first misled by the fact that the circular was dated 1854, a century ago this year. He then appealed to Eleanor, who referred the question to George Emlen Roosevelt in New York. He reported that the name of C. J. Roosevelt appeared twice in the family log, being father and son. Cornelius, the Quack, was born in New York, Dec. 4, 1820, and was graduated from Medical College of the University of New York in 1847. Thereby, let it be seen, he was bound by conventional hippocratic undertaking when he peddled his worthless cure in 1854. George Emlen passed on the word that the miracle worker was a homeopath in Columbus, Ga., and later in Macon, where he died in 1880, not far from My Leader's prosperous speculations in building lots for desirous Democrats, from which Negroes are forever excluded by the text of the titles, at Warm Springs.

Pursuing the, as it were, scent, Mr. Roseberry learned that Cornelius J. Roosevelt lived in hotels in Albany in 1844, '45 and '46 and operated a patent medicine "emporium" which was, he states, "equivalent of today's drug-store."

His quest led him to consultation with the current press whose front pages, like those of the leading English bugles of today, were "given up solely to ads, peppered with preposterous claims of herb-growers." However, he found no ad for Roosevelt's Lunwort, the discovery, it appears, of one Larbor, otherwise unidentified, although "even the doctors ran ads, along with astrologists and the phrenologists."

"It was," he says, "the golden age of quacks. One of the big operators was Dr. James Durno, a 'rheumatic physician' who took all comers for a buck a head and prescribed mountain Indian liniment and Durno's catarrh snuff. Shaker syrup was a positive cure not only for TB but for erysipelas, ulcers, cancer and even pimples."

To dispose of the whole subject, I encountered at the Joe McCarthy rally in Madison Square Garden Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison, he the former governor of New Jersey and secretary of the navy and son of the late Wizard of Menlo Park who gave us the hairpin burning in a bottle which turned night into day and stepped up the rate of broken hearts on Broadway. With a shy feeling I asked Governor Edison had he noticed my reference to an ad for his late father's wonder-drug called Edison's Polyform, which relieved "the terrible suffering of rheumatic pains" according to the text of an ad in Puck on Dec. 22, 1880.

Governor Edison said yes, he had. And he mentioned the name of the principal ingredient, which escaped my mind, however, as I turned to take the proffered hand of Senator Lehman, who reads me religiously and would not be put off without my autograph.

A BALANCED BUDGET

A balanced federal budget is an objective any purposeful government should be eager to proclaim, and to pursue with energy. But, in this age of peril, even at best the goal is extremely difficult to achieve.

The Eisenhower administration set this aim from the start, but it has not yet been able to attain it. In the President's first year, the budget showed a $3 billion deficit. In the current fiscal year, prospects are for a deficit close to $4.7 billion.

And now Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey says there is no hope of bringing income and outgo into balance for the year which will begin next July 1. He doubts that the government can do more than hold the deficit somewhere below $3 billion.

This performance, measured against GOP campaign promises of 1952, perhaps will give the Democrats something to taunt their opponents with. Nevertheless, the achievement is considerable when placed beside the last complete budget of the Truman regime, which showed a deficit of $9.5 billion.

Defense and foreign aid spending, as always, form the hard nut that not even the most ambitious budget-balancer can crack. It is a question how much more these outlays could be reduced without gravely impairing the national security.

Indeed, some pretty powerful arguments are advanced for spending bigger sums than we do in this field. Asia is in pressing need of economic help. In the military sphere, Russia is believed well on the way to having enough nuclear weapons and bombers to deliver crushing blows against the United States.

Ironically, some of the Democrats who will be chiding the GOP on its budget-balancing promises are strongly convinced we should now be spending more.

But this is certainly not the vital point—whether the Administration's critics are consistent or not. What would seem to be important is that we do not make a balanced budget some sort of magic goal in itself.

We are in a tense struggle for survival. It is the first business of this or any other administration to do all possible to assure our survival. To put a fixed price on the effort we will make—to say we will spend no more than a stated sum—is to try for a sort of bargain-counter freedom.

Of course we do not wish to be bled white in this contest. But neither do we want to be caught in the counting house, squinting at a balance sheet, while free nations fall to communism and Russia stands poised with enough deliverable atomic might to smash liberty in its strongest bastion—the United States.

GENEROUS GESTURE

Sir Roger Makin, British ambassador to the United States, recently sent a $500 check to the fund being raised to restore the steeple of Old North Church in Boston. The money was contributed by members of the British embassy and other British citizens in this country as official representatives of their Queen.

The Old North Church was the site from which signals were fixed to send Paul Revere on his famous ride. The contribution from the British subjects in this country is a generous gesture and one which should help to strengthen the bonds of friendship between this country and Britain.

The old enmities have been forgotten. The British gesture is a reminder that a shrine to freedom, as the Old North Church is, can be honored by all free men whatever their differences may once have been.

People all over the world are inclined to gripe now and then about one thing or another. But only in a free land such as America can they do something about it. Which is reason enough to guard what we have lest someone try to take it away.

To be sure that it was the cortisone that had brought about the improvement, no more was given for a few hours with the result that the hives returned.

Penicillin is such an extremely valuable drug that it is important to know that reactions to it can be controlled. The average dose was 100 mg. cortisone by mouth for the first dose, then every six hours for an additional day. In very severe cases in which prompt relief was required, the interval between doses was shortened to two hours. The average total dose used was 760 mg. with some improving on a total of 350 and others requiring 1,050.

Dr. Harvey concluded that, "Unless the patient suffers from nausea or vomiting, cortisone by mouth is probably the treatment of choice" in these cases of severe reactions to penicillin.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA)—The United Nations resolution demanding freedom for the 11 U. S. airmen sentenced as spies by Communist China provides a new test of usefulness for the world organization.

Sentencing of the 11 U. S. airmen along with two civilian employes of the Department of Defense did not just happen in the normal course of Red Chinese events. It was a deliberately calculated move, according to official analyses. Why the Chinese Communists chose this particular time to bring this matter to a head is puzzling.

One analysis is that the Chinese Reds thought this incident might be used to further divide the United States from its allies.

If this was it, the Chinese Reds may have hoped to involve the United States in some act of aggression through an American reaction of violent indignation.

FOR A DAY OR SO, it looked as though this might be the answer. Republican Senators Knowland of California, Jenner of Indiana and others demanded a complete blockade of Red China.

If the United States had taken such action on its own, it would have alarmed many European governments who fear being catapulted into some new war by a minor, accidental blunder.

The official reaction of President Eisenhower was just the opposite. His entire effort was directed at taking this incident calmly. He did order the strongest kind of protest. He didn't order any blockade, he didn't threaten to drop any atomic bombs and he didn't run the risk of starting a war just to force release of the 11 American airmen.

This restraint apparently made an impression on U. S. allies. The 15 powers that had been associated with the United States in the Korean war against Communist aggression joined in support of a United Nations resolution condemning the treatment of the 11 American fliers captured by Chinese forces when their planes were shot down over North Korea, on a United Nations mission.

THIS DEVELOPMENT may be just the opposite of what the Red China leaders anticipated. Instead of dividing the anti-Communist nations, they have effectively united them.

Instead of furthering Red China's ambition to gain admission to the United Nations by brute force, this sentencing of the American airmen may have built up opposition to any such recognition. In this respect, the U. S. aim of barring Red China's admission to the UN may have been greatly strengthened.

Whether or not the UN resolution — instructing its Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to seek release of the American fliers — will do any good, remains to be seen. The expectation in Washington is that it will help in the long run, even though it does not accomplish its desired result by the end of the year.

CONSTANT DIPLOMATIC pressure and public opinion over longer periods of time have in the past secured the release of such Americans as Angus Ward by Red China, William Oatis by Czechoslovakia, Robert A. Vogeler, Karl Ruedemann and Noel Field by Hungary, Hermann Field by Poland, and others.

Since the Geneva conference ended in July, Red China itself has released 15 Americans, including three children. One other American woman, married to a Chinese citizen, has been released from jail but remains free with her husband in Red China.

The score now is 28 American civilians now held in Chinese jails. This includes the two civilians, John Thomas Downey and Robert George Fecteu, sentenced by the Chinese as spies along with the 11 U. S. airmen. Three other American civilians are held under house arrest. Another 18 or 20 are at liberty in Red China but unable to get exit visas to leave the country.

For official record purposes, the Department of Defense now carries 24 U. S. uniformed personnel as known held captive by the Chinese Reds. Five hundred and two other American fighting men carried as "missing in action" or "prisoners of war, whereabouts unknown" as of a year ago, are now carried as "presumed dead."

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 13—When an American citizen has his constitutional rights violated it is natural that his fellow citizens should set up a clamor. But apparently only when a citizen is accused of holding Communist beliefs does there arise any clamor. Then the people who call themselves "liberals" demand that freedom of belief be protected.

No such protest arises, however, from these same quarters when an American citizen exercises his constitutional rights to refuse to join a labor union and is thrown out of his job because of it. He may have conscientious beliefs about and objections to joining such an organization, but today in free America he can be deprived of his job and even prevented in many instances from earning a livelihood in his trade anywhere else if he declines to surrender his conscientious beliefs.

The foregoing is the true meaning of the controversy which has just arisen over the speech made before the CIO national convention by James P. Mitchell, the Secretary of Labor in President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

Mr. Mitchell deplored the fact that seventeen states have enacted what are known as "right to work" laws. He said:

"Actually these are laws which make it impossible for an employer to bargain collectively with a majority of his employes about the security of their union."

Promptly after the speech was made Mr. Eisenhower at his press conference said that Secretary Mitchell was not speaking for the Administration but only for himself and that such differences of opinion are permitted in the Eisenhower administration.

As a matter of fact the President ruled hastily on the issue. Strictly speaking, if he believes in the Taft-Hartley act he should have been upholding Mr. Mitchell's position.

For what Secretary Mitchell said, in effect, was that the states ought not deviate from the Taft-Hartley act which legalizes compulsory unionization. The so-called "union shop" provisions of that law give a new employee thirty days to decide whether he will join the union or be fired from his job by order of the union.

But while this Taft-Hartley provision itself violates civil rights as set forth in the Constitution—though no case has reached the Supreme Court yet for decision—consistency would require the President to argue that if compulsory unionization is right on the Federal level it is right on the state level. This, of course, is the view of his Secretary of Labor.

The "right to work" laws nullify the Taft-Hartley law on this point in seventeen states. Eleven are in the South and the others are Iowa, Nebraska, Nevada, Arizona, North Dakota, and South Dakota. Congress specifically permitted the states to vary their labor laws from the Federal statute.

Labor union bosses want compulsory unionization for the same reason that corporations used to want monopoly—it is easier for them to rule that way. In fact compulsory unionization means a form of private government with power over the livelihood of workers delegated to a few union bosses in every industry.

Mr. Mitchell thinks of compulsory unionization as a form of "union security" and necessary for "union strength." But the Supreme Court of the United States has declared that a union which is the agent of the majority in a craft or plant can by agreement with the employer set the wage pattern for the minority. Refusal of the minority to join a union does not, therefore, "undermine union security."

The Supreme Court also has said with regard to the protection afforded under the Fourteenth Amendment: "It requires no argument to show that the right to work for a living in the common occupations of the community is of the very essence of the personal freedom and opportunity that it was the purpose of the amendment to secure."

The seventeen states therefore are right. The President and Congress should make the Federal law conform to that of the states. The latter have blazed the trail in defense of the Constitutional right of the individual to believe as he pleases when faced with the question of whether to join or not join a labor union. For in most cases today a union is a subsidiary unit of a larger political organization whose principles and beliefs a worker may not wish to support.

This is an issue which concerns the dignity of the individual and constitutes a form of discrimination based on beliefs. It is a moral issue. But some of the same churchmen who speak out so vehemently—when witnesses entangled in the Communist controversy are allegedly deprived of their rights before Congressional committees—are strangely silent about the actual loss of individual rights by millions of American working men.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

C. R. Roseberry, the roving reporter of the Albany Times-Union recently assigned himself to track down the C. J. Roosevelt who received belated recognition in these footnotes to history as a Friend of Man who sold an infallible cure for "consumption and the liver complaint" known as Dr. Larbor's Extract of Lungwort, 11 years ago. Mr. Roseberry seems to share the theocratic delusion which sanctifies as a holy shrine the grave of a distinctly mortal politician at Hyde Park. For he writes, with arbitrary indifference to obvious fact, that "there is nothing in the record" of this tailboard quack of long ago self to track down the C. J.

Not that I would try to visit his sins upon his kinnery of remote degree who have enough of their own to answer for, I venture to insist that, on the face of things, this pioneer mountebank of a classical clan of such, was a swindler imposing on the hopes and fears of his contemporaries and, thus, a rogue. The claims of miraculous medical powers which he set forth to acquire the earnings of the sick poor as well as the illgot profits of the predatory rich were patently false and fraudulent and addressed often to the despair of the dying. In fact, the debates which led to the adoption of the Pure Food and Drugs Act were shrill with denunciations of fakers who preyed on the hopes of the hopeless and, be it further said, of a journalism which took its tithe and more of the dirty proceeds.

Having set matters in their correct posture, I may relate that Mr. Roseberry asked Eleanor Roosevelt who this C. J. Roosevelt might have been and that, by her help, he was able to report that C. J. "Really was a connection of the clan that produced the late President, though down a different branch of the family tree."

"His venture into pharmacy must have been a passing phase of his youth," Mr. Roseberry continues, "for he went on to become a practising physician and lived to the age of 60. He married an Albany girl, Margaret Pruyn. The Pruyns, needless to elaborate, were one of Albany's first families."

Mr. Roseberry found no trace of a three-story brewing and bottling plant hard by the Hudson depicted in the circular published at the time and I would readily admit that no such institution ever did exist. As like as not, this faker boiled and bottled his buchu in his own kitchen and commissioned some wan consumptive to draw him the edifice and scenic background for a couple of quarts of his therapeutic hootch.

Mr. Roseberry was at first misled by the fact that the circular was dated 1854, a century ago this year. He then appealed to Eleanor, who referred the question to George Emlen Roosevelt in New York. He reported that the name of C. J. Roosevelt appeared twice in the family log, being father and son. Cornelius, the Quack, was born in New York, Dec. 4, 1820, and was graduated from Medical College of the University of New York in 1847. Thereby, let it be seen, he was bound by conventional hippocratic undertaking when he peddled his worthless cure in 1854. George Emlen passed on the word that the miracle worker was a homeopath in Columbus, Ga., and later in Macon, where he died in 1880, not far from My Leader's prosperous speculations in building lots for desirous Democrats, from which Negroes are forever excluded by the text of the titles, at Warm Springs.

Pursuing the, as it were, scent, Mr. Roseberry learned that Cornelius J. Roosevelt lived in hotels in Albany in 1844, '45 and '46 and operated a patent medicine "emporium" which was, he states, "equivalent of today's drug-store."

His quest led him to consultation with the current press whose front pages, like those of the leading English bugles of today, were "given up solely to ads, peppered with preposterous claims of herb-growers." However, he found no ad for Roosevelt's Lunwort, the discovery, it appears, of one Larbor, otherwise unidentified, although "even the doctors ran ads, along with astrologists and the phrenologists."

"It was," he says, "the golden age of quacks. One of the big operators was Dr. James Durno, a 'rheumatic physician' who took all comers for a buck a head and prescribed mountain Indian liniment and Durno's catarrh snuff. Shaker syrup was a positive cure not only for TB but for erysipelas, ulcers, cancer and even pimples."

To dispose of the whole subject, I encountered at the Joe McCarthy rally in Madison Square Garden Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison, he the former governor of New Jersey and secretary of the navy and son of the late Wizard of Menlo Park who gave us the hairpin burning in a bottle which turned night into day and stepped up the rate of broken hearts on Broadway. With a shy feeling I asked Governor Edison had he noticed my reference to an ad for his late father's wonder-drug called Edison's Polyform, which relieved "the terrible suffering of rheumatic pains" according to the text of an ad in Puck on Dec. 22, 1880.

Governor Edison said yes, he had. And he mentioned the name of the principal ingredient, which escaped my mind, however, as I turned to take the proffered hand of Senator Lehman, who reads me religiously and would not be put off without my autograph.

Rochester Stands Out as Rose In State's Economic Picture

By TONI ADAMS

Rochester, Dec. 13 (AP)—The "Flower City" of Rochester seems to stand out like a rose in New York state's somewhat needy economic garden, and many persons who should know predict that 1955 likely will be just a bit rosier.

That sounds like a Chamber of Commerce approach, but it stems from several factors — from figures down to the sound of people's voices, both here and in other communities visited by this reporter in a spot tour across the state.

Some expression of pessimism is found among Rochester union leaders, but optimism akin to management's is found also.

What makes Rochester and its economic area so different from the many communities in the state that have been panting money-wise in varying degrees as a result of the recession?

Local leaders think the major reasons might be that:

THE CHIEF INDUSTRIES here are in the precision field (photographic, optical, instruments); many of the plants are home-owned family affairs, and several are leaders nationally and internationally; the industries are diversified, with at least a dozen employing a thousand persons or more; there have been few labor-management conflicts.

Rochester, once known as the flour, rather than the Flower City, has seen a number of its industries dwindle over the years — flour, shoes, clothing, successively—but it has gained, meanwhile, on other fronts.

Eastman Kodak Co., now the largest employer and not unionized, had 14,000 workers in 1940. This year, it counts about 36,000 in its various plants here.

Whether the company will continue to expand in this area is an unanswered question. A spokesman who described the company's local employment as "fairly steady" despite a drop this year, partly due to lack of government work, said it was company policy not to predict.

The State Employment Service estimates that three per cent of a labor force of 245,000 in Monroe county, of which Rochester is the hub, is unemployed, compared with about half that in the best month of 1953. In 1940 and 1949, the estimated percentage was 13 per cent.

THE STATE'S COMPUTATION shows that in the factories average weekly earnings as of last October were 51 cents higher than in October, 1953, despite a cut of 1.2 hours in the average work week.

The November picture had not been examined closely, but a spot check indicated a slight rise in employment and little change in wages and hours.

ONE OF THE WORRISOME spots in Rochester economy has been a steady decline in the men's clothing industry, which employed about 12,500 in 1946 and now has roughly 9,000. The most expensive men's suits are reported selling very well, but the lower-priced ones have been dragging. However, a few hundred workers laid off recently are being recalled.

Among the brighter spots in this, the state's third largest city are construction and the optical business.

Spokesman for the AFL Teamsters Union have chalked up 1954 as a good construction year. They expect 1955 to be as good. Many new homes have been sprouting in the suburbs. Among the larger projects scheduled to begin in the spring is a 13-million-dollar generating plant for the Rochester Gas and Electric Corp.

Wollensak Optical Co., says it will need at least 25 per cent more workers in 1955. The company, a big producer of photographic lenses, now employs 1,100 and is continuing a two-million-dollar expansion program.

Russell McCarthy, manager of the Industrial Management Council of Rochester, says the community's general outlook for 1955 appears to be good.

"I'm so excited! We just got our extension phone!"

"Our extension phone is in the bedroom. Now Mom doesn't run to answer calls! It's so handy.

"How about you? Need an extension phone in your bedroom, kitchen—or any other room?

"An extension phone does so much for so little! Costs less than 3¢ a day. And you can get one fast! Call your telephone company business office today!"

The Wise Men in Jerusalem

NOW when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that was born King of the Jews for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled. He gathered all the chief priests and scribes together. He demanded of them where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea: for thus it is written by the prophet.

HELEN MENKEN has Shakespeare on the mind. Miss Menken, who starred for years on a CBS soap opera, "Second Husband," is now devoting most of her time to the Shakespeare Theatre and Academy, which she hopes will be built soon in the gentle hills near Stratford, Conn. She's helping the campaign to raise $100,000 for the project.

"It's rather incredible, I think," she says, "that America is only getting around to something like this now. After all, we donated some $800,000 to England's Stratford-on-Avon Shakespeare theatre. Don't you think it's about time we did something as wonderful for ourselves?"

Well, don't you?

Stupidity may be on its way out. On television, anyhow. Up to now, most situation comedies have gotten their laughs out of someone's stupidity, generally that of a husband and/or father.

"It was the easiest way," says Bob Cummings. "If you try to get laughs by poking fun at a certain nationality, or at deafness, or at people who lisp, there are always organizations that protest. There's only one group that isn't organized—stupid people."

Cummings used to be a stupid situation comedy star. On "My Hero," he played a character named Beanblossom, who was a positive genius at being dumb.

"I never liked that character," Cummings says. "But the show used to embarrass me by making lots of money and getting fabulous ratings."

Despite that happy embarrassment, he's deserting Beanblossom for a new format, which will debut in January over NBC-TV. It'll be called "The Bob Cummings Show," and will again be a situation comedy, but with a difference.

"I'll play a man named Bob Collins," Cummings says. "He'll be a normal guy—a successful photographer. He'll be, in his personality, a lot like me. I like photography, aviation and girls. Bob Collins will like photography, aviation and girls."

George Burns, of Burns and Allen, will be the production supervisor. Cummings says he wanted Burns, or somebody of that caliber, but had been hesitant to call him. So Burns called him, and anybody'll have a tough time convincing Bob Cummings that mental telepathy is all bunk.

It was Burns who decided that Cummings should play a character who is, as Bob puts it, "not a worm." And it's Burns who is making sure that the comedy isn't built around galloping stupidity.

He may have something revolutionary there.

Stand Christmas Tree in Water

Don't let you Christmas tree be a fire hazard. Stand it in a container of water. That's the advice given by Prof. Ralph G. Unger, chairman of the State University College of Forestry extension department, Syracuse.

"Fire danger is reason enough to give the Christmts trees and sprays a water treatment," he says. "However, it is also the best way to keep the tree's needles from discoloring or falling."

Obtain a tree that has been cut recently—as recently as possible. This is the same idea as buying fresh-cut flowers.

If begun in time, the treatment will keep the needles fresh-green, and fire resistant, and retard their fall.

Two or three fire retardant coatings of waterglass solution may also be sprayed on the evergreen. The solution should consist of at least one-half pint of waterglass (sodium silicate) to five quarts of water, plus five teaspoonsful of a wetting agent such as a household detergent. But keeping the tree's stem in water is still the most important fire-prevention measure.

"Freshly cut spruce or balsam fir trees standing in water cannot be set afire by candle or match fires," Professor Unger said. "Of course, they will not withstand a large source of heat. Therefore, all precautions should be taken around the Christmas tree. Especially avoid using combustible decorations on the tree, and eliminate defective electrical connections."

Express Appreciation

Editor, The Freeman

Your recent editorial calling for an occasional act or word of gratitude to teachers for their work with the young people of the nation came as a pleasant surprise. To the teachers locally it was a real moral booster.

Teachers could stand some sincere thanks for the unpublicized good that they do. The growth of young people, intellectually, socially, emotionally, and morally, under the guiding hand of dedicated teachers seems to go unnoticed and unsung. It is a matter of deep concern that teachers, generally, have come to expect derision of their profession, ridicule of their efforts, doubts about their devotion to duty, and public apathy about their welfare.

Men and women of every community, even with all their God-given ability, owe their teachers on all levels much for what they themselves are. When they come to realize this fact they will know that, dollar for dollar, there's not a better tax dollar spent than that for their own school system.

These dedicated public servants, the teachers, thank you for your words of gratitude.

Sincerely Yours,
MICHAEL M. ARONICA
President

Forty-Eight Christmases

It was 48 years ago, on December 7, 1906, that the first Christmas Seals were sold in the United States to raise funds to fight tuberculosis. So, you see, those bright red and green Seals you have been putting on your envelopes have a long history.

Back in 1906, TB was "The White Plague," first on the list of causes of death. It had always been a part of man's history. To many it seemed hopeless to try to do anything about it. What could some little scraps of paper do? But to those who believed that TB was not hopeless, those "scraps of paper" symbolized a new way of fighting disease. TB was, they knew, a contagious disease caused by germs passed from the sick to the well. That made it everybody's problem. Everyone must learn the facts about it. Everyone's cooperation was needed to check its spread.

The Christmas Seal way of asking for small contributions from many people gave an opportunity to spread the truth about TB to people in all walks of life in all parts of the country. It gave millions an opportunity to contribute for their own good as well as for their neighbors.

In 48 years the Christmas Seal fight against TB has not changed basically, although techniques have changed and improved with the times. Preventing TB is still the major aim, and this is still done through education, through finding unknown cases of the disease, through efforts to keep the cured patient well, and through scientific research into the nature of the disease.

Today TB no longer heads the list of causes of death in the United States. Modern medicine can cure the disease. Yet it kills 20,000 people a year. TB can be prevented, yet it attacks 110,000 people every year. One fourth of the American people are believed to carry the germs that cause TB in their system. To protect you and your family the Christmas Seal campaign must go on until TB is defeated.

Local leaders think the major reasons might be that:

THE CHIEF INDUSTRIES here are in the precision field (photographic, optical, instruments); many of the plants are home-owned family affairs, and several are leaders nationally and internationally; the industries are diversified, with at least a dozen employing a thousand persons or more; there have been few labor-management conflicts.

Rochester, once known as the flour, rather than the Flower City, has seen a number of its industries dwindle over the years — flour, shoes, clothing, successively—but it has gained, meanwhile, on other fronts.

Eastman Kodak Co., now the largest employer and not unionized, had 14,000 workers in 1940. This year, it counts about 36,000 in its various plants here.

Whether the company will continue to expand in this area is an unanswered question. A spokesman who described the company's local employment as "fairly steady" despite a drop this year, partly due to lack of government work, said it was company policy not to predict.

The State Employment Service estimates that three per cent of a labor force of 245,000 in Monroe county, of which Rochester is the hub, is unemployed, compared with about half that in the best month of 1953. In 1940 and 1949, the estimated percentage was 13 per cent.

THE STATE'S COMPUTATION shows that in the factories average weekly earnings as of last October were 51 cents higher than in October, 1953, despite a cut of 1.2 hours in the average work week.

The November picture had not been examined closely, but a spot check indicated a slight rise in employment and little change in wages and hours.

ONE OF THE WORRISOME spots in Rochester economy has been a steady decline in the men's clothing industry, which employed about 12,500 in 1946 and now has roughly 9,000. The most expensive men's suits are reported selling very well, but the lower-priced ones have been dragging. However, a few hundred workers laid off recently are being recalled.

Among the brighter spots in this, the state's third largest city are construction and the optical business.

Spokesman for the AFL Teamsters Union have chalked up 1954 as a good construction year. They expect 1955 to be as good. Many new homes have been sprouting in the suburbs. Among the larger projects scheduled to begin in the spring is a 13-million-dollar generating plant for the Rochester Gas and Electric Corp.

Wollensak Optical Co., says it will need at least 25 per cent more workers in 1955. The company, a big producer of photographic lenses, now employs 1,100 and is continuing a two-million-dollar expansion program.

Russell McCarthy, manager of the Industrial Management Council of Rochester, says the community's general outlook for 1955 appears to be good.

The Wise Men in Jerusalem

NOW when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that was born King of the Jews for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled. He gathered all the chief priests and scribes together. He demanded of them where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea: for thus it is written by the prophet.

HELEN MENKEN has Shakespeare on the mind. Miss Menken, who starred for years on a CBS soap opera, "Second Husband," is now devoting most of her time to the Shakespeare Theatre and Academy, which she hopes will be built soon in the gentle hills near Stratford, Conn. She's helping the campaign to raise $100,000 for the project.

"It's rather incredible, I think," she says, "that America is only getting around to something like this now. After all, we donated some $800,000 to England's Stratford-on-Avon Shakespeare theatre. Don't you think it's about time we did something as wonderful for ourselves?"

Well, don't you?

Stupidity may be on its way out. On television, anyhow. Up to now, most situation comedies have gotten their laughs out of someone's stupidity, generally that of a husband and/or father.

"It was the easiest way," says Bob Cummings. "If you try to get laughs by poking fun at a certain nationality, or at deafness, or at people who lisp, there are always organizations that protest. There's only one group that isn't organized—stupid people."

Cummings used to be a stupid situation comedy star. On "My Hero," he played a character named Beanblossom, who was a positive genius at being dumb.

"I never liked that character," Cummings says. "But the show used to embarrass me by making lots of money and getting fabulous ratings."

Despite that happy embarrassment, he's deserting Beanblossom for a new format, which will debut in January over NBC-TV. It'll be called "The Bob Cummings Show," and will again be a situation comedy, but with a difference.

"I'll play a man named Bob Collins," Cummings says. "He'll be a normal guy—a successful photographer. He'll be, in his personality, a lot like me. I like photography, aviation and girls. Bob Collins will like photography, aviation and girls."

George Burns, of Burns and Allen, will be the production supervisor. Cummings says he wanted Burns, or somebody of that caliber, but had been hesitant to call him. So Burns called him, and anybody'll have a tough time convincing Bob Cummings that mental telepathy is all bunk.

It was Burns who decided that Cummings should play a character who is, as Bob puts it, "not a worm." And it's Burns who is making sure that the comedy isn't built around galloping stupidity.

He may have something revolutionary there.

Stand Christmas Tree in Water

Don't let you Christmas tree be a fire hazard. Stand it in a container of water. That's the advice given by Prof. Ralph G. Unger, chairman of the State University College of Forestry extension department, Syracuse.

"Fire danger is reason enough to give the Christmts trees and sprays a water treatment," he says. "However, it is also the best way to keep the tree's needles from discoloring or falling."

Obtain a tree that has been cut recently—as recently as possible. This is the same idea as buying fresh-cut flowers.

If begun in time, the treatment will keep the needles fresh-green, and fire resistant, and retard their fall.

Two or three fire retardant coatings of waterglass solution may also be sprayed on the evergreen. The solution should consist of at least one-half pint of waterglass (sodium silicate) to five quarts of water, plus five teaspoonsful of a wetting agent such as a household detergent. But keeping the tree's stem in water is still the most important fire-prevention measure.

"Freshly cut spruce or balsam fir trees standing in water cannot be set afire by candle or match fires," Professor Unger said. "Of course, they will not withstand a large source of heat. Therefore, all precautions should be taken around the Christmas tree. Especially avoid using combustible decorations on the tree, and eliminate defective electrical connections."

Express Appreciation

Editor, The Freeman

Your recent editorial calling for an occasional act or word of gratitude to teachers for their work with the young people of the nation came as a pleasant surprise. To the teachers locally it was a real moral booster.

Teachers could stand some sincere thanks for the unpublicized good that they do. The growth of young people, intellectually, socially, emotionally, and morally, under the guiding hand of dedicated teachers seems to go unnoticed and unsung. It is a matter of deep concern that teachers, generally, have come to expect derision of their profession, ridicule of their efforts, doubts about their devotion to duty, and public apathy about their welfare.

Men and women of every community, even with all their God-given ability, owe their teachers on all levels much for what they themselves are. When they come to realize this fact they will know that, dollar for dollar, there's not a better tax dollar spent than that for their own school system.

These dedicated public servants, the teachers, thank you for your words of gratitude.

Forty-Eight Christmases

It was 48 years ago, on December 7, 1906, that the first Christmas Seals were sold in the United States to raise funds to fight tuberculosis. So, you see, those bright red and green Seals you have been putting on your envelopes have a long history.

Back in 1906, TB was "The White Plague," first on the list of causes of death. It had always been a part of man's history. To many it seemed hopeless to try to do anything about it. What could some little scraps of paper do? But to those who believed that TB was not hopeless, those "scraps of paper" symbolized a new way of fighting disease. TB was, they knew, a contagious disease caused by germs passed from the sick to the well. That made it everybody's problem. Everyone must learn the facts about it. Everyone's cooperation was needed to check its spread.

The Christmas Seal way of asking for small contributions from many people gave an opportunity to spread the truth about TB to people in all walks of life in all parts of the country. It gave millions an opportunity to contribute for their own good as well as for their neighbors.

In 48 years the Christmas Seal fight against TB has not changed basically, although techniques have changed and improved with the times. Preventing TB is still the major aim, and this is still done through education, through finding unknown cases of the disease, through efforts to keep the cured patient well, and through scientific research into the nature of the disease.

Today TB no longer heads the list of causes of death in the United States. Modern medicine can cure the disease. Yet it kills 20,000 people a year. TB can be prevented, yet it attacks 110,000 people every year. One fourth of the American people are believed to carry the germs that cause TB in their system. To protect you and your family the Christmas Seal campaign must go on until TB is defeated.

By TONI ADAMS

Rochester, Dec. 13 (AP)—The "Flower City" of Rochester seems to stand out like a rose in New York state's somewhat needy economic garden, and many persons who should know predict that 1955 likely will be just a bit rosier.

That sounds like a Chamber of Commerce approach, but it stems from several factors — from figures down to the sound of people's voices, both here and in other communities visited by this reporter in a spot tour across the state.

Some expression of pessimism is found among Rochester union leaders, but optimism akin to management's is found also.

What makes Rochester and its economic area so different from the many communities in the state that have been panting money-wise in varying degrees as a result of the recession?

Local leaders think the major reasons might be that:

THE CHIEF INDUSTRIES here are in the precision field (photographic, optical, instruments); many of the plants are home-owned family affairs, and several are leaders nationally and internationally; the industries are diversified, with at least a dozen employing a thousand persons or more; there have been few labor-management conflicts.

Schecter to Head School Group

The Rev. David Gaise was elected vice president, Mrs. William VanDerzee, treasurer, and Mrs. Robert Moseley, secretary. Charles Rinschler presided as temporary chairman.

Rinschler urged the parents and teachers, a large number of whom were present, to provide a well-rounded education for children in home, school and church. A question and answer period was conducted by Principal M. Clifford Miller and information was presented relative to the testing program at MJM.

Schecter said he was confident that this year would be one of fine success and achievement for the association.

Market Manager Had to Get Item

East Meadow, Dec. 13 (AP)—John Cirnigliaro, 35, manager of a supermarket, locked up his store Saturday night and started home, carrying a package.

Two young men jabbed pistols at him in the dark parking lot and snarled, "hand over the bundle." Ciringliaro handed it over. They drove off in a waiting car.

Cirnigliaro telephoned police. On the way home he bought two more quarts of ice cream.

"My boys would never swallow a story about being held up and robbed by two punks who thought they were getting the day's receipts," he said.

You, too, can make good money by using the Freeman want ads.

Hospital Poster Winners Will Be Named This Week

Announcement that winners will be announced this week in the poster contest for the Kingston Hospital fund drive of $450,000, brought to light a poster executed by the noted American illustrator, Howard Chandler Christy, which was used to promote the hospital's drive in 1926.

The 1954 contest attracted 147 entries, which were judged last week by Paul W. Arndt, artist, of Woodstock. Augustus P. Modjeska, president of Modjeska Sign Studios and Clarence L. Dumm, retired high school principal. Their selections are expected some time this week.

THE 1926 POSTER has been preserved by James H. Betts, who received it from his father, the late James A. Betts, former State Supreme Court Justice, who was president of the hospital when it sought funds to rebuild after the fire of 1926.

Christy donated the poster design to the hospital when he learned of its need through a distant relative, Dr. George Fletcher Chandler, at that time a staff member of Kingston Hospital. Dr. Chandler is now living in retirement in New York.

BETTS RECALLED having the poster when the Kingston Hospital Development Fund announced it would sponsor a poster contest among county junior and senior high school students to promote its current drive for $450,000 to complete the present phase of its expansion program.

Survey Has Report About Teacher Ability

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—A joint survey by two professional groups shows that some 100,000 of the nation's high school students are being taught mathematics and science by what they termed inadequately trained instructors.

The scientific manpower commission, an organization representing nine major scientific societies, and the engineering manpower commission made the announcement yesterday as a result of a survey of educational conditions and means of correcting inadequacies.

The groups' joint committee on high school science teachers called on engineers and scientists in industry to "advise high school teachers and to provide summer jobs that will give them realistic experience in their specialties and...assure them needed earnings."

The committee also urged colleges to promote high school teaching as a career and provide more teaching courses.

East Meadow, Dec. 13 (AP)—John Cirnigliaro, 35, manager of a supermarket, locked up his store Saturday night and started home, carrying a package.

Two young men jabbed pistols at him in the dark parking lot and snarled, "hand over the bundle." Ciringliaro handed it over. They drove off in a waiting car.

Cirnigliaro telephoned police. On the way home he bought two more quarts of ice cream.

"My boys would never swallow a story about being held up and robbed by two punks who thought they were getting the day's receipts," he said.

Hospital Poster Winners Will Be Named This Week

Announcement that winners will be announced this week in the poster contest for the Kingston Hospital fund drive of $450,000, brought to light a poster executed by the noted American illustrator, Howard Chandler Christy, which was used to promote the hospital's drive in 1926.

The 1954 contest attracted 147 entries, which were judged last week by Paul W. Arndt, artist, of Woodstock. Augustus P. Modjeska, president of Modjeska Sign Studios and Clarence L. Dumm, retired high school principal. Their selections are expected some time this week.

THE 1926 POSTER has been preserved by James H. Betts, who received it from his father, the late James A. Betts, former State Supreme Court Justice, who was president of the hospital when it sought funds to rebuild after the fire of 1926.

Christy donated the poster design to the hospital when he learned of its need through a distant relative, Dr. George Fletcher Chandler, at that time a staff member of Kingston Hospital. Dr. Chandler is now living in retirement in New York.

BETTS RECALLED having the poster when the Kingston Hospital Development Fund announced it would sponsor a poster contest among county junior and senior high school students to promote its current drive for $450,000 to complete the present phase of its expansion program.

East Meadow, Dec. 13 (AP)—John Cirnigliaro, 35, manager of a supermarket, locked up his store Saturday night and started home, carrying a package.

Two young men jabbed pistols at him in the dark parking lot and snarled, "hand over the bundle." Cirnigliaro handed it over. They drove off in a waiting car.

Cirnigliaro telephoned police. On the way home he bought two more quarts of ice cream.

"My boys would never swallow a story about being held up and robbed by two punks who thought they were getting the day's receipts," he said.

Hospital Poster Winners Will Be Named This Week

Announcement that winners will be announced this week in the poster contest for the Kingston Hospital fund drive of $450,000, brought to light a poster executed by the noted American illustrator, Howard Chandler Christy, which was used to promote the hospital's drive in 1926.

The 1954 contest attracted 147 entries, which were judged last week by Paul W. Arndt, artist, of Woodstock. Augustus P. Modjeska, president of Modjeska Sign Studios and Clarence L. Dumm, retired high school principal. Their selections are expected some time this week.

THE 1926 POSTER has been preserved by James H. Betts, who received it from his father, the late James A. Betts, former State Supreme Court Justice, who was president of the hospital when it sought funds to rebuild after the fire of 1926.

Christy donated the poster design to the hospital when he learned of its need through a distant relative, Dr. George Fletcher Chandler, at that time a staff member of Kingston Hospital. Dr. Chandler is now living in retirement in New York.

BETTS RECALLED having the poster when the Kingston Hospital Development Fund announced it would sponsor a poster contest among county junior and senior high school students to promote its current drive for $450,000 to complete the present phase of its expansion program.

Survey Has Report About Teacher Ability

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—A joint survey by two professional groups shows that some 100,000 of the nation's high school students are being taught mathematics and science by what they termed inadequately trained instructors.

The scientific manpower commission, an organization representing nine major scientific societies, and the engineering manpower commission made the announcement yesterday as a result of a survey of educational conditions and means of correcting inadequacies.

The groups' joint committee on high school science teachers called on engineers and scientists in industry to "advise high school teachers and to provide summer jobs that will give them realistic experience in their specialties and...assure them needed earnings."

The committee also urged colleges to promote high school teaching as a career and provide more teaching courses.

Bronx Youth, 19, Hurt Critically

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—A 19-year-old Bronx youth was critically wounded by a rifle shot yesterday and his father was held without bail on a charge of felonious assault.

Police said the two argued frequently and that the early morning shooting resulted when the father became angry over the youth's failure to visit his 87-year-old maternal grandmother.

Police said the father, Daniel, a 48-year-old building superintendent, had been drinking when the youth came home from a date, and the pair got into an argument.

The elder Smith, police said, then telephoned his wife who has a night job, and said "I'm tired of this. I'm going to blow his brains out."

The father was held for a hearing Wednesday.

Foundation Reports Findings in Probes

New York, Dec. 13 (AP) — The Rockefeller Foundation said yesterday congressional probes of tax-exempt foundations have been repetitious and burdensome and run the risk of injustice.

The foundation, which makes grants for research, education and special projects, said in its annual report, that funds totalling $16,771,582 were distributed in 1953.

Foundation President Dean Rusk referred to special probes of tax-free foundations by congressional committees in 1952 and 1953. He said their right to obtain information was well recognized but added:

"Repetitious investigation imposes unnecessary burdens upon those under scrutiny and adds little, if anything, to the information of the Congress."

The foundation said the 1953 funds were divided as follows:

Medicine and public health—$3,820,000.

Natural sciences and agriculture—$5,429,000.

Social sciences—$3,597,000.

Humanities, including grants for creative arts—$1,763,000.

Administration and support of field offices—$2,011,000.

Foundation Reports Findings in Probes

New York, Dec. 13 (AP) — The Rockefeller Foundation said yesterday congressional probes of tax-exempt foundations have been repetitious and burdensome and run the risk of injustice.

The foundation, which makes grants for research, education and special projects, said in its annual report, that funds totalling $16,771,582 were distributed in 1953.

Foundation President Dean Rusk referred to special probes of tax-free foundations by congressional committees in 1952 and 1953. He said their right to obtain information was well recognized but added:

"Repetitious investigation imposes unnecessary burdens upon those under scrutiny and adds little, if anything, to the information of the Congress."

The foundation said the 1953 funds were divided as follows:

Medicine and public health—$3,820,000.

Natural sciences and agriculture—$5,429,000.

Social sciences—$3,597,000.

Humanities, including grants for creative arts—$1,763,000.

Administration and support of field offices—$2,011,000.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

It is about the dedication today of a memorial press center here in New York for 82 newsmen and women who died serving, as our faith goes, "a free press in a free world."

Ernie Pyle, or course can't be there. His elfin smile is about midway between the picture of Webb Miller, the brilliant United Press correspondent killed in a blackout accident in darkened London in 1940, and Bob Capa, regarded by many as the greatest combat photographer of his time. Bob bumped into a land mine this year in Indochina, while trying to grab another of the shots he was famous for.

TONIGHT in an unusual television show all 82 will be honored between 8 and 9:30 (EST) over the NBC network. It is sponsored by RCA and the Ford Motor Company, but although it is a tribute to reporters who knock at portals beyond our present knowing, many of us in the newspaper business think the public will find it worth watching.

We hope it will have both heart knocks and fun in it, but naturally we must wait and see about that.

Among the performers who are contributing their art and time are Bob Hope, Sid Caesar, Martha Raye, and John Daly.

As of this writing a great soldier under whom a number of the now-dead newsmen served will take part in the program. He is General Dwight Eisenhower, President of the United States.

The Memorial Press Center—at 35 East 39th street— is the culmination of a dream of a group of 20 veteran foreign correspondents who formed the Overseas Press Club in 1939 under founder President Wythe Williams. The club, now headed by Bob Considine, has more than 1,000 members.

THE HOPE IS that the new OPC home will be a forum of ideas expressed through diplomats, returning foreign correspondents, and foreign statesmen. Just a gathering place for news-minded folk interested in world affairs — and dedicated to the expression of freedom.

I wish you could see it. It is the five-floor mansion of a 19th century banker, modernized to make it comfortable to a degree its former owner never thought possible.

To me the most impressive thing about it is the library room, which lists without comment or explanation the 82 American men and women who did lose their lives while on news jobs overseas.

This simple rollcall of honor affects many visitors, club members and next-of-kin of those listed more than a bugle call would.

While it is a parade of death, it is also a parade of pride, and in its way indexes the sacrifices made by newspapers across America to keep their readers informed.

THE FUND DRIVE that made this Memorial Press Center possible was headed by Edward R. Murrow, Daly, Considine, and Patricia Hartwell. But it also reflects the philanthropy of copy boys, reporters, readers, desk editors and publishers from all parts of America.

There is no daily newspaper in this land that was not, at one time or another, represented by these 82 newsmen and women. Newspaper people generally are an inverted folk with our own peculiar pride of craft, and really expect no fame except the sometimes grudging praise we give each other, recognizing a job done well by the standards we believe in — and nobody else knows at all.

Yet it is well to have this memorial. It shows that newspapermen, though they often must report bloodshed, do themselves bleed, too.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME. (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Mrs. Gertrude Carney of 188 TenBroeck avenue phoned me to tell me that she had the musical composition mentioned in this column a short time ago, called In the Dear Old Hudson Valley by Andrew J. Oulton, whose address then was 115 Abeel street. It seems Mr. Oulton wrote the words as the music was by George Weber and it was copyrighted in 1911. No doubt many old timers remember the composition, copies of which are practically non-existent even among the Oulton family. Those who wish to see it may contact Mrs. Carney.

As young folks graduate from local schools they often wonder should they stay in town or try their luck in New York. As a rule young folks can always locate themselves in their hometowns and sometimes the job is good enough and they continue in it for the rest of time. As I did not take typing in high school my father wanted me to take the course in one of the business schools after I graduted from KHS and then try my luck in the big city. In his own life he had the experience of enjoying some of the largest cities in Europe in his youth and he felt that I should enjoy New York while I was young and nimble. I have never regretted it and when young folks ask me, I usually tell them, "Try New York even if for one winter, for Manhattan has wonders no other city in the world has and it is so near home. The museums, the schools, the mammoth buildings with its bronze express elevators and of course the eating places of all nations." So when I ran across illustrated article called Daintiest Beaneries in Town in the recent Saturday Evening Post it brought back many memories.

In my time Schrafft's was a candy, ice cream and pastry shop with dainty sandwich shop in rear of store as a rule. It was the glossy eating place for the average working girl and shopping housewife. My first trip there was with Irving Lehner of Kingston as we were both in New York at the time. We went to see the new Paramount Theatre. We had grown up between the Lyric on the Strand and the Orpheum Theatre and so were mightily impressed with all the wonders of this new Paramount. I still have the large white booklet they gave during opening week. After that Irving took me to Schrafft's where they gave me the largest chocolate soda. As I remember Kingston did not put whipped cream in their sodas yet, so Schrafft's chocolate soda impressed me no end.

Another trip to Schrafft's I remember well is when I went down on an excursion with Mrs. Florence Alcon Baker by boat and we thought we would have afternoon tea at Schrafft's to fill our wants for lunch. As the Saturday Evening Post article of Nov. 4 tells, each manager must be an expert in tasting all food prepared in his place and the owners of the entire group of restaurants are so expert that they can detect synthetic vanilla in fudge made by a competitor as soon as it is brought in. Schrafft's are noted for their dainty servings especially for afternoon tea, but we did not know that. We were hungry from our Day Line trip although we had some refreshments from home. When we were served those tiny sandwiches, cakes and a pot full of hot tea, even though on lace doilies and dainty service, we knew we would have to stop elsewhere for more but everything was delicious. One sandwich in particular was a paper thin slice of bread, crust cut off, tied with a green bow so it looked like a diploma. We both unrolled it and inside we found something which looked like a three-leaf clover. We looked around and the most dignified ladies seemed to be munching on this tiny beautiful cut bit of bread so we did too.

Radio broadcasting began in 1920, when stations in Detroit and Pittsburgh began their broadcasts.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

It is about the dedication today of a memorial press center here in New York for 82 newsmen and women who died serving, as our faith goes, "a free press in a free world."

Ernie Pyle, or course can't be there. His elfin smile is about midway between the picture of Webb Miller, the brilliant United Press correspondent killed in a blackout accident in darkened London in 1940, and Bob Capa, regarded by many as the greatest combat photographer of his time. Bob bumped into a land mine this year in Indochina, while trying to grab another of the shots he was famous for.

TONIGHT in an unusual television show all 82 will be honored between 8 and 9:30 (EST) over the NBC network. It is sponsored by RCA and the Ford Motor Company, but although it is a tribute to reporters who knock at portals beyond our present knowing, many of us in the newspaper business think the public will find it worth watching.

We hope it will have both heart knocks and fun in it, but naturally we must wait and see about that.

Among the performers who are contributing their art and time are Bob Hope, Sid Caesar, Martha Raye, and John Daly.

As of this writing a great soldier under whom a number of the now-dead newsmen served will take part in the program. He is General Dwight Eisenhower, President of the United States.

The Memorial Press Center—at 35 East 39th street— is the culmination of a dream of a group of 20 veteran foreign correspondents who formed the Overseas Press Club in 1939 under founder President Wythe Williams. The club, now headed by Bob Considine, has more than 1,000 members.

THE HOPE IS that the new OPC home will be a forum of ideas expressed through diplomats, returning foreign correspondents, and foreign statesmen. Just a gathering place for news-minded folk interested in world affairs — and dedicated to the expression of freedom.

I wish you could see it. It is the five-floor mansion of a 19th century banker, modernized to make it comfortable to a degree its former owner never thought possible.

To me the most impressive thing about it is the library room, which lists without comment or explanation the 82 American men and women who did lose their lives while on news jobs overseas.

This simple rollcall of honor affects many visitors, club members and next-of-kin of those listed more than a bugle call would.

While it is a parade of death, it is also a parade of pride, and in its way indexes the sacrifices made by newspapers across America to keep their readers informed.

THE FUND DRIVE that made this Memorial Press Center possible was headed by Edward R. Murrow, Daly, Considine, and Patricia Hartwell. But it also reflects the philanthropy of copy boys, reporters, readers, desk editors and publishers from all parts of America.

There is no daily newspaper in this land that was not, at one time or another, represented by these 82 newsmen and women. Newspaper people generally are an inverted folk with our own peculiar pride of craft, and really expect no fame except the sometimes grudging praise we give each other, recognizing a job done well by the standards we believe in — and nobody else knows at all.

Yet it is well to have this memorial. It shows that newspapermen, though they often must report bloodshed, do themselves bleed, too.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Mrs. Gertrude Carney of 188 TenBroeck avenue phoned me to tell me that she had the musical composition mentioned in this column a short time ago, called In the Dear Old Hudson Valley by Andrew J. Oulton, whose address then was 115 Abeel street. It seems Mr. Oulton wrote the words as the music was by George Weber and it was copyrighted in 1911. No doubt many old timers remember the composition, copies of which are practically non-existent even among the Oulton family. Those who wish to see it may contact Mrs. Carney.

As young folks graduate from local schools they often wonder should they stay in town or try their luck in New York. As a rule young folks can always locate themselves in their hometowns and sometimes the job is good enough and they continue in it for the rest of time. As I did not take typing in high school my father wanted me to take the course in one of the business schools after I graduted from KHS and then try my luck in the big city. In his own life he had the experience of enjoying some of the largest cities in Europe in his youth and he felt that I should enjoy New York while I was young and nimble. I have never regretted it and when young folks ask me, I usually tell them, "Try New York even if for one winter, for Manhattan has wonders no other city in the world has and it is so near home. The museums, the schools, the mammoth buildings with its bronze express elevators and of course the eating places of all nations." So when I ran across illustrated article called Daintiest Beaneries in Town in the recent Saturday Evening Post it brought back many memories.

In my time Schrafft's was a candy, ice cream and pastry shop with dainty sandwich shop in rear of store as a rule. It was the glossy eating place for the average working girl and shopping housewife. My first trip there was with Irving Lehner of Kingston as we were both in New York at the time. We went to see the new Paramount Theatre. We had grown up between the Lyric on the Strand and the Orpheum Theatre and so were mightily impressed with all the wonders of this new Paramount. I still have the large white booklet they gave during opening week. After that Irving took me to Schrafft's where they gave me the largest chocolate soda. As I remember Kingston did not put whipped cream in their sodas yet, so Schrafft's chocolate soda impressed me no end.

Another trip to Schrafft's I remember well is when I went down on an excursion with Mrs. Florence Alcon Baker by boat and we thought we would have afternoon tea at Schrafft's to fill our wants for lunch. As the Saturday Evening Post article of Nov. 4 tells, each manager must be an expert in tasting all food prepared in his place and the owners of the entire group of restaurants are so expert that they can detect synthetic vanilla in fudge made by a competitor as soon as it is brought in. Schrafft's are noted for their dainty servings especially for afternoon tea, but we did not know that. We were hungry from our Day Line trip although we had some refreshments from home. When we were served those tiny sandwiches, cakes and a pot full of hot tea, even though on lace doilies and dainty service, we knew we would have to stop elsewhere for more but everything was delicious. One sandwich in particular was a paper thin slice of bread, crust cut off, tied with a green bow so it looked like a diploma. We both unrolled it and inside we found something which looked like a three-leaf clover. We looked around and the most dignified ladies seemed to be munching on this tiny beautiful cut bit of bread so we did too.

Radio broadcasting began in 1920, when stations in Detroit and Pittsburgh began their broadcasts.

Changes in Rules To Be Considered

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Senate Republican leader Knowland said today proposed changes in rules for Senate investigating committees "undoubtedly will be taken up" early in the next session of Congress.

The Californian said in an interview there appears to be a general feeling among senators that "some rules changes are necessary and desirable."

Various proposals to establish "a code of fair procedures" for investigating committees were offered during the past session of Congress, but no action was taken on them.

Control over the legislative program in the new Congress starting Jan. 5 will pass into the hands of the Democrats, and Knowland said it will take "a high degree of cooperation" between the parties to effect any rules changes.

But he said that if this is achieved and if the subject is taken up early enough in the session to allow plenty of time for debate, he believed rules changes could be adopted.

He did not commit himself to any specific changes.

The special bipartisan committee which recommended censure of McCarthy also urged four rules changes which it said would have prevented "much of the criticism against investigative committee hearings."

These were not acted on, however.

Add Extra Fun, Good Cheer to the Holidays

It's easy to add extra fun and good cheer to the holidays without spending lots of extra money. Just have plenty of gaily colored packs of chewing gum on hand for tree decorations, stocking fillers, and after-meal treats to pass around the dinner table.

Youngsters always love to find a few packs of gum on the tree and among the other treasures in their Christmas stockings. Some chewing gum even comes wrapped in Christmasy red, green and white packages, right in tune with the holiday spirit.

Mothers are especially delighted with the idea of using packages of gum for Christmas decorations, because the protective wrappings keep the gum clean and wholesome, and the youngsters can enjoy the contents without spoiling their appetites. No harm done even if she notices that a package or two have mysteriously disappeared from the tree!

Red Cross Sets Goals

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Red Cross has fixed as targets for its fund raising campaign starting next March the collection of 85 million dollars and the enlistment of 30 million members. Timetable Announced

Winter timetables, including a number of minor changes in through and local service were issued by the New York Central Railroad Sunday. Changes in through service include some additional stops, and minor alterations in the arrival and departure times of a few trains. Schedules of leading trains of the Central's fleet remain unchanged.

Grand Central's Clock Tender, 77, Retires From Job

Jacob Bachtold, 77, tender of the clocks in Grand Central Terminal for more than 50 years, has retired.

He came to the United States in 1900 from his native Switzerland, where he had been a watchmaker four years. When he started working for New York Central in 1903 he was given charge of fewer than 25 clocks in and around the station that preceded the present terminal. At his retirement he had charge of about 1,000 clocks and the time recording devices in Grand Central and nearby locations.

PERHAPS THE MOST famous timepiece Bachtold tended is the four-faced "golden clock" mounted over the information booth in the terminal's main concourse. But in his eyes, the most beautiful clock in the world is the one he calls "the big fellow"—the clock over the terminal's main entrance on 42nd street, which has a face 14 feet in diameter. In addition to periodic checks, he liked to devote one full day a year to replacing its worn parts, climbing outside to tighten screws in the great bronze hands. His performance was always sure to draw a crowd in the street below to watch the master clockmaker at work.

Keeping the Grand Central clocks in condition now is the task of Paul H. Kugler, who for some time has been assistant to the clock foreman.

Bomb Fuse Removed

Can a 'Conference' Plan Replace Grading System?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some of our schools are considering replacing school marks with teacher-child and parent-teacher conferences.

A Mrs. F. who heard the new plan discussed at a recent P.-T. A. meeting writes: "I think the conferences would be fine if they were used in conjunction with the marks, not as substitutes for them. Surely no well-adjusted child is too disturbed by a bad mark when someone else gets a good one. Don't you agree?"

I do.

But I don't think that this new plan has been conceived for the "well-adjusted" child. I expect it's been conceived for the thousands of uncertain, belligerent, shy youngsters whose self-confidence is so unstable that disapproval, represented by a teacher's D, overwhelms them with discouragement and her approval, symbolized by her A, inflates them with delusions of grandeur.

And I shouldn't be surprised if the plan isn't just another chapter in our schools' heroic, but misunderstood, struggle to adjust old methods to the needs of the anxious, preoccupied children we send them.

They know their marks test Tommy's ability to deal with impersonal judgment of him. They know that he often fails this test of his self-confidence, responding to their marks with unrealistic pride or with a sense of helplessness expressed in overconscientiousness or an angry, "What do I care?"

As all these poor reactions to their marks complicate the work of teaching Tommy, I can understand why the schools might want to substitute "conferences" for them.

However, as Tommy's problem is anxiety, not school marks, I don't quite see how removing the marks solves it.

If he has an overprotective mother, she'll go right on justifying his neglect of school work, whether it's marked or whether it isn't. If his father demands A's in exchange for affectionate treatment of his son, their absence insure Tommy affectionate treatment.

Unless this anxious child's parents are wisely and compassionately led to look at the resentments which motivate their treatment of him, it is doubtful whether "conferences" with his teacher can give more than passing comfort to Tommy.

Unless his parents are willing to understand themselves, it is doubtful whether their "conferences" with her can give them anything but superficial understanding of Tommy.

New York Post Strike Is Called

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The CIO Newspaper Guild, stalemated in contract negotiations with the New York Post, has called a strike for midnight tonight.

In calling the strike last night, Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the Guild's New York local, said the Post "is insisting on exemption of additional employes from contract coverage, a clause providing lesser job security for some new employes, and a change in a part of the dismissal-severance pay protection clause."

HE ADDED that the union has offered to settle for a two-year wage increase package of $5.80 "without any retrogression in old contract terms." Wage scales under the old contract, which expired Oct. 30, vary according to job classification. For reporters and rewriters, the top minimum pay is $130.

The Post management issued a statement saying that if its proposals for contract changes were accepted, "the Post contract would continue to be the best in the city."

THE NEWSPAPER said it is seeking to exempt from the contract the jobs of night city editor, sports editor, feature editor, city circulator, cashier, payroll supervisor and credit and collection manager. However, it added, any person now holding any of these jobs would be permitted to retain union protection if he wishes.

"The Post now has the smallest number of exemptions of any newspaper in New York city," the statement said.

IT ALSO SAID the Post was the only major paper in the city without the "qualified right to determine the size of its staff" but was still seeking only to limit job security to those now employed.

New employes, it said, would get full job security when they moved into vacancies in their departments.

Regarding severance pay, the Post said it was seeking to dismiss without full severance pay persons guilty of financial dishonesty, gross neglect of duty, or gross insubordination. No other New York city newspaper grant severance pay in such cases, it said.

Mourns Girls' Death

Miranda De Ebro, Spain, Dec. 13 (AP)—This northern Spanish city went into full mourning today for the mass funeral of 10 little girls killed yesterday by a crowd of children stampeding into a church basement for a theatrical show. Offices were closed and flags flown at half mast. More than 300 children were lined up impatiently waiting for a Christmas holiday program to start in a theatre in the basement of the church. They started pushing and the doors flew open. Girls in the front, ranging in age from 6 to 12, were crushed, trampled underfoot and smothered.

Industry Plans United Fight On Costly Common Cold

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The common cold costs business in this country about 150 million work days a year. That runs into money, so a group of industrialists are forming the common cold foundation and backing a new try for a cure, a preventative, or both.

The sneeze, cough and sniffle season, however, has other niches in the business world than the loss of man hours or the drop in efficiency if the conscientious worker does show up on the job.

FOR ONE THING, there's a growing market for the various treatments and devices that individual Americans now swear by when they seek relief from the onslaught — which the United States Public Health Service estimates will tally 500 million colds in this country in the next 12 months.

The common cold, moreover, is a prime salesman in the season now getting under way, for the makers of such things as storm doors and windows, or the latest in furnaces, and for the peddlers of fuel. It is also a star salesman for whisky—although some contend a cold is more of an excuse than a selling point.

The first of the season's epidemic of sniffles also zooms the sale of mufflers, overcoats, rubbers and electric blankets. This month the first chilly blasts of winter, by little if any coincidence, hit the eastern seaboard about the time that light fuel oil prices went up around one half cent a gallon and heavy fuel oil went up 10 to 15 cents a barrell.

AND, FINALLY, the stepped-up scientific search for a cure or preventative for the common cold also induces some firms who manufacture cold treatments to look forward to the day when that business might fold, should the discovery come along. And so they are diversifying now into other lines that may run on forever—like cosmetics, since vanity seems proof against anything science can dream up.

Cold waves slipping across the Canadian border these days at an increasing pace inspire the national combination storm window and door institute to predict a 15 per cent increase in sales in the coming year. Makers of the insultating devices sold around 200 million dollars worth to nearly one million homeowners this year.

The institute's 45 members are also eyeing the year-around market, pointing out that a double glass pane which holds out the cold in winter can save a lot of money by holding the coolness in during the hot months when air conditioners are running.

BUT ONCE one of those 500 million colds latches on to you, the makers of pills and nose drops and inhalators take over.

There are, for instance, 7½ million vaporizers in use in the United States, according to officials of the Kax Manufacturing Co. of New York. The company is one of a number making electric vaporizers— an outgrowth of the old croup kettle which grandma heated over an open flame alcohol lamp.

Vaporizer industry sales jumped 22 per cent in 1953, and the Kax concern estimates its sales will be up this year by 45 per cent.

But against the day the common cold might be completely licked, the Vick Chemical Co., which once was entirely devoted to various treatments, has branched out into such other lines as chemicals, plastics, perfurmes, cosmetics and toiletries.

Today, however, thousands of workers will have their wives call the boss and say—"Harry has a cold and won't be in."

Moscow Tells of Work On Power Stations

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—Moscow radio said today that Soviet engineers are "working on designs of atomic powered electric stations of 50 to 100 thousand kilowatts capacity."

The Soviet Union announced recently its first atomic power plant, a small one, had gone into operation. The United States broke ground in September at Shippingport, Pa., for its first full-scale nuclear power plant, designed to produce 60,000 kilowatts upon completion in 3½ or 4 years.

Volunteers Start TB Seal Sale at Main Post Office

Volunteers began the operation of a booth at the Central Post Office today for the sale of Christmas Seals. The booth, which operates for the convenience of those who have not received Christmas Seals in the mail or who wish to buy additional seals for their greeting cards and gift packages, will remain open through Dec. 20 from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

PROCEEDS from both the booth and mail sale of Christmas Seals will finance the Ulster County TB and Health Association's tuberculosis prevention and control program. It was pointed out that the Christmas Seals sale is an excellent example of community action. The campaign is built on the strong belief that volunteers are essential and necessary to a successful sale. Those individuals who give of their time and energy participate in all phases of the Christmas Seals Sales, from the initial planning meeting to the closing of the books.

Changes in Rules To Be Considered

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Senate Republican leader Knowland said today proposed changes in rules for Senate investigating committees "undoubtedly will be taken up" early in the next session of Congress.

The Californian said in an interview there appears to be a general feeling among senators that "some rules changes are necessary and desirable."

Various proposals to establish "a code of fair procedures" for investigating committees were offered during the past session of Congress, but no action was taken on them.

Control over the legislative program in the new Congress starting Jan. 5 will pass into the hands of the Democrats, and Knowland said it will take "a high degree of cooperation" between the parties to effect any rules changes.

But he said that if this is achieved and if the subject is taken up early enough in the session to allow plenty of time for debate, he believed rules changes could be adopted.

He did not commit himself to any specific changes.

The special bipartisan committee which recommended censure of McCarthy also urged four rules changes which it said would have prevented "much of the criticism against investigative committee hearings."

These were not acted on, however.

It's easy to add extra fun and good cheer to the holidays without spending lots of extra money. Just have plenty of gaily colored packs of chewing gum on hand for tree decorations, stocking fillers, and after-meal treats to pass around the dinner table.

Youngsters always love to find a few packs of gum on the tree and among the other treasures in their Christmas stockings. Some chewing gum even comes wrapped in Christmasy red, green and white packages, right in tune with the holiday spirit.

Mothers are especially delighted with the idea of using packages of gum for Christmas decorations, because the protective wrappings keep the gum clean and wholesome, and the youngsters can enjoy the contents without spoiling their appetites. No harm done even if she notices that a package or two have mysteriously disappeared from the tree!

Grand Central's Clock Tender, 77, Retires From Job

Jacob Bachtold, 77, tender of the clocks in Grand Central Terminal for more than 50 years, has retired.

He came to the United States in 1900 from his native Switzerland, where he had been a watchmaker four years. When he started working for New York Central in 1903 he was given charge of fewer than 25 clocks in and around the station that preceded the present terminal. At his retirement he had charge of about 1,000 clocks and the time recording devices in Grand Central and nearby locations.

PERHAPS THE MOST famous timepiece Bachtold tended is the four-faced "golden clock" mounted over the information booth in the terminal's main concourse. But in his eyes, the most beautiful clock in the world is the one he calls "the big fellow"—the clock over the terminal's main entrance on 42nd street, which has a face 14 feet in diameter. In addition to periodic checks, he liked to devote one full day a year to replacing its worn parts, climbing outside to tighten screws in the great bronze hands. His performance was always sure to draw a crowd in the street below to watch the master clockmaker at work.

Keeping the Grand Central clocks in condition now is the task of Paul H. Kugler, who for some time has been assistant to the clock foreman.

Can a 'Conference' Plan Replace Grading System?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some of our schools are considering replacing school marks with teacher-child and parent-teacher conferences.

A Mrs. F. who heard the new plan discussed at a recent P.-T. A. meeting writes: "I think the conferences would be fine if they were used in conjunction with the marks, not as substitutes for them. Surely no well-adjusted child is too disturbed by a bad mark when someone else gets a good one. Don't you agree?"

I do.

But I don't think that this new plan has been conceived for the "well-adjusted" child. I expect it's been conceived for the thousands of uncertain, belligerent, shy youngsters whose self-confidence is so unstable that disapproval, represented by a teacher's D, overwhelms them with discouragement and her approval, symbolized by her A, inflates them with delusions of grandeur.

And I shouldn't be surprised if the plan isn't just another chapter in our schools' heroic, but misunderstood, struggle to adjust old methods to the needs of the anxious, preoccupied children we send them.

They know their marks test Tommy's ability to deal with impersonal judgment of him. They know that he often fails this test of his self-confidence, responding to their marks with unrealistic pride or with a sense of helplessness expressed in overconscientiousness or an angry, "What do I care?"

As all these poor reactions to their marks complicate the work of teaching Tommy, I can understand why the schools might want to substitute "conferences" for them.

However, as Tommy's problem is anxiety, not school marks, I don't quite see how removing the marks solves it.

If he has an overprotective mother, she'll go right on justifying his neglect of school work, whether it's marked or whether it isn't. If his father demands A's in exchange for affectionate treatment of his son, their absence insure Tommy affectionate treatment.

Unless this anxious child's parents are wisely and compassionately led to look at the resentments which motivate their treatment of him, it is doubtful whether "conferences" with his teacher can give more than passing comfort to Tommy.

Unless his parents are willing to understand themselves, it is doubtful whether their "conferences" with her can give them anything but superficial understanding of Tommy.

New York Post Strike Is Called

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The CIO Newspaper Guild, stalemated in contract negotiations with the New York Post, has called a strike for midnight tonight.

In calling the strike last night, Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the Guild's New York local, said the Post "is insisting on exemption of additional employes from contract coverage, a clause providing lesser job security for some new employes, and a change in a part of the dismissal-severance pay protection clause."

HE ADDED that the union has offered to settle for a two-year wage increase package of $5.80 "without any retrogression in old contract terms." Wage scales under the old contract, which expired Oct. 30, vary according to job classification. For reporters and rewriters, the top minimum pay is $130.

The Post management issued a statement saying that if its proposals for contract changes were accepted, "the Post contract would continue to be the best in the city."

THE NEWSPAPER said it is seeking to exempt from the contract the jobs of night city editor, sports editor, feature editor, city circulator, cashier, payroll supervisor and credit and collection manager. However, it added, any person now holding any of these jobs would be permitted to retain union protection if he wishes.

"The Post now has the smallest number of exemptions of any newspaper in New York city," the statement said.

IT ALSO SAID the Post was the only major paper in the city without the "qualified right to determine the size of its staff" but was still seeking only to limit job security to those now employed.

New employes, it said, would get full job security when they moved into vacancies in their departments.

Regarding severance pay, the Post said it was seeking to dismiss without full severance pay persons guilty of financial dishonesty, gross neglect of duty, or gross insubordination. No other New York city newspaper grant severance pay in such cases, it said.

Industry Plans United Fight On Costly Common Cold

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The common cold costs business in this country about 150 million work days a year. That runs into money, so a group of industrialists are forming the common cold foundation and backing a new try for a cure, a preventative, or both.

The sneeze, cough and sniffle season, however, has other niches in the business world than the loss of man hours or the drop in efficiency if the conscientious worker does show up on the job.

FOR ONE THING, there's a growing market for the various treatments and devices that individual Americans now swear by when they seek relief from the onslaught — which the United States Public Health Service estimates will tally 500 million colds in this country in the next 12 months.

The common cold, moreover, is a prime salesman in the season now getting under way, for the makers of such things as storm doors and windows, or the latest in furnaces, and for the peddlers of fuel. It is also a star salesman for whisky—although some contend a cold is more of an excuse than a selling point.

The first of the season's epidemic of snifles also zooms the sale of mufflers, overcoats, rubbers and electric blankets. This month the first chilly blasts of winter, by little if any coincidence, hit the eastern seaboard about the time that light fuel oil prices went up around one half cent a gallon and heavy fuel oil went up 10 to 15 cents a barrell.

And so they are diversifying now into other lines that may run on forever—like cosmetics, since vanity seems proof against anything science can dream up.

Cold waves slipping across the Canadian border these days at an increasing pace inspire the national combination storm window and door institute to predict a 15 per cent increase in sales in the coming year. Makers of the insultating devices sold around 200 million dollars worth to nearly one million homeowners this year.

The institute's 45 members are also eyeing the year-around market, pointing out that a double glass pane which holds out the cold in winter can save a lot of money by holding the coolness in during the hot months when air conditioners are running.

BUT ONCE one of those 500 million colds latches on to you, the makers of pills and nose drops and inhalators take over.

There are, for instance, 7½ million vaporizers in use in the United States, according to officials of the Kax Manufacturing Co. of New York. The company is one of a number making electric vaporizers— an outgrowth of the old croup kettle which grandma heated over an open flame alcohol lamp.

Vaporizer industry sales jumped 22 per cent in 1953, and the Kax concern estimates its sales will be up this year by 45 per cent.

But against the day the common cold might be completely licked. the Vick Chemical Co., which once was entirely devoted to various treatments, has branched out into such other lines as chemicals, plastics, perfurmes, cosmetics and toiletries.

Today, however, thousands of workers will have their wives call the boss and say—"Harry has a cold and won't be in."

Moscow Tells of Work On Power Stations

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—Moscow radio said today that Soviet engineers are "working on designs of atomic powered electric stations of 50 to 100 thousand kilowatts capacity."

The Soviet Union announced recently its first atomic power plant, a small one, had gone into operation. The United States broke ground in September at Shippingport, Pa., for its first full-scale nuclear power plant, designed to produce 60,000 kilowatts upon completion in 3½ or 4 years.

Add Extra Fun, Good Cheer to the Holidays

It's easy to add extra fun and good cheer to the holidays without spending lots of extra money. Just have plenty of gaily colored packs of chewing gum on hand for tree decorations, stocking fillers, and after-meal treats to pass around the dinner table.

Youngsters always love to find a few packs of gum on the tree and among the other treasures in their Christmas stockings. Some chewing gum even comes wrapped in Christmasy red, green and white packages, right in tune with the holiday spirit.

Mothers are especially delighted with the idea of using packages of gum for Christmas decorations, because the protective wrappings keep the gum clean and wholesome, and the youngsters can enjoy the contents without spoiling their appetites. No harm done even if she notices that a package or two have mysteriously disappeared from the tree!

Grand Central's Clock Tender, 77, Retires From Job

Jacob Bachtold, 77, tender of the clocks in Grand Central Terminal for more than 50 years, has retired.

He came to the United States in 1900 from his native Switzerland, where he had been a watchmaker four years. When he started working for New York Central in 1903 he was given charge of fewer than 25 clocks in and around the station that preceded the present terminal. At his retirement he had charge of about 1,000 clocks and the time recording devices in Grand Central and nearby locations.

PERHAPS THE MOST famous timepiece Bachtold tended is the four-faced "golden clock" mounted over the information booth in the terminal's main concourse. But in his eyes, the most beautiful clock in the world is the one he calls "the big fellow"—the clock over the terminal's main entrance on 42nd street, which has a face 14 feet in diameter. In addition to periodic checks, he liked to devote one full day a year to replacing its worn parts, climbing outside to tighten screws in the great bronze hands. His performance was always sure to draw a crowd in the street below to watch the master clockmaker at work.

Keeping the Grand Central clocks in condition now is the task of Paul H. Kugler, who for some time has been assistant to the clock foreman.

Opens Albany Office; Wife Was Kingstonian

Murray Morris, PhT, has opened an office for the practice of physical therapy and rehabilitation at 313 Washington avenue, Albany, it was announced today.

He is married to the former Peggy Rosenberg of Kingston. Mrs. Rosenberg's father, the late Dr. Joseph Rosenberg, was well-known here.

Morris was graduated from Clark University, Worcester, Mass., and the Permanente Hospital School of Physical Therapy, Vallejo, Calif. During World War 2 he served for three and a half years with the army and war department.

Professionally he is a member of the American Registry of Physical Therapists and New York State Society of Physiotherapists.

Bomb Fuse Removed

Berlin, Dec. 13 (AP)—German experts removed the fuse today from a 1,000-pound unexploded World War 2 bomb found in a garden in the British sector boroughs of Spandau. The area was roped off while a team of three engineers deactivated the dud.

Can a 'Conference' Plan Replace Grading System?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some of our schools are considering replacing school marks with teacher-child and parent-teacher conferences.

A Mrs. F. who heard the new plan discussed at a recent P.-T. A. meeting writes: "I think the conferences would be fine if they were used in conjunction with the marks, not as substitutes for them. Surely no well-adjusted child is too disturbed by a bad mark when someone else gets a good one. Don't you agree?"

I do.

But I don't think that this new plan has been conceived for the "well-adjusted" child. I expect it's been conceived for the thousands of uncertain, belligerent, shy youngsters whose self-confidence is so unstable that disapproval, represented by a teacher's D, overwhelms them with discouragement and her approval, symbolized by her A, inflates them with delusions of grandeur.

And I shouldn't be surprised if the plan isn't just another chapter in our schools' heroic, but misunderstood, struggle to adjust old methods to the needs of the anxious, preoccupied children we send them.

They know their marks test Tommy's ability to deal with impersonal judgment of him. They know that he often fails this test of his self-confidence, responding to their marks with unrealistic pride or with a sense of helplessness expressed in overconscientiousness or an angry, "What do I care?"

As all these poor reactions to their marks complicate the work of teaching Tommy, I can understand why the schools might want to substitute "conferences" for them.

However, as Tommy's problem is anxiety, not school marks, I don't quite see how removing the marks solves it.

If he has an overprotective mother, she'll go right on justifying his neglect of school work, whether it's marked or whether it isn't. If his father demands A's in exchange for affectionate treatment of his son, their absence insure Tommy affectionate treatment.

Unless this anxious child's parents are wisely and compassionately led to look at the resentments which motivate their treatment of him, it is doubtful whether "conferences" with his teacher can give more than passing comfort to Tommy.

Unless his parents are willing to understand themselves, it is doubtful whether their "conferences" with her can give them anything but superficial understanding of Tommy.

New York Post Strike Is Called

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The CIO Newspaper Guild, stalemated in contract negotiations with the New York Post, has called a strike for midnight tonight.

In calling the strike last night, Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the Guild's New York local, said the Post "is insisting on exemption of additional employes from contract coverage, a clause providing lesser job security for some new employes, and a change in a part of the dismissal-severance pay protection clause."

HE ADDED that the union has offered to settle for a two-year wage increase package of $5.80 "without any retrogression in old contract terms." Wage scales under the old contract, which expired Oct. 30, vary according to job classification. For reporters and rewriters, the top minimum pay is $130.

The Post management issued a statement saying that if its proposals for contract changes were accepted, "the Post contract would continue to be the best in the city."

THE NEWSPAPER said it is seeking to exempt from the contract the jobs of night city editor, sports editor, feature editor, city circulator, cashier, payroll supervisor and credit and collection manager. However, it added, any person now holding any of these jobs would be permitted to retain union protection if he wishes.

"The Post now has the smallest number of exemptions of any newspaper in New York city," the statement said.

IT ALSO SAID the Post was the only major paper in the city without the "qualified right to determine the size of its staff" but was still seeking only to limit job security to those now employed.

New employes, it said, would get full job security when they moved into vacancies in their departments.

Regarding severance pay, the Post said it was seeking to dismiss without full severance pay persons guilty of financial dishonesty, gross neglect of duty, or gross insubordination. No other New York city newspaper grant severance pay in such cases, it said.

Mourns Girls' Death

Miranda De Ebro, Spain, Dec. 13 (AP)—This northern Spanish city went into full mourning today for the mass funeral of 10 little girls killed yesterday by a crowd of children stampeding into a church basement for a theatrical show. Offices were closed and flags flown at half mast. More than 300 children were lined up impatiently waiting for a Christmas holiday program to start in a theatre in the basement of the church. They started pushing and the doors flew open. Girls in the front, ranging in age from 6 to 12, were crushed, trampled underfoot and smothered.

Five Are Sentenced

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 13 (AP)—Five more members of the extremist Moslem Brotherhood were sentenced yesterday to hang on charges of plotting to assassinate Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and other officials in October. Six brotherhood members were executed last Tuesday.

Industry Plans United Fight On Costly Common Cold

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The common cold costs business in this country about 150 million work days a year. That runs into money, so a group of industrialists are forming the common cold foundation and backing a new try for a cure, a preventative, or both.

The sneeze, cough and sniffle season, however, has other niches in the business world than the loss of man hours or the drop in efficiency if the conscientious worker does show up on the job.

FOR ONE THING, there's a growing market for the various treatments and devices that individual Americans now swear by when they seek relief from the onslaught — which the United States Public Health Service estimates will tally 500 million colds in this country in the next 12 months.

The common cold, moreover, is a prime salesman in the season now getting under way, for the makers of such things as storm doors and windows, or the latest in furnaces, and for the peddlers of fuel. It is also a star salesman for whisky—although some contend a cold is more of an excuse than a selling point.

The first of the season's epidemic of snifles also zooms the sale of mufflers, overcoats, rubbers and electric blankets. This month the first chilly blasts of winter, by little if any coincidence, hit the eastern seaboard about the time that light fuel oil prices went up around one half cent a gallon and heavy fuel oil went up 10 to 15 cents a barrell.

AND, FINALLY, the stepped-up scientific search for a cure or preventative for the common cold also induces some firms who manufacture cold treatments to look forward to the day when that business might fold, should the discovery come along. And so they are diversifying now into other lines that may run on forever—like cosmetics, since vanity seems proof against anything science can dream up.

Cold waves slipping across the Canadian border these days at an increasing pace inspire the national combination storm window and door institute to predict a 15 per cent increase in sales in the coming year. Makers of the insultating devices sold around 200 million dollars worth to nearly one million homeowners this year.

The institute's 45 members are also eyeing the year-around market, pointing out that a double glass pane which holds out the cold in winter can save a lot of money by holding the coolness in during the hot months when air conditioners are running.

BUT ONCE one of those 500 million colds latches on to you, the makers of pills and nose drops and inhalators take over.

There are, for instance, 7½ million vaporizers in use in the United States, according to officials of the Kax Manufacturing Co. of New York. The company is one of a number making electric vaporizers—an outgrowth of the old croup kettle which grandma heated over an open flame alcohol lamp.

Vaporizer industry sales jumped 22 per cent in 1953, and the Kax concern estimates its sales will be up this year by 45 per cent.

But against the day the common cold might be completely licked, the Vick Chemical Co., which once was entirely devoted to various treatments, has branched out into such other lines as chemicals, plastics, perfumes, cosmetics and toiletries.

Today, however, thousands of workers will have their wives call the boss and say—"Harry has a cold and won't be in."

Moscow Tells of Work On Power Stations

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—Moscow radio said today that Soviet engineers are "working on designs of atomic powered electric stations of 50 to 100 thousand kilowatts capacity."

The Soviet Union announced recently its first atomic power plant, a small one, had gone into operation. The United States broke ground in September at Shippingport, Pa., for its first full-scale nuclear power plant, designed to produce 60,000 kilowatts upon completion in 3½ or 4 years.

Volunteers began the operation of a booth at the Central Post Office today for the sale of Christmas Seals. The booth, which operates for the convenience of those who have not received Christmas Seals in the mail or who wish to buy additional seals for their greeting cards and gift packages, will remain open through Dec. 20 from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

PROCEEDS from both the booth and mail sale of Christmas Seals will finance the Ulster County TB and Health Association's tuberculosis prevention and control program. It was pointed out that the Christmas Seals sale is an excellent example of community action. The campaign is built on the strong belief that volunteers are essential and necessary to a successful sale. Those individuals who give of their time and energy participate in all phases of the Christmas Seals Sales, from the initial planning meeting to the closing of the books.

WHAT MAKES MONEY CHEAP

Recently in a grocery store an irate woman upbraided the proprietor: "I can't understand it," she said bitterly, "these eggs that you are charging me 70 cents a dozen for I used to buy for 40 cents. And my savings that once paid 4½ per cent in interest a year now pay me only 2½ per cent!"

"Madam," explained the grocer, "that's what inflation has done!"

Inflation!" the woman indignatly replied, "Why hasn't interest been inflated too?"

The phenomenon of high prices and low interest rates is little understood in America. It is something that will be here for decades. And in millions of families it will pose a problem of perplexing persistence.

Just what does make money and prices high? To get at the source of the problem, one must go back 50 years. Half a century ago, our banking system lacked flexibility. One manifestation of this was the inability of the banking system to increase money supplies when they were urgently needed. In professional language, this was called "inelastic currency."

Economic crisis of this condition, the Federal Reserve Act was written which authorized the establishment of a new banking system in America. Under this Act, 12 Federal Reserve Banks were opened— in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco.

Now, this Act gave the country an "elastic" currency. The money that gave our currency elasticity is the Federal Reserve Note. Of the present money in circulation of around $30,000,000,000 more than 80 per cent is represented by Federal Reserve Notes.

Federal Reserve Banks are institutions enjoying powers of money issuance. On the face of every Federal Reserve Note is this statement: "This note is legal tender for all debts, public and private, and is redeemable in lawful money at the United States Treasury or at any Federal Reserve Bank."

Federal Reserve Notes are issued against government bonds, bank and trade acceptances and other commercial paper. Thus, one can see how and why America's money supplies have skyrocketed in recent years. In 20 years, Uncle Sam has had to borrow over $250,000,000,000 and when this debt hits the banks, money is created.

Money becomes cheap because it is plentiful. And money is plentiful because Uncle Sam, in financing wars and depressions, has had to borrow billions upon billions.

And as money becomes cheap, it buys less and prices advance. The economic force that pushes prices higher shoves interest rates down.

Thus it is that during the past 20 years interest rates have gone down nearly 50 per cent while prices of eggs and milk and rent and clothing have gone up 100, 200, 300 per cent. Furthermore, since there is little prospect for an early reduction of the federal debt or of America's money supplies, this high price-low interest rate situation promises to be with us for countless years ahead. It is the price our people must pay for the inflation.

Anyone suffering from it should take steps to escape its economic consequences.

THE FORUM—(Q) "I am a widow with $20,000 and I desperately need $1,000 a year in income from it. What would you suggest?"

(A) Split your fund in 6 or 8 parts. Consult your banker or broker, telling him you must have 5 per cent on your money. Buying sound common stocks involves risk but if you buy the best, you will be purchasing growth also.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Duplicate Bridge Is Worth Trying

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Duplicate bridge is one of the most enjoyable forms of our finest card game, but many bridge fans are shy about trying it. They need have no more fears since there is at last a splendid book to introduce them to the game, from the most elementary to the most advanced points.

"If you're in a bad contract in a duplicate tournament," observes my associate, Alfred Sheinwold, in his brand-new book "How to Bid and Play in Duplicate Bridge," "you must look for any desperate maneuver that may salvage a few match points from the wreckage.

"West leads the deuce of clubs, and East wins the first trick with the ace. East returns the four of clubs.

"Your first step is to prepare a few choice remarks to make to your partner at the end of the hand. He should be playing the hand at four hearts instead of letting you play it at three no-trump. He would lose a club and one or two diamonds, making either ten or eleven tricks.

"At no-trump you can run nine tricks without the slightest difficulty—five hearts, a club, a diamond, and two spades. This will probably get you only a near-bottom. You get no match points for three no-trump when everybody else is making four or five hearts.

"The only hope is to play for 10 tricks at no-trump in the hope that only 10 tricks can be made at hearts. (There is no play for 11 tricks at no-trump, so you must resign yourself to a bad score if it is possible to make 11 tricks at hearts.)

"You win the second trick with the king of clubs and immediately finesse dummy's jack of spades. If the finesse loses, the defenders will run their clubs and defeat the game contract. Even if this happens, you have still made the right play. The score for being set will be only a point or so worse than the score for making nine tricks at no-trump.

"If the spade finesse works, you will have 10 tricks at no-trump: three spades, five hearts, a diamond and a club. This gives you a chance for a good score. If the diamonds are obliging enough to break 3-1, the other declarers will lose two diamonds and a club at their heart contracts. You will have a fine score for 10 tricks at no-trump, and you will compliment your partner on his risky but brilliant pass."

Trial Balloon

Chicago (AP) — Ten-year-old Terry Stromberg loosed a gas-filled balloon from her Chicago home recently bearing a message: "Help, please." She also included her name and address. A farmer found the balloon about a week later in a field near Grand Junction, Mich., about 75 miles from Chicago. He spotted the note and informed police. Two officers rushed to the Stromberg home. "Oh, I'm okay," Terry told them. "I just wanted to see how far it would go."

Federal Reserve Banks are institutions enjoying powers of money issuance. On the face of every Federal Reserve Note is this statement: "This note is legal tender for all debts, public and private, and is redeemable in lawful money at the United States Treasury or at any Federal Reserve Bank."

Federal Reserve Notes are issued against government bonds, bank and trade acceptances and other commercial paper. Thus, one can see how and why America's money supplies have skyrocketed in recent years. In 20 years, Uncle Sam has had to borrow over $250,000,000,000 and when this debt hits the banks, money is created.

Money becomes cheap because it is plentiful. And money is plentiful because Uncle Sam, in financing wars and depressions, has had to borrow billions upon billions.

And as money becomes cheap, it buys less and prices advance. The economic force that pushes prices higher shoves interest rates down.

Thus it is that during the past 20 years interest rates have gone down nearly 50 per cent while prices of eggs and milk and rent and clothing have gone up 100, 200, 300 per cent. Furthermore, since there is little prospect for an early reduction of the federal debt or of America's money supplies, this high price-low interest rate situation promises to be with us for countless years ahead. It is the price our people must pay for the inflation.

Anyone suffering from it should take steps to escape its economic consequences.

THE FORUM—(Q) "I am a widow with $20,000 and I desperately need $1,000 a year in income from it. What would you suggest?"

Trial Balloon

Chicago (AP) — Ten-year-old Terry Stromberg loosed a gas-filled balloon from her Chicago home recently bearing a message: "Help, please." She also included her name and address. A farmer found the balloon about a week later in a field near Grand Junction, Mich., about 75 miles from Chicago. He spotted the note and informed police. Two officers rushed to the Stromberg home. "Oh, I'm okay," Terry told them. "I just wanted to see how far it would go."

Duplicate Bridge Is Worth Trying

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Duplicate bridge is one of the most enjoyable forms of our finest card game, but many bridge fans are shy about trying it. They need have no more fears since there is at last a splendid book to introduce them to the game, from the most elementary to the most advanced points.

"If you're in a bad contract in a duplicate tournament," observes my associate, Alfred Sheinwold, in his brand-new book "How to Bid and Play in Duplicate Bridge," "you must look for any desperate maneuver that may salvage a few match points from the wreckage.

"West leads the deuce of clubs, and East wins the first trick with the ace. East returns the four of clubs.

"Your first step is to prepare a few choice remarks to make to your partner at the end of the hand. He should be playing the hand at four hearts instead of letting you play it at three no-trump. He would lose a club and one or two diamonds, making either ten or eleven tricks.

"At no-trump you can run nine tricks without the slightest difficulty—five hearts, a club, a diamond, and two spades. This will probably get you only a near-bottom. You get no match points for three no-trump when everybody else is making four or five hearts.

"The only hope is to play for 10 tricks at no-trump in the hope that only 10 tricks can be made at hearts. (There is no play for 11 tricks at no-trump, so you must resign yourself to a bad score if it is possible to make 11 tricks at hearts.)

"You win the second trick with the king of clubs and immediately finesse dummy's jack of spades. If the finesse loses, the defenders will run their clubs and defeat the game contract. Even if this happens, you have still made the right play. The score for being set will be only a point or so worse than the score for making nine tricks at no-trump.

"If the spade finesse works, you will have 10 tricks at no-trump: three spades, five hearts, a diamond and a club. This gives you a chance for a good score. If the diamonds are obliging enough to break 3-1, the other declarers will lose two diamonds and a club at their heart contracts. You will have a fine score for 10 tricks at no-trump, and you will compliment your partner on his risky but brilliant pass."

WHAT MAKES MONEY CHEAP

Recently in a grocery store an irate woman upbraided the proprietor: "I can't understand it," she said bitterly, "these eggs that you are charging me 70 cents a dozen for I used to buy for 40 cents. And my savings that once paid 4½ per cent in interest a year now pay me only 2½ per cent!"

"Madam," explained the grocer, "that's what inflation has done!"

Inflation!" the woman indignatly replied, "Why hasn't interest been inflated too?"

The grocer had no answer.

* * *

The phenomenon of high prices and low interest rates is little understood in America. It is something that will be here for decades. And in millions of families it will pose a problem of perplexing persistence.

Just what does make money and prices high? To get at the source of the problem, one must go back 50 years. Half a century ago, our banking system lacked flexibility. One manifestation of this was the inability of the banking system to increase money supplies when they were urgently needed. In professional language, this was called "inelastic currency."

Economic crisis of this condition, the Federal Reserve Act was written which authorized the establishment of a new banking system in America. Under this Act, 12 Federal Reserve Banks were opened— in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco.

Now, this Act gave the country an "elastic" currency. The money that gave our currency elasticity is the Federal Reserve Note. Of the present money in circulation of around $30,000,000,000 more than 80 per cent is represented by Federal Reserve Notes.

Federal Reserve Banks are institutions enjoying powers of money issuance. On the face of every Federal Reserve Note is this statement: "This note is legal tender for all debts, public and private, and is redeemable in lawful money at the United States Treasury or at any Federal Reserve Bank."

Federal Reserve Notes are issued against government bonds, bank and trade acceptances and other commercial paper. Thus, one can see how and why America's money supplies have skyrocketed in recent years. In 20 years, Uncle Sam has had to borrow over $250,000,000,000 and when this debt hits the banks, money is created.

Money becomes cheap because it is plentiful. And money is plentiful because Uncle Sam, in financing wars and depressions, has had to borrow billions upon billions.

And as money becomes cheap, it buys less and prices advance. The economic force that pushes prices higher shoves interest rates down.

Thus it is that during the past 20 years interest rates have gone down nearly 50 per cent while prices of eggs and milk and rent and clothing have gone up 100, 200, 300 per cent. Furthermore, since there is little prospect for an early reduction of the federal debt or of America's money supplies, this high price-low interest rate situation promises to be with us for countless years ahead. It is the price our people must pay for the inflation.

Anyone suffering from it should take steps to escape its economic consequences.

This time, the overture being finished, he rushed into the wings. There he found the trumpet player still arguing with the house fireman.

Fireman—I tell you, you can't play that thing back here! There's a concert going on!

Rollingstone — Talking about Abyssinia makes me think of the time—

Des Moines (AP)—Employes at a dimestore here had a five-day parakeet hunt after 16 birds escaped from their cages one night. While customers cheered them on and offered suggestions, salesgirls armed with dip nets—commandeered from the goldfish department tried to catch the feathered creatures. It took them five days. Miss Clarion Miller, in charge of the bird department, said it was a mystery how the birds escaped. All the cages were locked on the outside.

A Christmas Carol

By Charles Dickens

When he heard the Spirit of Christmas Present prophesy Tiny Tim's death, Scrooge was seized with panic. "No, no," he cried. "Oh, no, kind Spirit! Say he will be spared!"

But Bob Cratchit's family was unmindful of the Spirit's prophecy. Generously, Bob proposed a toast to his miserly employer, Ebenezer Scrooge. Mrs. Cratchit refused to drink.

At last she gave in. "I'll drink to his health for your sake, Bob, and the Day's, not for his," she said.

The Family Library

By FRANK TRIPP

Up in Kingston, Ontario, there is a book shop that displays a sign, "Buy a book—amaze your friends!" Maybe just a subtle sales phrase. Yet paradoxically it packs both humor and tragedy.

Or is it paradoxical at all? So often it is hardly a step from chuckles to sobs.

The sign could read, "Surprise yourself; buy a book," and be well in line with the tragic thoughtlessness of a generation of lazy livers.

The man who owns this peaceful little shop is as paradoxical as his audacious sales slogan. Still a young man, this Englishman is lately off the world-wandering staff of The London Times, was last stationed in Cairo.

From battlefields, world courts and councils, rebellions and mid-East upheavals, which had been his life, he picked Canada's Kingston to settle down with his American life and open a little book shop. He has found peace; and getting a kick out of it.

* * *

THERE IS peacefulness in just being around books; the kind of restful peace that needs punctuate today's hurried living, its ulcers, hypertension and heart ailments that shorten lives which science boasts it has prolonged.

Reading not only is the basis of useful knowledge and intelligent conversation, it is the most relaxing "exercise" for the hustled, harried mind—and body too. This is true even of the shallow novel and the mystery tales, to which many a man who can quote the classics turns to find respite from his cares.

Down through the ages, the non-reader has been the social drone; handicapped by his neglect of the printed word. Aired versions of what he should read are not saving him from that sad classification.

THE AMERICAN family library traditionally started with a Hostetter's Almanac, hung under the kitchen shelf, and a Bible; a purposeful and reverent beginning—which, alas, has not progressed very far in too many families.

Owning good books is a symbol of a substantial household. I was amazed not long ago, in a home replete with the modern, the latest in TV, dishwashers and gadgets.

A discussion arose over the spelling of a word. The hostess sheepishly admitted, "I'm sorry, but we haven't a dictionary; we must get one."

She was dolled out like a queen, but an old gag flashed through my mind that set her back where she belonged—among the morons.

A couple of chorus girls were searching a present for a mutual friend. "Why not get her a book," suggested one. "Oh, she's got a book," replied the other.

WE OF THE newspapers are proud to boast in truth that Americans spend more for newspapers every year than they spend for all other printed matter combined: books, magazines and miscellaneous.

Our friends who fill the ether would have us think that their antics absorb everybody's spare time, and much that they shouldn't spare.

The real tragedy lies in the danger, if not the fact, that children are growing up with little consciousness of the importance of books, and no love of them. They come mainly in contact with text books, and come to think of books in terms of task and duty.

Never getting to know the joy of reading adventure, history, humor and fantasy to be found only between the covers of books of the centuries and the present.

It is a shortsighted parent who thus neglects his child's future. Every home owes itself a library, as pretentious as the family resources permit.

Kathryn Schick, Adolph Munson Rites Solemnized

Miss Kathryn Lois Schick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schick of New Salem, was united in marriage to Adolph Arthur Munson, son of Adolph Munson, Sr., of Port Ewen, and the late Mrs. Munson, in a double ring ceremony held Saturday at 1:30 p. m., at Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The Rev. David C. Gaise officiated.

Mrs. L. Decker was accompanist on the organ for the soloist, Miss Sylvia Kern. She sang the selections, Because, and The Lord's Prayer. White chrysanthemums were the floral decorations on the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of lace in a Tudor rose pattern with a court train over bursts of pleated nylon tulle headpiece. A cap of nylon tulle and seed pearls caught a fingertip veil with a hand rolled edge. She carried a cascade of white mums with pale pink rosebuds.

Miss Justina Haber was maid of honor. She wore a waltz length gown of nylon net over taffeta with a velvet bodice and a matching velvet headpiece and carried a cascade of pink mums with American beauty rosebuds.

John Clark of Port Ewen served as best man. The ushers were Norman Schick, brother of the bride, of New Salem, and William Ferguson, uncle of the bridegroom, of Port Ewen.

Following a reception at the SRS Home, Cottekill, for 75 guests, the couple left on a trip to the New England states. For traveling, the bride wore a turquoise blue dress with a beige coat and brown accessories and a yellow pompon corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1950, and of Moran-Spencerian School of Business. She was employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School class of 1948, is employed by Saratoga Lithographing Company, Saratoga Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Munson will live at 215 Nelson avenue, Saratoga Springs.

Home Bureau

THE WILTWYCK UNIT of the Home Bureau met Tuesday, Dec. 7, in its meeting rooms, with a large attendance. Mrs. Helen Stantial gave a talk on calories, giving receipts of low calorie desserts, one of which she demonstrated. She also told how to figure the calories in a pie by figuring the fat, flour, sugar and filling. If served with ice cream, the calorie count is greatly increased, she said. Mrs. Stantial advised the eating of more fresh fruit as a dessert. After the demonstration, a Christmas sale was held. The unit will hold its Christmas luncheon at Judie's Restaurant on Thursday, Dec. 16.

Two Dine Together

Hollywood, Dec. 13 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe and her former husband, Joe DiMaggio, dined together again last night, this time at a Malibu restaurant on the Pacific coast highway. It is one of several dates they have had since the actress obtained a divorce Oct. 27 but they have consistently said "We're just good friends." DiMaggio visited Miss Monroe when she underwent minor surgery in a hospital here after the divorce but, as far as is known, she did not visit San Francisco later when he was hospitalized for a few days there for treatment of an ulcer.

Two Are Killed

Mexico City, Dec. 13 (AP)—Two persons were killed and about 400 injured in the crush yesterday as an estimated half million Catholic pilgrims converged on the shrine of Mexico's patron saint, the Virgin of Guadalupe. The annual pilgrimage to the basilica on Mexico City's outskirts was the third largest in history. The only larger throngs gathered in 1931—the 400th anniversary of the church-recognized appearance of the Virgin Mary in Mexico—and in 1945 for coronation rites following the Vatican's official acknowledgment of the miracle.

Dr. Snell, a native of Geneva, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Cora Nell Snell; a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Crary of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Dr. Albert C. Snell Jr., of Rochester.

Police Continue Search for Two

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Police today stepped up search for two men in sailor's uniforms who, posing as hitchhikers, kidnaped and robbed three men last Friday, stuffing two of them in the trunks of their own cars.

Both kidnaped motorists were freed from the trunks by police. Police fear, however, that the next victim may not be so lucky. "Those men have got to be found," said Police Lt. John Robb, in charge of search in the New York city area.

Police believe the bandits are merely masquerading in service uniforms, but they do not rule out the possibility that they might be sailors on a spree. The navy said it would check any fingerprints found against its files.

POLICE SAID the two hitchhikers were first picked up by William P. Kelly, of Carmel. They took over his car at gunpoint, robbed him of a watch and $17 and then stuffed him into the trunk.

They then roamed highways in Westchester county, picking up Richard Bourque, 21-year-old sailor. They shoved Bourque out of the car after robbing him of $2.

The two abandoned the car with Kelly in the trunk when they ran out of gas. Kelly was freed some time later when two radio car policemen heard his screams.

Meanwhile, police said, the two were picked up by Donald Tingley, of (57 Summit Circle) Little Ferry, N. J. They robbed Tingley of $8, tied him up and put him in the trunk.

A gas station attendant heard Tingley's shouts as the two pulled up to refill. They sped away but later abandoned the vehicle and fled. A short time afterward Tingley was freed.

Police said the two bandits were between 20 and 25 years old, both about 5 feet 11 and one dark and one blond.

Boys Back at School After River Adventure

Four youngsters from the Wiltwyck School for Boys were safe back at the school today after a "Tom Sawyer" type of adventure during which they floated down the Hudson river in a borrowed rowboat and stayed overnight, in below freezing weather, on Esopus Island.

Walter Seaman of Esopus reported to the sheriff's office this morning that his son-in-law Peter Romelis of Highland, found the four lads in a green, 14-foot rowboat near Highland on Sunday afternoon.

The boys, whose names were not obtained, told Romelis they had taken the boat Saturday afternoon, and stayed overnight at the island, continuing their trip on the river the following day.

Wiltwyck School officials were notified and came after the boys, according to the report.

It was learned that the boat was owned by Arthur LeFevre of Esopus, who was notified of its recovery.

Back S-D Day

Members of the Woodstock Motor Club at their meeting last week voted to cooperate with the Safe Driving Day which has been proclaimed by President Eisenhower for Wednesday, Dec. 15, when an attempt will be made to keep the roads of the United States free from traffic accidents. The theme of the entire meeting was "safety" with two films being shown. The films, The Other Guy and No Use Skidding were shown and there also was a discussion on safe winter driving to prevent accidents in particular to pedestrians and small children who may be using sleds during the winter season. Special care and watchfulness should be exercised during the icy and snowy weather in winter and extra care displayed where pedestrians may be using the highways or children sledding on highway hills, it was pointed out in the discussion.

Word Is Added

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—A YWCA group singing Christmas carols here noticed something slightly off. A little investigation disclosed that one girl, from even deeper in the south, was adding a word to the opening line of the carol. She sang: "O lil' ol' town of Bethlehem . . ."

100 Persons Injured

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 13 (AP)—Winds of hurricane force and heavy rain lashed Uruguay last night, injuring 100 persons in the northern department of Artigas. Atlantic coastal winds forced yachts to seek quick refuge in the nearest ports. Shipping was halted more than 12 hours.

A DANCE PROBLEM

Today's first letter is from a young man who tells me: "I am a junior in college and throughout the school year dances are given by the various clubs and organizations of the school, in the gymnasium. This is a co-educational school and the girls usually go to these dances alone, or in groups, and the boys do the same. At the dance most of the boys find someone they like and stay with her throughout the evening. I like to circulate around and dance with different girls. However, this always creates a problem as I never know how to break away from a girl after the dance is over without feeling as though I have left her stranded, and as a result I am often "stuck" with her for the evening. Will you please tell me how this situation can be handled tactfully and without hurting the girl's feelings?"

This is a very difficult problem to solve and the only thing I can suggest is that you dance with girls who are seated in groups so that after the dance you can bring the girl back to the group and feel perfectly free to leave to dance with someone else.

Hearts Happily Mended

Dear Mrs. Post: Last year my engagement was announced in the newspaper and several months later the engagement was broken. A notice was sent to the newspaper to this effect. After being apart we both realized how much we really love each other and so we intend to become "re-engaged." I would like to know if a notice should be sent to the newspaper and, if so, how is it worded?

Answer: I think you had better wait and send an announcement of your marriage to the newspaper.

When Wife Is a Doctor

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct form to use in addressing an invitation to a doctor and her husband when he is not a doctor?

Answer: If she is known socially as well as professionally as Dr., then the envelope would have to be addressed to Mr. John and Dr. Mary Smith.

Two Are Killed

Mexico City, Dec. 13 (AP)—Two persons were killed and about 400 injured in the crush yesterday as an estimated half million Catholic pilgrims converged on the shrine of Mexico's patron saint, the Virgin of Guadalupe. The annual pilgrimage to the basilica on Mexico City's outskirts was the third largest in history. The only larger throngs gathered in 1931—the 400th anniversary of the church-recognized appearance of the Virgin Mary in Mexico—and in 1945 for coronation rites following the Vatican's official acknowledgment of the miracle.

To Hold Funeral Rites

Rochester, Dec. 13 (AP)—Services for Dr. Albert C. Snell, 83, prominent eye, ear and throat surgeon who died Saturday, were to be held today. Dr. Snell, a native of Geneva, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Cora Nell Snell; a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Crary of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Dr. Albert C. Snell Jr., of Rochester.

Police Continue Search for Two

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Police today stepped up search for two men in sailor's uniforms who, posing as hitchhikers, kidnaped and robbed three men last Friday, stuffing two of them in the trunks of their own cars.

Both kidnaped motorists were freed from the trunks by police. Police fear, however, that the next victim may not be so lucky.

"Those men have got to be found," said Police Lt. John Robb, in charge of search in the New York city area.

Police believe the bandits are merely masquerading in service uniforms, but they do not rule out the possibility that they might be sailors on a spree. The navy said it would check any fingerprints found against its files.

POLICE SAID the two hitchhikers were first picked up by William P. Kelly, of Carmel. They took over his car at gunpoint, robbed him of a watch and $17 and then stuffed him into the trunk.

They then roamed highways in Westchester county, picking up Richard Bourque, 21-year-old sailor. They shoved Bourque out of the car after robbing him of $2.

The two abandoned the car with Kelly in the trunk when they ran out of gas. Kelly was freed some time later when two radio car policemen heard his screams.

Meanwhile, police said, the two were picked up by Donald Tingley, of (57 Summit Circle) Little Ferry, N. J. They robbed Tingley of $8, tied him up and put him in the trunk.

A gas station attendant heard Tingley's shouts as the two pulled up to refill. They sped away but later abandoned the vehicle and fled. A short time afterward Tingley was freed.

Police said the two bandits were between 20 and 25 years old, both about 5 feet 11 and one dark and one blond.

Carries Out Theme

Maidstone, England, Dec. 13 (AP)—Joan Rhodes, a professional strong woman, gave a demonstration of how to bend iron bars at a stage show for inmates of the Maidstone prison last night. Next attraction: Mrs. Gerald Legge, London society hostess, in a lecture entitled, "Out and About in London."

Boys Back at School After River Adventure

Four youngsters from the Wiltwyck School for Boys were safe back at the school today after a "Tom Sawyer" type of adventure during which they floated down the Hudson river in a borrowed rowboat and stayed overnight, in below freezing weather, on Esopus Island.

Walter Seaman of Esopus reported to the sheriff's office this morning that his son-in-law Peter Romelis of Highland, found the four lads in a green, 14-foot rowboat near Highland on Sunday afternoon.

The boys, whose names were not obtained, told Romelis they had taken the boat Saturday afternoon, and stayed overnight at the island, continuing their trip on the river the following day.

Wiltwyck School officials were notified and came after the boys, according to the report.

It was learned that the boat was owned by Arthur LeFevre of Esopus, who was notified of its recovery.

Back S-D Day

Members of the Woodstock Motor Club at their meeting last week voted to cooperate with the Safe Driving Day which has been proclaimed by President Eisenhower for Wednesday, Dec. 15, when an attempt will be made to keep the roads of the United States free from traffic accidents. The theme of the entire meeting was "safety" with two films being shown. The films, The Other Guy and No Use Skidding were shown and there also was a discussion on safe winter driving to prevent accidents in particular to pedestrians and small children who may be using sleds during the winter season. Special care and watchfulness should be exercised during the icy and snowy weather in winter and extra care displayed where pedestrians may be using the highways or children sledding on highway hills, it was pointed out in the discussion.

Word Is Added

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—A YWCA group singing Christmas carols here noticed something slightly off. A little investigation disclosed that one girl, from even deeper in the south, was adding a word to the opening line of the carol. She sang: "O lil' ol' town of Bethlehem . . ."

100 Persons Injured

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 13 (AP)—Winds of hurricane force and heavy rain lashed Uruguay last night, injuring 100 persons in the northern department of Artigas. Atlantic coastal winds forced yachts to seek quick refuge in the nearest ports. Shipping was halted more than 12 hours.

A DANCE PROBLEM

Today's first letter is from a young man who tells me: "I am a junior in college and throughout the school year dances are given by the various clubs and organizations of the school, in the gymnasium. This is a co-educational school and the girls usually go to these dances alone, or in groups, and the boys do the same. At the dance most of the boys find someone they like and stay with her throughout the evening. I like to circulate around and dance with different girls. However, this always creates a problem as I never know how to break away from a girl after the dance is over without feeling as though I have left her stranded, and as a result I am often "stuck" with her for the evening. Will you please tell me how this situation can be handled tactfully and without hurting the girl's feelings?"

This is a very difficult problem to solve and the only thing I can suggest is that you dance with girls who are seated in groups so that after the dance you can bring the girl back to the group and feel perfectly free to leave to dance with someone else.

Hearts Happily Mended

Dear Mrs. Post: Last year my engagement was announced in the newspaper and several months later the engagement was broken. A notice was sent to the newspaper to this effect. After being apart we both realized how much we really love each other and so we intend to become "re-engaged." I would like to know if a notice should be sent to the newspaper and, if so, how is it worded?

Answer: I think you had better wait and send an announcement of your marriage to the newspaper.

When Wife Is a Doctor

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct form to use in addressing an invitation to a doctor and her husband when he is not a doctor?

Answer: If she is known socially as well as professionally as Dr., then the envelope would have to be addressed to Mr. John and Dr. Mary Smith.

6,500 Children Attend Party

Poughkeepsie, Dec. 13—Santa Claus drew an audience of 6500 children to the IBM Country Club Saturday when the Poughkeepsie and Kingston plants of International Business Machines conducted annual Christmas parties for employes' children ranging from toddler age to 12 years old. About 15,000 persons filed through the South road club from 9 to 11.

Deviating from time-scheduled parties held in previous years, the Christmas party Saturday was conducted as an "open house" affair with children and their parents free to come any time during the day. other volunteers who staffed the gift booths and directed the long lines to and from the center of activities. Walter W. Callahan is president of the board of governors. George Sheehan and George Polhemus were co-chairmen of the party.

Santa and Mrs. Claus were early arrivals to accomodations set up for them on the stage of the field house. Here they greeted every child who passed by them and who later receivd a gift and box of candy.

CONTINUOUS entertainment was provided by a huge model railroad display set up in the center of the auditorium. Model trains criss-crossed through numerous snow-covered mountain tunnels on to long stretches of flat track throughout the entire affair. Also appearing at half-hour intervals during the day were members of the IBM Junior Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Caryl Perkins, who sang carols. Christmas organ music was heard between these concerts.

Thirty-seven members of the Poughkeepsie Children's Home were guests of the company and they said "hello" to Santa Claus and received their presents with the other children.

KHS vs. Port Jervis Tuesday

League Standing

	Won	Lost

Middletown	1	0
Fallsburgh	1	0
Poughkeepsie	0	1
Port Jervis	0	1
Monticello	0	1

Kingston High gets its first taste of DUSO basketball competition Tuesday night at the Kate Walton field house against Port Jervis, approximately 72 hours after the general league openers.

The varsity game starts at 8 p. m., preceded by a 6:30 prelim. Local fans also get their first glimpse of the new version of the "bonus rule" on fouls.

THE MAROONS WERE ragged in spots in grinding out a 65-45 victory over Catskill High in the seasonal opener, but Coach G. Warren Kias hopes to have his first string operators clicking more effectively in the conference opener.

Against Catskill, the Maroon mentor started Skip Broadhead and Bob Maines at forwards; Ray Lawrence, center; Don Baum and Tom Flemming in the backcourt. He may or may not go with this same combine tomorrow night. If Baum doesn't start, Marty Kantrowitz or Jack Houghtaling figures to grab the fifth spot.

PORT JERVIS is banking on a veteran starting five of Dick Beams, Joe Regelski, Steve Fuchlyo, Eddie Mack and Dick Pencek. Beams, Regelski and Fuchlyo provide the scoring punch, while Mack and Pencek take care of the playmaking duties.

All five of the Red Raiders' starting five saw plenty of varsity action in the 1953-54 campaign. Beams, playing in everyone of his team's DUSO encounters, finished 17th among the individuals in the conference scoring race with 164 points. Pencek meshed 132, Mack 57 and Regelski 19 in a campaign which found Port on the short side of a 6-10 league record.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Nucatola, you will recall, quit the NBA last season over differences with the front office. Nucatola said flatly that NBA officials refused to back up the referees after several rhubarbs, especially those involving the Boston Celtics and New York Knicks.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Don Neff, who is athletic director at Cardinal Farley Academy across the river, will work with Nucatola. Neff, moreover, is moving up the officiating ladder and is booked for several games at West Point. . . . The two biggest unpublicized flops in pro football this season were Chuck Bednarik of the Eagles and George Connor, ex-All American from Notre Dame, now with the Chicago Bears, says Murray Olderman. He found that reputations don't back up a line. One Bear assistant said: "Connor is the worst in the league . . . He's making to much money. . . ." Ronnie Scheffel's North Carolina State Wolfpack are setting a blistering early season pace and the former KHS great is seeing plenty of action. North Carolina State plays Manhattan, Tues., Dec. 21, at Madison Square Garden.

• Of Men and Mice:

Charlie Gilmore, veteran Saugerties scribe who has been around a long spell, says he can't recall ever seeing a game to match the Saugerties-Marlborough clash of last Friday night for sheer dramatics and heart thumping stretch run. . . . Coach Bill Straub, incidentally, is doing nicely with four straight wins—over Cairo, Windham, Highland and Marlborough. . . . Tom Gloede, former Poughkeepsie All-DUSO gridder, who missed the Lehigh U. all-time passing mark by one yard, has been named on the All-Pennsylvania squad by the Penn Sportswriters Assn. . . . American experts rate Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes via Denver the best football player in Canada. Etchy is a quarterback and a surfire bet to land on a National Football League roster next year.

NEWBURGH ACADEMY showed its class by outscoring Poughkeepsie, 12-1, in the clutch in the DUSO opener. Mickey Burkoski got a slow start but at the end he was the same old "Marvel." . . . Monty Stickles of the Blues should be a powerful competitor through the season. . . . How do you account for Ellenville knocking off Monticello, Mendy Ringel and company, on the mountain boards? If nothing else, wrestling in New York is handled in a big way. In 15 shows since the thespians returned to Madison Square Garden, 185,000 people paid $575,000. They saw 210 heavyweights weighing 44,000 pounds, that's 24 tons of bone, muscle and fat—bounce around the Eighth Avenue mat. . . . Ever notice the startling resemblance between Tommy Sickler of Kingston and George Gobel, the new TV comic sensation?

Angels Rip Murrays

Harry's Angels got two big performances from Champ Holstein and Ward Dunham to crush Murrays, 80-64, in the only game in YMCA "A" League Saturday night.

The second scheduled contest was cancelled when Ellenville dropped out of the league.

HOLSTEIN racked up 27 points as the Angels led 17-7 at the quarter and won as they pleased. Dunham was just a point behind with 26.

First KO Fatal To Negro Boxer

Boston, Dec. 13 (AP)—Big Ed Sanders was knocked out only once in seven years of competitive boxing—but it caused his death.

The former Olympic heavyweight champion turned professional died yesterday as a result of a ring knockout blow, but the soft-spoken, well-conditioned man never knew it.

He was unconscious for the 18 hours he clung to life after his 11th round knockout by New England heavyweight titlist Willie James.

An autopsy revealed Sanders died of a "subdural hematoma" (bleeding between the brain and the layer of tissue separating the brain from the skull).

Less than an hour after the 217-pound, 6-4 giant stationed here with the navy slumped to the canvas at Boston Garden, he was undergoing a delicate four-hour brain operation by Dr. William Sweet, well-known Negro surgeon.

Rosburg Cops Miami Open

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Bob Rosburg, a roly-poly young man who almost wasn't there, pocketed the $2,000 first prize money in the Miami Open golf tournament after a display of putting that had spectators bug-eyed.

Putting always has been the best part of the chubby, 28-year-old Rosburg's game and he reached his peak in the final round over the par 35-35—70, 6,620-yard Miami Springs course.

His ability to stroke them in from as far as 50 feet away enabled him to vault from a tie for sixth, two strokes off the pace, into first place. His sensational 32-33-65 gave him a 273 total, seven under par.

Browns Capture Fifth Straight Eastern Title

To Meet Detroit In Playoff

The Associated Press

The Cleveland Browns, the most amazing team in pro football history, have captured their fifth straight division championship in the National Football League and now go after their first "World Series" victory over the Detroit Lions.

Coach Buddy Parker's well balanced Lions have defeated the Paul Brown-coached champions two years running in the post-season money game. In 1952 it was by 17-7 and last year the Lions won in a thrilling finish, 17-16. The Browns won their only playoff by beating Los Angeles in 1950.

THE TWO CLUBS clash at Cleveland on consecutive Sundays, due to an October postponement. The all-out match is Dec. 26. In what will amount to a warm-up or "scouting" contest, the two titans come to grips Sunday in the make-up game.

The Browns, in their eighth straight victory, drubbed Pittsburgh 42-7 yesterday.

It was the climax to a brilliant comeback for the Browns, who were written off in October after they dropped two of their first three games.

THE LIONS, with their title already assured, played hot-and-cold against the Chicago Bears and were taken 28-24. Detroit, playing without No. 1 quarterback Bobby Layne, who is nursing a broken nose and bruises, failed with a 21-point last period. Chicago, by winning, grabbed second place in the Western Conference and finished its best season since 1950 with an 8-4 mark.

The Philadelphia Eagles grabbed second place in the Eastern Conference, overwhelming the New York Giants 29-14 with a 20-point first half while New York was held to a standstill. The Giants didn't get a point, a first down or a pass completion in the half.

IN OTHER GAMES as the regular league season ended, the Washington Redskins whipped the Chicago Cards 37-20 in their biggest offensive explosion in four years, burying the Cards in last place in the east, and Los Angeles outscored Green Bay 35-27. On Saturday San Francisco clipped Baltimore 10-7.

After the Rams game it was announced that four of Head Coach Hamp Pool's assistants had resigned. They were Howard (Red) Hickey, Dick Voris, Ralph (Buck) Weaver and Bill Battles. Pool praised all four men calling them the "finest in the profession." The resignations followed rumors of discontent on the club.

KHS vs. Port Jervis Tuesday

Kingston High gets its first taste of DUSO basketball competition Tuesday night at the Kate Walton field house against Port Jervis, approximately 72 hours after the general league openers.

The varsity game starts at 8 p. m., preceded by a 6:30 prelim. Local fans also get their first glimpse of the new version of the "bonus rule" on fouls.

THE MAROONS WERE ragged in spots in grinding out a 65-45 victory over Catskill High in the seasonal opener, but Coach G. Warren Kias hopes to have his first string operators clicking more effectively in the conference opener.

Against Catskill, the Maroon mentor started Skip Broadhead and Bob Maines at forwards; Ray Lawrence, center; Don Baum and Tom Flemming in the backcourt. He may or may not go with this same combine tomorrow night. If Baum doesn't start, Marty Kantrowitz or Jack Houghtaling figures to grab the fifth spot.

PORT JERVIS is banking on a veteran starting five of Dick Beams, Joe Regelski, Steve Fuchlyo, Eddie Mack and Dick Pencek. Beams, Regelski and Fuchlyo provide the scoring punch, while Mack and Pencek take care of the playmaking duties.

All five of the Red Raiders' starting five saw plenty of varsity action in the 1953-54 campaign. Beams, playing in everyone of his team's DUSO encounters, finished 17th among the individuals in the conference scoring race with 164 points. Pencek meshed 132, Mack 57 and Regelski 19 in a campaign which found Port on the short side of a 6-10 league record.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Nucatola, you will recall, quit the NBA last season over differences with the front office. Nucatola said flatly that NBA officials refused to back up the referees after several rhubarbs, especially those involving the Boston Celtics and New York Knicks.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Don Neff, who is athletic director at Cardinal Farley Academy across the river, will work with Nucatola. Neff, moreover, is moving up the officiating ladder and is booked for several games at West Point. . . . The two biggest unpublicized flops in pro football this season were Chuck Bednarik of the Eagles and George Connor, ex-All American from Notre Dame, now with the Chicago Bears, says Murray Olderman. He found that reputations don't back up a line. One Bear assistant said: "Connor is the worst in the league . . . He's making to much money. . . ." Ronnie Scheffel's North Carolina State Wolfpack are setting a blistering early season pace and the former KHS great is seeing plenty of action. North Carolina State plays Manhattan, Tues., Dec. 21, at Madison Square Garden.

• Of Men and Mice:

Charlie Gilmore, veteran Saugerties scribe who has been around a long spell, says he can't recall ever seeing a game to match the Saugerties-Marlborough clash of last Friday night for sheer dramatics and heart thumping stretch run. . . . Coach Bill Straub, incidentally, is doing nicely with four straight wins—over Cairo, Windham, Highland and Marlborough. . . . Tom Gloede, former Poughkeepsie All-DUSO gridder, who missed the Lehigh U. all-time passing mark by one yard, has been named on the All-Pennsylvania squad by the Penn Sportswriters Assn. . . . American experts rate Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes via Denver the best football player in Canada. Etchy is a quarterback and a surfire bet to land on a National Football League roster next year.

NEWBURGH ACADEMY showed its class by outscoring Poughkeepsie, 12-1, in the clutch in the DUSO opener. Mickey Burkoski got a slow start but at the end he was the same old "Marvel." . . . Monty Stickles of the Blues should be a powerful competitor through the season. . . . How do you account for Ellenville knocking off Monticello, Mendy Ringel and company, on the mountain boards? If nothing else, wrestling in New York is handled in a big way. In 15 shows since the thespians returned to Madison Square Garden, 185,000 people paid $575,000. They saw 210 heavyweights weighing 44,000 pounds, that's 24 tons of bone, muscle and fat—bounce around the Eighth Avenue mat. . . . Ever notice the startling resemblance between Tommy Sickler of Kingston and George Gobel, the new TV comic sensation?

First KO Fatal To Negro Boxer

Boston, Dec. 13 (AP)—Big Ed Sanders was knocked out only once in seven years of competitive boxing—but it caused his death.

The former Olympic heavyweight champion turned professional died yesterday as a result of a ring knockout blow, but the soft-spoken, well-conditioned man never knew it.

He was unconscious for the 18 hours he clung to life after his 11th round knockout by New England heavyweight titlist Willie James.

An autopsy revealed Sanders died of a "subdural hematoma" (bleeding between the brain and the layer of tissue separating the brain from the skull).

Less than an hour after the 217-pound, 6-4 giant stationed here with the navy slumped to the canvas at Boston Garden, he was undergoing a delicate four-hour brain operation by Dr. William Sweet, well-known Negro surgeon.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Bob Rosburg, a roly-poly young man who almost wasn't there, pocketed the $2,000 first prize money in the Miami Open golf tournament after a display of putting that had spectators bug-eyed.

Detroit, playing without No. 1 quarterback Bobby Layne, who is nursing a broken nose and bruises, failed with a 21-point last period. Chicago, by winning, grabbed second place in the Western Conference and finished its best season since 1950 with an 8-4 mark.

The Philadelphia Eagles grabbed second place in the Eastern Conference, overwhelming the New York Giants 29-14 with a 20-point first half while New York was held to a standstill. The Giants didn't get a point, a first down or a pass completion in the half.

IN OTHER GAMES as the regular league season ended, the Washington Redskins whipped the Chicago Cards 37-20 in their biggest offensive explosion in four years, burying the Cards in last place in the east, and Los Angeles outscored Green Bay 35-27. On Saturday San Francisco clipped Baltimore 10-7.

After the Rams game it was announced that four of Head Coach Hamp Pool's assistants had resigned. They were Howard (Red) Hickey, Dick Voris, Ralph (Buck) Weaver and Bill Battles. Pool praised all four men calling them the "finest in the profession." The resignations followed rumors of discontent on the club.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Nucatola, you will recall, quit the NBA last season over differences with the front office. Nucatola said flatly that NBA officials refused to back up the referees after several rhubarbs, especially those involving the Boston Celtics and New York Knicks.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Don Neff, who is athletic director at Cardinal Farley Academy across the river, will work with Nucatola. Neff, moreover, is moving up the officiating ladder and is booked for several games at West Point. . . . The two biggest unpublicized flops in pro football this season were Chuck Bednarik of the Eagles and George Connor, ex-All American from Notre Dame, now with the Chicago Bears, says Murray Olderman. He found that reputations don't back up a line. One Bear assistant said: "Connor is the worst in the league . . . He's making to much money. . . ." Ronnie Scheffel's North Carolina State Wolfpack are setting a blistering early season pace and the former KHS great is seeing plenty of action. North Carolina State plays Manhattan, Tues., Dec. 21, at Madison Square Garden.

• Of Men and Mice:

Charlie Gilmore, veteran Saugerties scribe who has been around a long spell, says he can't recall ever seeing a game to match the Saugerties-Marlborough clash of last Friday night for sheer dramatics and heart thumping stretch run. . . . Coach Bill Straub, incidentally, is doing nicely with four straight wins—over Cairo, Windham, Highland and Marlborough. . . . Tom Gloede, former Poughkeepsie All-DUSO gridder, who missed the Lehigh U. all-time passing mark by one yard, has been named on the All-Pennsylvania squad by the Penn Sportswriters Assn. . . . American experts rate Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes via Denver the best football player in Canada. Etchy is a quarterback and a surfire bet to land on a National Football League roster next year.

NEWBURGH ACADEMY showed its class by outscoring Poughkeepsie, 12-1, in the clutch in the DUSO opener. Mickey Burkoski got a slow start but at the end he was the same old "Marvel." . . . Monty Stickles of the Blues should be a powerful competitor through the season. . . . How do you account for Ellenville knocking off Monticello, Mendy Ringel and company, on the mountain boards? If nothing else, wrestling in New York is handled in a big way. In 15 shows since the thespians returned to Madison Square Garden, 185,000 people paid $575,000. They saw 210 heavyweights weighing 44,000 pounds, that's 24 tons of bone, muscle and fat—bounce around the Eighth Avenue mat. . . . Ever notice the startling resemblance between Tommy Sickler of Kingston and George Gobel, the new TV comic sensation?

First KO Fatal To Negro Boxer

Boston, Dec. 13 (AP)—Big Ed Sanders was knocked out only once in seven years of competitive boxing—but it caused his death.

The former Olympic heavyweight champion turned professional died yesterday as a result of a ring knockout blow, but the soft-spoken, well-conditioned man never knew it.

He was unconscious for the 18 hours he clung to life after his 11th round knockout by New England heavyweight titlist Willie James.

An autopsy revealed Sanders died of a "subdural hematoma" (bleeding between the brain and the layer of tissue separating the brain from the skull).

Less than an hour after the 217-pound, 6-4 giant stationed here with the navy slumped to the canvas at Boston Garden, he was undergoing a delicate four-hour brain operation by Dr. William Sweet, well-known Negro surgeon.

Kingston High gets its first taste of DUSO basketball competition Tuesday night at the Kate Walton field house against Port Jervis, approximately 72 hours after the general league openers.

The varsity game starts at 8 p. m., preceded by a 6:30 prelim. Local fans also get their first glimpse of the new version of the "bonus rule" on fouls.

THE MAROONS WERE ragged in spots in grinding out a 65-45 victory over Catskill High in the seasonal opener, but Coach G. Warren Kias hopes to have his first string operators clicking more effectively in the conference opener.

Against Catskill, the Maroon mentor started Skip Broadhead and Bob Maines at forwards; Ray Lawrence, center; Don Baum and Tom Flemming in the backcourt. He may or may not go with this same combine tomorrow night. If Baum doesn't start, Marty Kantrowitz or Jack Houghtaling figures to grab the fifth spot.

PORT JERVIS is banking on a veteran starting five of Dick Beams, Joe Regelski, Steve Fuchlyo, Eddie Mack and Dick Pencek. Beams, Regelski and Fuchlyo provide the scoring punch, while Mack and Pencek take care of the playmaking duties.

All five of the Red Raiders' starting five saw plenty of varsity action in the 1953-54 campaign. Beams, playing in everyone of his team's DUSO encounters, finished 17th among the individuals in the conference scoring race with 164 points. Pencek meshed 132, Mack 57 and Regelski 19 in a campaign which found Port on the short side of a 6-10 league record.

Rosburg Cops Miami Open

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Bob Rosburg, a roly-poly young man who almost wasn't there, pocketed the $2,000 first prize money in the Miami Open golf tournament after a display of putting that had spectators bug-eyed.

Putting always has been the best part of the chubby, 28-year-old Rosburg's game and he reached his peak in the final round over the par 35-35—70, 6,620-yard Miami Springs course.

His ability to stroke them in from as far as 50 feet away enabled him to vault from a tie for sixth, two strokes off the pace, into first place. His sensational 32-33-65 gave him a 273 total, seven under par.

Looks Like Rough Season

Five of Top Ten Teams Lose in College Games

Duquesne, Iowa, HC Are Among Victims

(By The Associated Press)

The betting today is that no college basketball team will go through the season with fewer than two or three defeats.

Exactly half of the top ten teams in the Associated Press' pre-season poll bit the dust for the first time Saturday. They were Duquesne (No. 3), Iowa (No. 4), Holy Cross (No. 5), Niagara (No. 8) and Notre Dame (No. 9). Indiana (No. 6) was beaten earlier in the week.

IN ADDITION, 11th-ranked Oklahoma A & M was knocked off as were 12th rated St. Louis, perennially powerful Western Kentucky, North Carolina, Fordham, Army, Texas Christian and San Francisco. Duke, Penn State, Wake Forest and Kansas State also have been beaten.

La Salle and Kentucky, one-two in last week's AP poll, still were among the unbeatens but not before they were handed real, honest-to-goodness scares. The Explorers, behind from the opening whistle, were forced into overtime before eking out a 76-75 victory over Niagara. It took a desperation shot by Bob Maples with only six seconds left for La Salle to register its fourth triumph.

Kentucky had its toughest game since it last was beaten, by St. John's in 1952, edging Xavier of Ohio 73-69 for its 27th straight. The Wildcats led by only 70-69 with less than a minute remaining.

DAYTON AND North Carolina State, ranked seventh and 10th respectively, in the AP poll, improved their prospects with resounding victories. The Flyers of Ohio won their fourth in a row burying Bowling Green 109-39 and the Wolfpack from North Carolina notched their fifth straight with a 66-53 win over Eastern Kentucky.

The biggest shock was George Washington's 71-64 annual Steel Bowl triumph over Duquesne which admittedly was handicapped by the absence of Si Green, its spectacular scorer. Green was out with an attack of appendicitis. Joe Holup led the Colonials with 26 points.

Iowa's 97-94 loss to Missouri also came as a surprise since the Hawkeyes are favored to capture the Big Ten title. The Tigers, however, have indicated they are going to be one of the best in the country. The victory over Iowa came on the heels of a triumph over Indiana, Big Ten defending champion, who whipped Norte Dame 73-70 Saturday afternoon to hand the Irish their first home defeat since February, 1952.

HOLY CROSS, rated one of the best teams in the east, was rocked by St. John's of Brooklyn, blowing a 35-33 halftime lead to bow by 20 points, 93-73. Oklahoma's Aggies suffered their first loss at the hands of Illinois 59-53. The Illini, in the process of rebuilding, have been the surprise of the Big Ten.

Olson Defends Against Langlois Wednesday Night

BY JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Bobo Olson risks his "Fighter of the Year" fame as well as his world middleweight title when he defends against France's Pierre Langlois Wednesday at San Francisco.

Olson, of course, still would be honored as the outstanding boxer of the year, win or lose, but a defeat would rub most of the luster off the shiny award.

As Bobo is a 4 to 1 favorite to turn back the French challenger, he may not be taking too much of a gamble. Still, Langlois is a rugged import with an unorthodox style who can trouble anybody.

THIS WILL BE Olson's third defense of the championship he nailed down by defeating Britain's Randy Turpin last year. He whipped Kid Gavilan at Chicago last spring and got off the floor to outpoint Rocky Castellani at San Francisco Aug. 20.

Langlois hasn't been in action since he upset Joey Giardello at Madison Square Garden May 21. The Frenchman got the title shot when Giardello was forced to withdraw because of slow recovery from a knee operation.

The bout will be carried on network television (CBS).

BOB BAKER and Coley Wallace, the two heavyweights whose Oct. 1 battle in Cleveland was lost in the World Series excitement, meet again Friday at Madison Square Garden (NBC-Radio TV)

Pistons Shave Celtics, 100-99

(By The Associated Press)

The Fort Wayne Pistons, thought to be only temporary residents of first place in the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division, look like they're going to be pretty tough to dispossess.

They won their 10th decision in their last 11 games last night, sneaking past the Boston Celtics 100-99, and stayed four games up on the Minneapolis Lakers. The Lakers, pre-season choice to repeat as Western Division champs, kept within range with an 80-73 triumph over New York.

New York, in turn, gave up second place in the Eastern Division to Philadelphia, which defeated division leading Syracuse 96-87. Milwaukee beat Rochester in the other game 86-74.

HVBL Men Drop 8 Games On Weekend

Kingston's Hudson Valley League keglers dropped 8 out of 12 games and three of four matches, including Forst Packers' 3-0 shocker at Newburgh Johnsons.

Only Jones Dairy was able to salvage a match, then by the barest margins, 2-1, on one of their all-time lows on the Bowlodrome drives 2772 — against Glenham Restaurant.

Middletown Muscos hit 2819 to cop the odd set from Rapp's Express and Middletown Gay Lounge pinned 2858 for a 2-1 decision over Elstons.

George Shufeldt fired an even 600, with 212-222-166 for Forsts. Bill Baker shot 213-205-605 and Wally Gerken 215-203-583 for the Johnsons.

S. Taylor rapped 608 (203-205-200) and R. Smith 221-582 for Middletown Muscos against Rapp's. The best local series was Fred Ferraro's 207-553.

Duquesne, Iowa, HC Are Among Victims

(By The Associated Press)

The betting today is that no college basketball team will go through the season with fewer than two or three defeats.

The campaign is less than two weeks old and already teams tapped for outstanding court seasons have been dumped unceremoniously from the unbeaten class.

Exactly half of the top ten teams in the Associated Press' pre-season poll bit the dust for the first time Saturday. They were Duquesne (No. 3), Iowa (No. 4), Holy Cross (No. 5), Niagara (No. 8) and Notre Dame (No. 9). Indiana (No. 6) was beaten earlier in the week.

IN ADDITION, 11th-ranked Oklahoma A & M was knocked off as were 12th rated St. Louis, perennially powerful Western Kentucky, North Carolina, Fordham, Army, Texas Christian and San Francisco. Duke, Penn State, Wake Forest and Kansas State also have been beaten.

La Salle and Kentucky, one-two in last week's AP poll, still were among the unbeatens but not before they were handed real, honest-to-goodness scares. The Explorers, behind from the opening whistle, were forced into overtime before eking out a 76-75 victory over Niagara. It took a desperation shot by Bob Maples with only six seconds left for La Salle to register its fourth triumph.

Kentucky had its toughest game since it last was beaten, by St. John's in 1952, edging Xavier of Ohio 73-69 for its 27th straight. The Wildcats led by only 70-69 with less than a minute remaining.

DAYTON AND North Carolina State, ranked seventh and 10th respectively, in the AP poll, improved their prospects with resounding victories. The Flyers of Ohio won their fourth in a row burying Bowling Green 109-39 and the Wolfpack from North Carolina notched their fifth straight with a 66-53 win over Eastern Kentucky.

The biggest shock was George Washington's 71-64 annual Steel Bowl triumph over Duquesne which admittedly was handicapped by the absence of Si Green, its spectacular scorer. Green was out with an attack of appendicitis. Joe Holup led the Colonials with 26 points.

Iowa's 97-94 loss to Missouri also came as a surprise since the Hawkeyes are favored to capture the Big Ten title. The Tigers, however, have indicated they are going to be one of the best in the country. The victory over Iowa came on the heels of a triumph over Indiana, Big Ten defending champion, who whipped Norte Dame 73-70 Saturday afternoon to hand the Irish their first home defeat since February, 1952.

HOLY CROSS, rated one of the best teams in the east, was rocked by St. John's of Brooklyn, blowing a 35-33 halftime lead to bow by 20 points, 93-73. Oklahoma's Aggies suffered their first loss at the hands of Illinois 59-53. The Illini, in the process of rebuilding, have been the surprise of the Big Ten.

Olson Defends Against Langlois Wednesday Night

BY JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Bobo Olson risks his "Fighter of the Year" fame as well as his world middleweight title when he defends against France's Pierre Langlois Wednesday at San Francisco.

Olson, of course, still would be honored as the outstanding boxer of the year, win or lose, but a defeat would rub most of the luster off the shiny award.

As Bobo is a 4 to 1 favorite to turn back the French challenger, he may not be taking too much of a gamble. Still, Langlois is a rugged import with an unorthodox style who can trouble anybody.

THIS WILL BE Olson's third defense of the championship he nailed down by defeating Britain's Randy Turpin last year. He whipped Kid Gavilan at Chicago last spring and got off the floor to outpoint Rocky Castellani at San Francisco Aug. 20.

Langlois hasn't been in action since he upset Joey Giardello at Madison Square Garden May 21. The Frenchman got the title shot when Giardello was forced to withdraw because of slow recovery from a knee operation.

The bout will be carried on network television (CBS).

BOB BAKER and Coley Wallace, the two heavyweights whose Oct. 1 battle in Cleveland was lost in the World Series excitement, meet again Friday at Madison Square Garden (NBC-Radio TV)

Pistons Shave Celtics, 100-99

(By The Associated Press)

The Fort Wayne Pistons, thought to be only temporary residents of first place in the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division, look like they're going to be pretty tough to dispossess.

They won their 10th decision in their last 11 games last night, sneaking past the Boston Celtics 100-99, and stayed four games up on the Minneapolis Lakers. The Lakers, pre-season choice to repeat as Western Division champs, kept within range with an 80-73 triumph over New York.

New York, in turn, gave up second place in the Eastern Division to Philadelphia, which defeated division leading Syracuse 96-87. Milwaukee beat Rochester in the other game 86-74.

HVBL Men Drop 8 Games On Weekend

Kingston's Hudson Valley League keglers dropped 8 out of 12 games and three of four matches, including Forst Packers' 3-0 shocker at Newburgh Johnsons.

Only Jones Dairy was able to salvage a match, then by the barest margins, 2-1, on one of their all-time lows on the Bowlodrome drives 2772 — against Glenham Restaurant.

Middletown Muscos hit 2819 to cop the odd set from Rapp's Express and Middletown Gay Lounge pinned 2858 for a 2-1 decision over Elstons.

Looks Like Rough Season

Five of Top Ten Teams Lose in College Games

Duquesne, Iowa, HC Are Among Victims

(By The Associated Press)

The betting today is that no college basketball team will go through the season with fewer than two or three defeats.

The campaign is less than two weeks old and already teams tapped for outstanding court seasons have been dumped unceremoniously from the unbeaten class.

Exactly half of the top ten teams in the Associated Press' pre-season poll bit the dust for the first time Saturday. They were Duquesne (No. 3), Iowa (No. 4), Holy Cross (No. 5), Niagara (No. 8) and Notre Dame (No. 9). Indiana (No. 6) was beaten earlier in the week.

IN ADDITION, 11th-ranked Oklahoma A & M was knocked off as were 12th rated St. Louis, perennially powerful Western Kentucky, North Carolina, Fordham, Army, Texas Christian and San Francisco. Duke, Penn State, Wake Forest and Kansas State also have been beaten.

La Salle and Kentucky, one-two in last week's AP poll, still were among the unbeaters but not before they were handed real, honest-to-goodness scares. The Explorers, behind from the opening whistle, were forced into overtime before eking out a 76-75 victory over Niagara. It took a desperation shot by Bob Maples with only six seconds left for La Salle to register its fourth triumph.

Kentucky had its toughest game since it last was beaten, by St. John's in 1952, edging Xavier of Ohio 73-69 for its 27th straight. The Wildcats led by only 70-69 with less than a minute remaining.

DAYTON AND North Carolina State, ranked seventh and 10th respectively, in the AP poll, improved their prospects with resounding victories. The Flyers of Ohio won their fourth in a row burying Bowling Green 109-39 and the Wolfpack from North Carolina notched their fifth straight with a 66-53 win over Eastern Kentucky.

The biggest shock was George Washington's 71-64 annual Steel Bowl triumph over Duquesne which admittedly was handicapped by the absence of Si Green , its spectacular scorer. Green was out with an attack of appendicitis. Joe Holup led the Colonials with 26 points.

Iowa's 97-94 loss to Missouri also came as a surprise since the Hawkeyes are favored to capture the Big Ten title. The Tigers, however, have indicated they are going to be one of the best in the country. The victory over Iowa came on the heels of a triumph over Indiana, Big Ten defending champion , who whipped Norte Dame 73-70 Saturday afternoon to hand the Irish their first home defeat since February, 1952.

HOLY CROSS, rated one of the best teams in the east, was rocked by St. John's of Brooklyn, blowing a 35-33 halftime lead to bow by 20 points, 93-73. Oklahoma's Aggies suffered their first loss at the hands of Illinois 59-53. The Illini, in the process of rebuilding, have been the surprise of the Big Ten.

Olson Defends Against Langlois Wednesday Night

BY JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Bobo Olson risks his "Fighter of the Year" fame as well as his world middleweight title when he defends against France's Pierre Langlois Wednesday at San Francisco.

Olson, of course, still would be honored as the outstanding boxer of the year, win or lose, but a defeat would rub most of the luster off the shiny award.

As Bobo is a 4 to 1 favorite to turn back the French challenger, he may not be taking too much of a gamble. Still, Langlois is a rugged import with an unorthodox style who can trouble anybody.

THIS WILL BE Olson's third defense of the championship he nailed down by defeating Britain's Randy Turpin last year. He whipped Kid Gavilan at Chicago last spring and got off the floor to outpoint Rocky Castellani at San Francisco Aug. 20.

Langlois hasn't been in action since he upset Joey Giardello at Madison Square Garden May 21. The Frenchman got the title shot when Giardello was forced to withdraw because of slow recovery from a knee operation.

The bout will be carried on network television (CBS).

BOB BAKER and Coley Wallace, the two heavyweights whose Oct. 1 battle in Cleveland was lost in the World Series excitement, meet again Friday at Madison Square Garden (NBC-Radio TV)

Pistons Shave Celtics, 100-99

(By The Associated Press)

The Fort Wayne Pistons, thought to be only temporary residents of first place in the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division, look like they're going to be pretty tough to dispossess.

They won their 10th decision in their last 11 games last night, sneaking past the Boston Celtics 100-99, and stayed four games up on the Minneapolis Lakers. The Lakers, pre-season choice to repeat as Western Division champs, kept within range with an 80-73 triumph over New York.

New York, in turn, gave up second place in the Eastern Division to Philadelphia, which defeated division leading Syracuse 96-87. Milwaukee beat Rochester in the other game 86-74.

HVBL Men Drop 8 Games On Weekend

Kingston's Hudson Valley League keglers dropped 8 out of 12 games and three of four matches, including Forst Packers' 3-0 shocker at Newburgh Johnsons.

Only Jones Dairy was able to salvage a match, then by the barest margins, 2-1, on one of their all-time lows on the Bowlodrome drives 2772 — against Glenham Restaurant.

Middletown Muscos hit 2819 to cop the odd set from Rapp's Express and Middletown Gay Lounge pinned 2858 for a 2-1 decision over Elstons.

George Shufeldt fired an even 600, with 212-222-166 for Forsts. Bill Baker shot 213-205-605 and Wally Gerken 215-203-583 for the Johnsons.

S. Taylor rapped 608 (203-205-200) and R. Smith 221-582 for Middletown Muscos against Rapp's. The best local series was Fred Ferraro's 207-553.

Section 1. Section 20 of an ordinance adopted by the City of Kingston on the 15th day of July, 1954, and entitled, "AN ORDINANCE DESIGNATING THE SUPERINTENDENT OF BUILDINGS AS A PUBLIC OFFICIAL AND PRESCRIBING HIS METHOD OF APPOINTMENT, COMPENSATION, POWERS AND DUTIES AND THE METHOD OF APPOINTMENT, POWERS AND DUTIES OF BUILDING INSPECTORS," is hereby amended to provide as follows:

"Section 20. (a) All buildings or structures which are structurally unsafe, unsanitary, or not provided with adequate egress, or which constitute a fire hazard, or are otherwise dangerous to human life, or which in relation to existing use constitute a hazard to safety or health by reason of inadequate maintenance, dilapidation, obsolescence or abandonment are severally, for the purpose of this Section, unsafe buildings. All such unsafe buildings are hereby declared to be illegal and shall be abated by repair, and rehabilitation or by demolition in accordance with the procedure of this section.

(b) The Superintendent of Buildings shall examine or cause to be examined every building reported as unsafe, or damaged, and shall make a written record of such examination.

(c) Whenever the Superintendent of Buildings shall find any building or structure, or portion thereof to be an unsafe building as defined in this Section, he shall, in the same manner as provided for the service of stop orders in section 13 of this Ordinance, give to the owner, agent, or person in control of such building or structure written notice stating the defects thereof. This notice shall require the owner, within a stated time, either to complete specified repairs or improvements, or to demolish and remove the building, or structure, or portion thereof.

(d) If the Superintendent of Buildings finds that there is actual and immediate danger of failure or collapse so as to endanger life, such notice shall also require the building, structure, or portion thereof to be vacated forthwith and not reoccupied until the specified repairs and improvements are completed, inspected, and approved by the building official. The Superintendent of Buildings shall cause to be posted at each entrance to such building a notice: "THIS BUILDING IS UNSAFE AND ITS USE OR OCCUPANCY HAS BEEN PROHIBITED BY THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT." Such notice shall remain posted until the required repairs are made or demolition is completed. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, or their agents or other servants to remove such notice without written permission of the Superintendent of Buildings.

(e) In case the owner, agent or person in control cannot be found within the stated time limit, or if such owner, agent or person in control shall fail, neglect, or refuse to comply with notice to repair, rehabilitate, or to demolish and remove said building, or structure, or portion thereof, the Corporation Counsel shall be advised of all of the facts in the case, and shall institute an appropriate action in the courts to compel compliance.

(f) In cases of emergency which, in the opinion of the Superintendent of Buildings, involve imminent danger to human life or health, he shall promptly cause such building, structure, or portion thereof to be made safe or removed. Sheppard Denies Divorce Letter

Cleveland, Dec. 13 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard calmly denied under a pounding cross examination today that he wrote a letter to his wife in 1950 regarding divorce.

He said the letter simply informed her that he had taken a girl to a dance.

The cross examination began early in the opening session of the ninth week of Sheppard's trial. The state accuses him of beating his wife Marilyn, to death last July 4.

As he closed the direct examination, Sheppard's lawyer William J. Corrigan asked him dramatically:

"Doctor, in your lifetime, have you ever committed any sins?"

Sheppard hesitated a moment and then said:

"Yes, sir, I have succumbed to human frailities."

Opening the cross-questioning, State's Attorney John J. Mahon went swiftly to the events of 1950 when Sheppard was finishing his internship at a Los Angeles hospital.

HIS WIFE WAS in Cleveland at the time, Sheppard said.

The accused man admitted he wrote a letter to her at that time. He said he discussed it with a classmate, Dr. Lester Hoversten.

"And he advised you not to send the letter, didn't he?" Mahon asked.

"That's my impression," Sheppard replied.

"The reason he advised you was because it was mentioned in that letter about divorce?"

Sheppard said Hoversten had a date to a hospital dance but was unable to keep it. Sheppard said he took the girl to the dance himself. Later, he said, he told his wife about this in a letter and that Hoversten advised him not to send the letter.

"DR. HOVERSTEN said Marilyn might get some wild ideas," Sheppard testified. "I said I'd rather have her hear about it from me than someone else."

Mahon then brought out the fact that Sheppard had talked with his father by telephone shortly afterwards.

"Did you talk with your father about divorce?" he asked.

Sheppard said that was not true.

"He didn't want me to bring Dr. Hoversten back to Cleveland with me," Sheppard said. "Dr. Hoversten was quite upset about it.

"I said Marilyn and my father possibly didn't understand the innocence of the situation. Dr. Hoversten wasn't trying to lead me astray."

In 1952, Hoversten did join the staff in Bay View Hospital operated by the Sheppard family. For a time he lived in the home of the accused man.

WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of Section 150 of the City Charter of the City of Kingston, New York, the Board of Public Works of said City has determined that it is desirable to construct a sanitary sewer in Lounsbury Place, as hereinafter indicated, at a maximum estimated cost of $1,500, and has determined that 25% of the cost thereof is to be paid by the City at large, and 75% of such cost by special assessment against the property immediately benefited thereby; and yesterday he expects the Democratic controlled Congress to move toward revising the administration's 1954 tax revision program so as "to spread the benefits of tax relief to a much broader mass of people." But Rep. Keating (R.-N.Y.), debating with Bolling on an NBC television program, said he thinks the Democrats will wait to move on taxes until 1956, "which is an election year."

The two House members agreed that there is likely to be little general disagreement on foreign policy.

And Sen. Sparkman (D.Ala.), his party's vice presidential nominee in 1952, said in an interview yesterday he thinks Eisenhower will get nearly solid Democratic backing for his present foreign policy course. Sparkkman said that after a bad start, the President and Dulles have "regained the initiative," and he added: "If they continue that, they will find the Democrats in Congress willing to shoulder their fair share of the burden.

SPARKMAN PREDICTED, however, that the President will confront strong Democratic opposition over power, tax, farm and some other issues.

Over the weekend, the President acted to pull together the administration's foreign economic program under the direction of Joseph M. Dodge, Detroit banker and former budget director.

Naming Dodge as a special presidential assistant, Eisenhower directed him to integrate the foreign economic program with national security and domestic economic policies.

Adlai E. Stevenson and other leading Democrats have indicated they believe the time has come to put more emphasis on economic aid in the battle against communism, particularly in Asia.

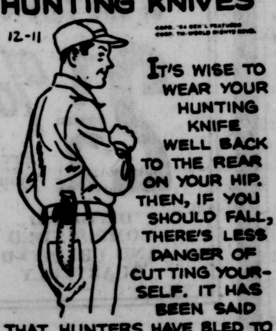
SAFETY TIPS FOR HUNTING KNIVES



Driver Is Held Leaving Scene; Two Are Injured

Warren Arthur Greene, 40, of 181 Wall street, was arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, after a mishap near 31 St. James street early Sunday.

Officers George Dougherty and Raymond Wells investigated following a report at 5:18 a. m., stating that the car of John Santandrea, of 31 St. James street, parked in front of that address, had been struck and damaged on its rear.

THEY REPORTED the arrest of Greene at 5:35 a. m., at 181 Wall street. The officers indicated they had traced Greene by the leak of a radiator, and the report said part of a bumper was found at the scene of the accident. Louise M. O'Keefe, of RD. No. 1, Box 47, was listed as the owner of the car which Greene was driving. They said he was headed west on St. James street at the time of the mishap.

Attorney Vincent G. Connelly appeared for Greene before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. He pleaded innocent and the case was put over until Dec. 21.

Michael J. Evans, 29, of 17 West Strand, suffered an injured right wrist in a mishap reported at 4:16 a. m., Sunday near 147 Hasbrouck avenue.

Officers Dougherty and Wells said the Evans sedan was headed south on Hasbrouck avenue when it collided with the sedan of Lester Smith, 24, of 147 Hasbrouck avenue, which was parked in front of that address. The latter car then collided with the sedan of Walter Smith, 38, of 144 Spring street, also parked near 147 Hasbrouck avenue.

THE EVANS car was towed from the scene, and the report said Evans claimed his "brakes gave out."

Officer Benjamin Osterhoudt, on duty at St. Joseph's Church, reported at 10:45 a. m., Sunday, that Gordon Mattice, 241 West Strand, was struck by a car, owned by Emerson Carey, Jr., of Denver, Colo., and operated by Michael David Rakov, 19, of 117 Albany avenue, as it was headed west on Main street. The report indicated that Mattice was slighly injured and was taken to Kingston Hospital by Rakov, but the extent of injury was not reported.

A report at 9:03 p. m., Sunday said the sedan of Dr. William S. Bush, of 8 John street, headed south on Fair street, came in contact with the car of William L. Morris, 21 Downs street, parked near 261 Fair street, and that of Osa J. Rider, of 24 Coffey Place, which was parked near 271 Fair street. Police said Dr. Bush reported he was forced into the cars by vehicles headed toward him.

Would Hold Rites

United Nations, Dec. 13 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold formally proposed today that the UN General Assembly hold a commemorative session in San Francisco next June. The city of San Francisco already has extended an invitation for such a meeting to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter on June 26, 1945. Hammarskjold proposed the occasion be observed by "a series of meetings for approximately two weeks, culminating in a four-day commemorative meeting of members of the General Assembly from 23 to 26 June, 1955."

Gets Soviet Position

Berlin, Dec. 13 (AP)—A member of West Germany's Parliament who defected to the Soviet zone three months ago and denounced Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's policies has been awarded a Communist government post in eastern Berlin. News of Karl Franz Schmidt-Wittmack's assignment was disclosed by the official East German news agency ADN, which listed him in a dispatch today as "vice president of the chamber of foreign trade." Schmidt-Wittmack had been a deputy of Adenauer's Christian Democratic party in the Bundestag, the Lower House of Parliament.

Students' Fine Hand Suspected in South

Occoquan, Va., Dec. 13 (AP)—Any shortage of teachers in Prince William County High School today can be blamed on a skunk, or skunks.

One or more of them made a weekend visit at a rooming house where five teachers live. As a result, at least four of them expected to remain home today.

"We've sent our clothes to the cleaners," Richard McMaster, one of the four explained. He said the fifth, Joseph Patterson, may venture out—if high school pupils are agreeable.

McMaster said the skunk—or skunks—got under the house and left his olfactory calling cards. In some quarters one could get a whiff of suspicion that high school pupils might have had something to do with the odoriferous affair.

The City of Kingston, in common council convened, does hereby ordain and enact:

Section 1. Section 20 of an ordinance adopted by the City of Kingston on the 15th day of July, 1954, and entitled, "AN ORDINANCE DESIGNATING THE SUPERINTENDENT OF BUILDINGS AS A PUBLIC OFFICIAL, AND PRESCRIBING HIS METHOD OF APPOINTMENT, COMPENSATION, POWERS AND DUTIES AND THE METHOD OF APPOINTMENT, POWERS AND DUTIES OF BUILDING INSPECTORS," is hereby amended to provide as follows:

"Section 20. (a) All buildings or structures which are structurally unsafe, unsanitary, or not provided with adequate egress, or which constitute a fire hazard, or are otherwise dangerous to human life, or which in relation to existing use constitute a hazard to safety or health by reason of inadequate maintenance, dilapidation, obselescence or abandonment are severally, for the purpose of this Section, unsafe buildings. All such unsafe buildings are hereby declared to be illegal and shall be abated by repair, and rehabilitation or by demolition in accordance with the procedure of this section.

(b) The Superintendent of Buildings shall examine or cause to be examined every building reported as unsafe, or damaged, and shall make a written record of such examination.

(c) Whenever the Superintendent of Buildings shall find any building or structure, or portion thereof to be an unsafe building as defined in this Section, he shall, in the same manner as provided for the service of stop orders in section 13 of this Ordinance, give to the owner, agent, or person in control of such building or structure written notice stating the defects thereof. This notice shall require the owner, within a stated time, either to complete specified repairs or improvements, or to demolish and remove the building, or structure, or portion thereof.

(d) If the Superintendent of Buildings finds that there is actual and immediate danger of failure or collapse so as to endanger life, such notice shall also require the building, structure, or portion thereof to be vacated forthwith and not reoccupied until the specified repairs and improvements are completed, inspected, and approved by the building official. The Superintendent of Buildings shall cause to be posted at each entrance to such building a notice: "THIS BUILDING IS UNSAFE AND ITS USE OR OCCUPANCY HAS BEEN PROHIBITED BY THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT." Such notice shall remain posted until the required repairs are made or demolition is completed. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, or their agents or other servants to remove such notice without written permission of the Superintendent of Buildings.

(e) In case the owner, agent or person in control cannot be found within the stated time limit, or if such owner, agent or person in control shall fail, neglect, or refuse to comply with notice to repair, rehabilitate, or to demolish and remove said building, or structure, or portion thereof, the Corporation Counsel shall be advised of all of the facts in the case, and shall institute an appropriate action in the courts to compel compliance.

Sheppard Denies Divorce Letter

Cleveland, Dec. 13 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard calmly denied under a pounding cross examination today that he wrote a letter to his wife in 1950 regarding divorce.

He said the letter simply informed her that he had taken a girl to a dance.

The cross examination began early in the opening session of the ninth week of Sheppard's trial. The state accuses him of beating his wife Marilyn, to death last July 4.

As he closed the direct examination, Sheppard's lawyer William J. Corrigan asked him dramatically:

"Doctor, in your lifetime, have you ever committed any sins?"

Sheppard hesitated a moment and then said:

"Yes, sir, I have succumbed to human frailities."

Opening the cross-questioning, State's Attorney John J. Mahon went swiftly to the events of 1950 when Sheppard was finishing his internship at a Los Angeles hospital.

HIS WIFE WAS in Cleveland at the time, Sheppard said.

The accused man admitted he wrote a letter to her at that time. He said he discussed it with a classmate, Dr. Lester Hoversten.

"And he advised you not to send the letter, didn't he?" Mahon asked.

"That's my impression," Sheppard replied.

"The reason he advised you was because it was mentioned in that letter about divorce?"

"No, sir, that's not correct."

Sheppard said Hoversten had a date to a hospital dance but was unable to keep it. Sheppard said he took the girl to the dance himself. Later, he said, he told his wife about this in a letter and that Hoversten advised him not to send the letter.

"DR. HOVERSTEN said Marilyn might get some wild ideas," Sheppard testified. "I said I'd rather have her hear about it from me than someone else."

Mahon then brought out the fact that Sheppard had talked with his father by telephone shortly afterwards.

"Did you talk with your father about divorce?" he asked.

Sheppard said that was not true.

"He didn't want me to bring Dr. Hoversten back to Cleveland with me," Sheppard said. "Dr. Hoversten was quite upset about it.

"I said Marilyn and my father possibly didn't understand the innocence of the situation. Dr. Hoversten wasn't trying to lead me astray."

In 1952, Hoversten did join the staff in Bay View Hospital operated by the Sheppard family. For a time he lived in the home of the accused man.

WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of Section 150 of the City Charter of the City of Kingston, New York, the Board of Public Works of said City has determined that it is desirable to construct a sanitary sewer in Lounsbury Place, as hereinafter indicated, at a maximum estimated cost of $1,500, and has determined that 25% of the cost thereof is to be paid by the City at large, and 75% of such cost by special assessment against the property immediately benefited thereby; and

WHEREAS, the Common Council of said City deems it desirable to provide for the financing of the aforesaid object or purpose; NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT

ORDAINED, by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, as follows:

Section 1. The construction of a sanitary sewer on Lounsbury Place, from Mountain View Avenue westwardly 111 feet, a public street in the City of Kingston, New York, is hereby authorized at a total estimated cost of $1,500.

Man Hurt as Car Goes Off Thruway

Herman Brandner, 52, of Westwood, N. J., was slightly injured when his automobile ran off the Thruway and struck drainage grading about two and a half miles south of Kingston at 4:15 a. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Trooper Joseph Cullen of the Thruway Patrol reported that Brandner told him he apparently "fell asleep" at the wheel. Brandner suffered minor cuts for which he will seek treatment from his own physician, according to the report. The vehicle was towed away.

Mattress Fire Is PutUnderControl

Patients remained on a lower floor until the blaze was under control. It was confined to the mattress which was removed. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy listed "smoking in bed" as a possible cause.

Men and equipment from Central, Cornell and Wiltwyck stations, and from Wicks Engine Company were dispatched to the house after a telephone call at 7:54 p. m. Rapid Hose Company covered at Central station and Union Hose Company was ordered to stand by until the fire was reported under control.

POLICE HEADQUARTERS was also notified. Officers Charles McCullough and Clarence Bilyou were dispatched to the house and Officers Edward Edwards and William Norton handled traffic at Fair and St. James streets. The police report said Officers McCullough and Bilyou assisted in getting patients to safety. None was reported injured or involved in any way.

Fifteen patients were in the house at the time, the report said. All were examined by Dr. Frederic Holcomb. The home is operated by Madeleine and Michael Wanda.

A call at 6:39 p. m., Saturday was for a chimney fire in the house of Herbert Armstrong, 56 Gage street, and another at 12:43 p. m., Sunday was to the Herzog Supply Co., building where a sprinkling system had been set off, but there was no fire.

President, GOP

yesterday he expects the Democratic controlled Congress to move toward revising the administration's 1954 tax revision program so as "to spread the benefits of tax relief to a much broader mass of people." But Rep. Keating (R.-N.Y.), debating with Bolling on an NBC television program, said he thinks the Democrats will wait to move on taxes until 1956, "which is an election year."

The two House members agreed that there is likely to be little general disagreement on foreign policy.

And Sen. Sparkman (D.Ala.), his party's vice presidential nominee in 1952, said in an interview yesterday he thinks Eisenhower will get nearly solid Democratic backing for his present foreign policy course. Sparkkman said that after a bad start, the President and Dulles have "regained the initiative," and he added: "If they continue that, they will find the Democrats in Congress willing to shoulder their fair share of the burden.

SPARKMAN PREDICTED, however, that the President will confront strong Democratic opposition over power, tax, farm and some other issues.

Over the weekend, the President acted to pull together the administration's foreign economic program under the direction of Joseph M. Dodge, Detroit banker and former budget director.

Naming Dodge as a special presidential assistant, Eisenhower directed him to integrate the foreign economic program with national security and domestic economic policies.

Adlai E. Stevenson and other leading Democrats have indicated they believe the time has come to put more emphasis on economic aid in the battle against communism, particularly in Asia.

Dulles and others in the administration have indicated they share this view.

SAFETY TIPS FOR HUNTING KNIVES

Driver Is Held Leaving Scene; Two Are Injured

Two persons were injured slightly and a driver was arrested in four city traffic mishaps over the weekend.

Warren Arthur Greene, 40, of 181 Wall street, was arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, after a mishap near 31 St. James street early Sunday.

Officers George Dougherty and Raymond Wells investigated following a report at 5:18 a. m., stating that the car of John Santandrea, of 31 St. James street, parked in front of that address, had been struck and damaged on its rear.

THEY REPORTED the arrest of Greene at 5:35 a. m., at 181 Wall street. The officers indicated they had traced Greene by the leak of a radiator, and the report said part of a bumper was found at the scene of the accident. Louise M. O'Keefe, of RD. No. 1, Box 47, was listed as the owner of the car which Greene was driving. They said he was headed west on St. James street at the time of the mishap.

Attorney Vincent G. Connelly appeared for Greene before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. He pleaded innocent and the case was put over until Dec. 21.

Michael J. Evans, 29, of 17 West Strand, suffered an injured right wrist in a mishap reported at 4:16 a. m., Sunday near 147 Hasbrouck avenue.

Officers Dougherty and Wells said the Evans sedan was headed south on Hasbrouck avenue when it collided with the sedan of Lester Smith, 24, of 147 Hasbrouck avenue, which was parked in front of that address. The latter car then collided with the sedan of Walter Smith, 38, of 144 Spring street, also parked near 147 Hasbrouck avenue.

THE EVANS car was towed from the scene, and the report said Evans claimed his "brakes gave out."

Officer Benjamin Osterhoudt, on duty at St. Joseph's Church, reported at 10:45 a. m., Sunday, that Gordon Mattice, 241 West Strand, was struck by a car, owned by Emerson Carey, Jr., of Denver, Colo., and operated by Michael David Rakov, 19, of 117 Albany avenue, as it was headed west on Main street. The report indicated that Mattice was slighly injured and was taken to Kingston Hospital by Rakov, but the extent of injury was not reported.

A report at 9:03 p. m., Sunday said the sedan of Dr. William S. Bush, of 8 John street, headed south on Fair street, came in contact with the car of William L. Morris, 21 Downs street, parked near 261 Fair street, and that of Osa J. Rider, of 24 Coffey Place, which was parked near 271 Fair street. Police said Dr. Bush reported he was forced into the cars by vehicles headed toward him.

Would Hold Rites

United Nations, Dec. 13 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold formally proposed today that the UN General Assembly hold a commemorative session in San Francisco next June. The city of San Francisco already has extended an invitation for such a meeting to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter on June 26, 1945. Hammarskjold proposed the occasion be observed by "a series of meetings for approximately two weeks, culminating in a four-day, commemorative meeting of members of the General Assembly from 23 to 26 June, 1955."

Gets Soviet Position

Berlin, Dec. 13 (AP)—A member of West Germany's Parliament who defected to the Soviet zone three months ago and denounced Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's policies has been awarded a Communist government post in eastern Berlin. News of Karl Franz Schmidt-Wittmack's assignment was disclosed by the official East German news agency ADN, which listed him in a dispatch today as "vice president of the chamber of foreign trade." Schmidt-Wittmack had been a deputy of Adenauer's Christian Democratic party in the Bundestag, the Lower House of Parliament.

Students' Fine Hand Suspected in South

Occoquan, Va., Dec. 13 (AP)—Any shortage of teachers in Prince William County High School today can be blamed on a skunk, or skunks.

One or more of them made a weekend visit at a rooming house where five teachers live. As a result, at least four of them expected to remain home today.

"We've sent our clothes to the cleaners," Richard McMaster, one of the four explained. He said the fifth, Joseph Patterson, may venture out—if high school pupils are agreeable.

McMaster said the skunk—or skunks—got under the house and left his olfactory calling cards. In some quarters one could get a whiff of suspicion that high school pupils might have had something to do with the odoriferous affair.

Sheppard Denies Divorce Letter

Cleveland, Dec. 13 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard calmly denied under a pounding cross examination today that he wrote a letter to his wife in 1950 regarding divorce.

He said the letter simply informed her that he had taken a girl to a dance.

The cross examination began early in the opening session of the ninth week of Sheppard's trial. The state accuses him of beating his wife Marilyn, to death last July 4.

As he closed the direct examination, Sheppard's lawyer William J. Corrigan asked him dramatically:

"Doctor, in your lifetime, have you ever committed any sins?"

Sheppard hesitated a moment and then said:

"Yes, sir, I have succumbed to human frailities."

Opening the cross-questioning, State's Attorney John J. Mahon went swiftly to the events of 1950 when Sheppard was finishing his internship at a Los Angeles hospital.

HIS WIFE WAS in Cleveland at the time, Sheppard said.

The accused man admitted he wrote a letter to her at that time. He said he discussed it with a classmate, Dr. Lester Hoversten.

"And he advised you not to send the letter, didn't he?" Mahon asked.

"That's my impression," Sheppard replied.

"The reason he advised you was because it was mentioned in that letter about divorce?"

"No, sir, that's not correct."

Sheppard said Hoversten had a date to a hospital dance but was unable to keep it. Sheppard said he took the girl to the dance himself. Later, he said, he told his wife about this in a letter and that Hoversten advised him not to send the letter.

"DR. HOVERSTEN said Marilyn might get some wild ideas," Sheppard testified. "I said I'd rather have her hear about it from me than someone else."

Mahon then brought out the fact that Sheppard had talked with his father by telephone shortly afterwards.

"Did you talk with your father about divorce?" he asked.

Sheppard said that was not true.

"He didn't want me to bring Dr. Hoversten back to Cleveland with me," Sheppard said. "Dr. Hoversten was quite upset about it.

"I said Marilyn and my father possibly didn't understand the innocence of the situation. Dr. Hoversten wasn't trying to lead me astray."

In 1952, Hoversten did join the staff in Bay View Hospital operated by the Sheppard family. For a time he lived in the home of the accused man.

WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of Section 150 of the City Charter of the City of Kingston, New York, the Board of Public Works of said City has determined that it is desirable to construct a sanitary sewer in Lounsbury Place, as hereinafter indicated, at a maximum estimated cost of $1,500, and has determined that 25% of the cost thereof is to be paid by the City at large, and 75% of such cost by special assessment against the property immediately benefited thereby; and

WHEREAS, the Common Council of said City deems it desirable to provide for the financing of the aforesaid object or purpose; NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT

ORDAINED, by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, as follows:

Section 1. The construction of a sanitary sewer on Lounsbury Place, from Mountain View Avenue westwardly 111 feet, a public street in the City of Kingston, New York, is hereby authorized at a total estimated cost of $1,500.

Section 2. The plan of financing such object or purpose is as follows:

a) 25% of the aforesaid total cost shall be paid by the City at large; and
b) 75% of the aforesaid total cost shall be assessed against the property immediately benefited thereby.

Man Hurt as Car Goes Off Thruway

Herman Brandner, 52, of Westwood, N. J., was slightly injured when his automobile ran off the Thruway and struck drainage grading about two and a half miles south of Kingston at 4:15 a. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Trooper Joseph Cullen of the Thruway Patrol reported that Brandner told him he apparently "fell asleep" at the wheel. Brandner suffered minor cuts for which he will seek treatment from his own physician, according to the report. The vehicle was towed away.

Mattress Fire Is PutUnderControl

Patients remained on a lower floor until the blaze was under control. It was confined to the mattress which was removed. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy listed "smoking in bed" as a possible cause.

Men and equipment from Central, Cornell and Wiltwyck stations, and from Wicks Engine Company were dispatched to the house after a telephone call at 7:54 p. m. Rapid Hose Company covered at Central station and Union Hose Company was ordered to stand by until the fire was reported under control.

POLICE HEADQUARTERS was also notified. Officers Charles McCullough and Clarence Bilyou were dispatched to the house and Officers Edward Edwards and William Norton handled traffic at Fair and St. James streets. The police report said Officers McCullough and Bilyou assisted in getting patients to safety. None was reported injured or involved in any way.

Fifteen patients were in the house at the time, the report said. All were examined by Dr. Frederic Holcomb. The home is operated by Madeleine and Michael Wanda.

A call at 6:39 p. m., Saturday was for a chimney fire in the house of Herbert Armstrong, 56 Gage street, and another at 12:43 p. m., Sunday was to the Herzog Supply Co., building where a sprinkling system had been set off, but there was no fire.

President, GOP

yesterday he expects the Democratic controlled Congress to move toward revising the administration's 1954 tax revision program so as "to spread the benefits of tax relief to a much broader mass of people." But Rep. Keating (R.-N.Y.), debating with Bolling on an NBC television program, said he thinks the Democrats will wait to move on taxes until 1956, "which is an election year."

The two House members agreed that there is likely to be little general disagreement on foreign policy.

And Sen. Sparkman (D.Ala.), his party's vice presidential nominee in 1952, said in an interview yesterday he thinks Eisenhower will get nearly solid Democratic backing for his present foreign policy course. Sparkkman said that after a bad start, the President and Dulles have "regained the initiative," and he added: "If they continue that, they will find the Democrats in Congress willing to shoulder their fair share of the burden.

SPARKMAN PREDICTED, however, that the President will confront strong Democratic opposition over power, tax, farm and some other issues.

Over the weekend, the President acted to pull together the administration's foreign economic program under the direction of Joseph M. Dodge, Detroit banker and former budget director.

Naming Dodge as a special presidential assistant, Eisenhower directed him to integrate the foreign economic program with national security and domestic economic policies.

Adlai E. Stevenson and other leading Democrats have indicated they believe the time has come to put more emphasis on economic aid in the battle against communism, particularly in Asia.

Dulles and others in the administration have indicated they share this view.

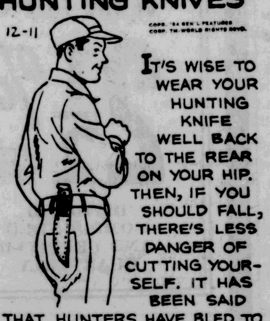
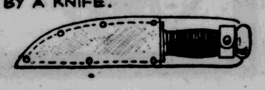
SAFETY TIPS FOR HUNTING KNIVES



IT'S WISE TO WEAR YOUR HUNTING KNIFE WELL BACK TO THE REAR ON YOUR HIP. THEN, IF YOU SHOULD FALL, THERE'S LESS DANGER OF CUTTING YOURSELF. IT HAS BEEN SAID THAT HUNTERS HAVE BLED TO DEATH WHEN ACCIDENTALLY CUT IN THE GROIN BY A KNIFE WORN IN FRONT.

YOUR KNIFE-SHEATH SHOULD BE REINFORCED AROUND THE STITCHING WITH RIVETS AS AN EXTRA PRECAUTION. STITCHING ALONE CAN BE CUT THROUGH BY A KNIFE.



Driver Is Held Leaving Scene; Two Are Injured

Two persons were injured slightly and a driver was arrested in four city traffic mishaps over the weekend.

Warren Arthur Greene, 40, of 181 Wall street, was arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, after a mishap near 31 St. James street early Sunday.

Officers George Dougherty and Raymond Wells investigated following a report at 5:18 a. m., stating that the car of John Santandrea, of 31 St. James street, parked in front of that address, had been struck and damaged on its rear.

THEY REPORTED the arrest of Greene at 5:35 a. m., at 181 Wall street. The officers indicated they had traced Greene by the leak of a radiator, and the report said part of a bumper was found at the scene of the accident. Louise M. O'Keefe, of RD. No. 1, Box 47, was listed as the owner of the car which Greene was driving. They said he was headed west on St. James street at the time of the mishap.

Attorney Vincent G. Connelly appeared for Greene before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. He pleaded innocent and the case was put over until Dec. 21.

Michael J. Evans, 29, of 17 West Strand, suffered an injured right wrist in a mishap reported at 4:16 a. m., Sunday near 147 Hasbrouck avenue.

Officers Dougherty and Wells said the Evans sedan was headed south on Hasbrouck avenue when it collided with the sedan of Lester Smith, 24, of 147 Hasbrouck avenue, which was parked in front of that address. The latter car then collided with the sedan of Walter Smith, 38, of 144 Spring street, also parked near 147 Hasbrouck avenue.

THE EVANS car was towed from the scene, and the report said Evans claimed his "brakes gave out."

Officer Benjamin Osterhoudt, on duty at St. Joseph's Church, reported at 10:45 a. m., Sunday, that Gordon Mattice, 241 West Strand, was struck by a car, owned by Emerson Carey, Jr., of Denver, Colo., and operated by Michael David Rakov, 19, of 117 Albany avenue, as it was headed west on Main street. The report indicated that Mattice was slighly injured and was taken to Kingston Hospital by Rakov, but the extent of injury was not reported.

A report at 9:03 p. m., Sunday said the sedan of Dr. William S. Bush, of 8 John street, headed south on Fair street, came in contact with the car of William L. Morris, 21 Downs street, parked near 261 Fair street, and that of Osa J. Rider, of 24 Coffey Place, which was parked near 271 Fair street. Police said Dr. Bush reported he was forced into the cars by vehicles headed toward him.

Would Hold Rites

United Nations, Dec. 13 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold formally proposed today that the UN General Assembly hold a commemorative session in San Francisco next June. The city of San Francisco already has extended an invitation for such a meeting to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter on June 26, 1945. Hammarskjold proposed the occasion be observed by "a series of meetings for approximately two weeks, culminating in a four-day commemorative meeting of members of the General Assembly from 23 to 26 June, 1955."

Gets Soviet Position

Berlin, Dec. 13 (AP)—A member of West Germany's Parliament who defected to the Soviet zone three months ago and denounced Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's policies has been awarded a Communist government post in eastern Berlin. News of Karl Franz Schmidt-Wittmack's assignment was disclosed by the official East German news agency ADN, which listed him in a dispatch today as "vice president of the chamber of foreign trade." Schmidt-Wittmack had been a deputy of Adenauer's Christian Democratic party in the Bundestag, the Lower House of Parliament.

Students' Fine Hand Suspected in South

Occoquan, Va., Dec. 13 (AP)—Any shortage of teachers in Prince William County High School today can be blamed on a skunk, or skunks.

One or more of them made a weekend visit at a rooming house where five teachers live. As a result, at least four of them expected to remain home today.

"We've sent our clothes to the cleaners," Richard McMaster, one of the four explained. He said the fifth, Joseph Patterson, may venture out—if high school pupils are agreeable.

McMaster said the skunk—or skunks—got under the house and left his olfactory calling cards. In some quarters one could get a whiff of suspicion that high school pupils might have had something to do with the odoriferous affair.

All Agencies Turn

New Mexico and Arizona will have a special low-state-wins showdown.

Seattle challenged Portland, Ore. Tampa, Fla., challenged Miami, Jacksonville and St. Petersburg.

Mayor Fred Hervey of El Paso, Tex., called upon Phoenix, Ariz., to match accident records Wednesday in what has been dubbed the "first annual safety bowl." Frank Murphy, the Phoenix mayor, accepted. Austin, Tex., Albany, N. Y., and Sacramento, Calif., were invited to join in the competition.

A 24-hour highway law enforcement program, to be handled by 8,000 state and local policemen, will be in force in Massachusetts.

Church bells will toll a reminder at 9 a. m. in Tampa, Fla. Civil Air Patrol planes equipped with loud speakers will fly over Tampa at 11 a. m. to sound warnings from on high.

The National Safety Council estimates 50 million motor vehicles and about 150 million drivers, riders and walkers will be on the roads and streets Wednesday.

But there also is considerable room for improvement in the nation's safety record. Last year traffic accidents averaged about 27,000 per day. Motor vehicle deaths, through the first ten months of this year, averaged 97 per day.

Natural Gas Break

by midnight crews had installed a by-pass around the sand pile over the second break, feeding back into the supply line to the gas works. Since midnight last night, natural gas has been feeding into the system, and customers will notice the normal color of flame will gradually be restored today.

Repair work will continue on the main transmission line at the point where it is by-passed.

Cause of the break has not been determined, according to Strong.

Held for Grand Jury

Accused with two younger boys of the theft of rifles and ammunition from Camp Alert, Bluejackets camp on Glenford Mountain, Kenneth Ronald May, 16, of Wittenberg was arrested on a third degree burglary charge Saturday by Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the state police Bureau of Criminal Investigation. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Joseph Forno of Woodstock, May waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action.

Will Turn Over Ships

Pusan, Korea, Dec. 13 (AP)—The United States will turn four LSTs (landing ships, tank) over to the South Korean navy at Chinhae Dec. 20, a South Korean spokesman said today. Other ships are expected to be added later under a general agreement to build up the Korean Republic's navy. It has only a few patrol frigates and some smaller ships.

Ulster Realtors Elect Officers

Benson A. Krom, of Krom and Canavan, was unanimously elected president of the Ulster County Real Estate Board for 1955 at the annual meeting of the board held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday evening.

Reelected to serve with Krom were Frederick Dircks of Woodstock as vice president; A. J. Burns, treasurer, and Marguerite M. Quick, secretary. Krom succeeds Lawrence J. MacAvery, who has served as president of the board for the past three years and who is now serving as regional vice president of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards.

It was also announced that the annual dinner of the Ulster County Real Estate Board would be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday evening, January 20, at which time State President Ralph Borchard of Rochester will install the new officers and be the principal speaker. The Board intends to include the Realtor pledge ceremonies in its program and in all probabilities it will be administered by Vice President MacAvery.

MEMBERS of the nominating committee were Edward C. O'Connor, Raymond E. Craft and John Hathmaker. Arrangements for the annual dinner will be made by a committee including A. J. Burns, George Moore and President Krom.

Several matters of importance were brought before the Board for consideration, including an extensive advertising campaign for the year 1955 and all realtors in this area will participate in this program.

New Mexico and Arizona will have a special low-state-wins showdown.

Seattle challenged Portland, Ore. Tampa, Fla., challenged Miami, Jacksonville and St. Petersburg.

Mayor Fred Hervey of El Paso, Tex., called upon Phoenix, Ariz., to match accident records Wednesday in what has been dubbed the "first annual safety bowl." Frank Murphy, the Phoenix mayor, accepted. Austin, Tex., Albany, N. Y., and Sacramento, Calif., were invited to join in the competition.

A 24-hour highway law enforcement program, to be handled by 8,000 state and local policemen, will be in force in Massachusetts.

Church bells will toll a reminder at 9 a. m. in Tampa, Fla. Civil Air Patrol planes equipped with loud speakers will fly over Tampa at 11 a. m. to sound warnings from on high.

Traffic will halt at 11 a. m. for a minute of prayer in Norfolk, Va.

Plans have been worked out in Seattle, Wash., to distribute accident reports to newsrooms at 15 minute intervals.

The National Safety Council estimates 50 million motor vehicles and about 150 million drivers, riders and walkers will be on the roads and streets Wednesday.

They represent a tremendous exposure to hazard.

But there also is considerable room for improvement in the nation's safety record. Last year traffic accidents averaged about 27,000 per day. Motor vehicle deaths, through the first ten months of this year, averaged 97 per day.

Traffic officials in Washington, D. C., plan to carry the safe driving program through the holiday period ahead.

Ulster Realtors Elect Officers

Benson A. Krom, of Krom and Canavan, was unanimously elected president of the Ulster County Real Estate Board for 1955 at the annual meeting of the board held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday evening.

Reelected to serve with Krom were Frederick Dircks of Woodstock as vice president; A. J. Burns, treasurer, and Marguerite M. Quick, secretary. Krom succeeds Lawrence J. MacAvery, who has served as president of the board for the past three years and who is now serving as regional vice president of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards.

It was also announced that the annual dinner of the Ulster County Real Estate Board would be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday evening, January 20, at which time State President Ralph Borchard of Rochester will install the new officers and be the principal speaker. The Board intends to include the Realtor pledge ceremonies in its program and in all probabilities it will be administered by Vice President MacAvery.

MEMBERS of the nominating committee were Edward C. O'Connor, Raymond E. Craft and John Hathmaker. Arrangements for the annual dinner will be made by a committee including A. J. Burns, George Moore and President Krom.

Several matters of importance were brought before the Board for consideration, including an extensive advertising campaign for the year 1955 and all realtors in this area will participate in this program.

Accused with two younger boys of the theft of rifles and ammunition from Camp Alert, Bluejackets camp on Glenford Mountain, Kenneth Ronald May, 16, of Wittenberg was arrested on a third degree burglary charge Saturday by Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the state police Bureau of Criminal Investigation. Will Turn Over Ships

Pusan, Korea, Dec. 13 (AP)—The United States will turn four LSTs (landing ships, tank) over to the South Korean navy at Chinhae Dec. 20, a South Korean spokesman said today. Other ships are expected to be added later under a general agreement to build up the Korean Republic's navy. It has only a few patrol frigates and some smaller ships.

Natural Gas Break

by midnight crews had installed a by-pass around the sand pile over the second break, feeding back into the supply line to the gas works. Since midnight last night, natural gas has been feeding into the system, and customers will notice the normal color of flame will gradually be restored today.

Repair work will continue on the main transmission line at the point where it is by-passed.

Cause of the break has not been determined, according to Strong.
